DRAFT MEASURE TO FREE UNIONS OF RACKETEERS

Would Ban Felons, Require Audits.

A bill designed to outlaw labor racketeers in Illinois has been prepared for introduction in the legislature next month, it was learned yesterday. Support will be given the measure by the Illinois division of the National Small Business Men's association.

Frederick A. Virkus.

Frederick A. Virkus, president of the Small Business Men's association, asserted that any one observing the operation of labor unions must admit that many are badly governed. Labor racketeers, he said, have amassed large fortunes with money extorted alike from workers, business men, and the consuming public.

Six Points in Bill.

"We will work for the bill because our directors believe that gangsters should have no leadership in labor organizations," Virkus continued. "It is high time that something is done to remedy the terrible conditions prevailing today."

The proposed state law would have six main points:

1—No one convicted of a felony could serve as an official or business agent of a union.

2—Noncitizens would be barred from serving in these capacities.

3—Union officials would be required to have served at least three years as a member of the trade or craft which they represent.

4—Unions and their officers and agents would be required to register with the secretary of state before organizing or collecting fees.

5—Annual reports would be required of unions, including financial statements showing collections and disbursements and the purposes for which money was spent.

6—Unions would be prohibited from contributing to political parties and candidates.

Approves Honest Unions.

The bill was prepared by State Representative Robert M. Woodward, Chicago Republican, after a study of the recent history of labor organizations.

"Let me state at the outset that I am a friend of organized labor," said Woodward. "I am in sympathy with the honest cause of the labor movement, and this is shown by my eight years' record at Springfield in behalf of laboring men and women.

"But I am against the labor racketeer who sets himself up as a dictator, using strong arm methods, coercion, and terrorism to become an overlord of his fellow men."

More than one billion dollars a year is being collected in fees, assessments, dues, and fines by the unions, but little information is given to the members concerning the use of the money, Woodward said.

No Remedy at Law.

"Under existing statutes of Illinois there is no available remedy for the members of labor unions to compel an accounting by officials," Woodward said. "Nor is there any means of protecting industries driven to bankruptcy and ruin thru improper and unnecessary strikes.

"The consuming public is without protection from injury suffered because of jurisdictional disputes, strikes, and lawless molestation, blocking of trade and commerce by labor bosses and racketeers.

"Racketeering must cease, and every racketeer must be driven out of this community before it is too late."

Woodward did not name any labor racketeer, but his remarks recalled several recent disclosures of gangster influence in unions. George Scalise, an ex-convict, was convicted of stealing from the Building Service Employés International union after he muscled into the presidency thru his gangster connections.

Willie Bioff, boss of 35,000 members of the International Association of Theatrical Stage Employés, was required to serve six months in the Bridewell for pandering, a sentence which he avoided serving after his conviction in 1922. State's Attorney Courtney is now trying to free the Chicago Bartenders' union from the influence of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and his gang.

NAZI BOMBS SET HUNDREDS OF FIRES IN LONDON

Call Every Fireman; Casualties Heavy.

LONDON, Dec. 30, Monday [Via Trans-Atlantic Telephone] (AP).—London early today fought hundreds of towering flames set by waves of German bombers.

Every fireman—thousands upon thousands—in the vast London area was called out, and more thousands of volunteers joined in the battle in the débris-littered streets.

Low water pressure hampered their efforts, but a rain storm sweeping in from the German held continent aided their efforts.

Damage ran into "millions of pounds," and casualties were believed extraordinarily heavy in a pre-midnight raid that turned the horizon scarlet at dawn.

Fighter Planes Battle.

At the height of the raid, launched by hundreds of attackers, ground workers toiling desperately to control the flames saw squadron after squadron of Spitfire and Hurricane fighter planes dive into the midst of the bombers under a roof of brightly illuminated clouds.

The German raiders sought refuge in those clouds.

One famous church designed by Sir Christopher Wren was smashed, but scores of hastily recruited messenger boys and janitors in the neighborhood dashed into the flaming structure and rescued many priceless relics just before the roof collapsed.

The fires could be seen for miles—great pillars of flames that swept the clouds and illuminated the sky clashes between the attacking and defending planes.

Many persons witnessed this gripping battle despite the rain of explosive bombs dropped down toward the beacon fires.

Water Pressure Goes Low.

Across this fire swept panorama in the capital were the struggling shadows of the firemen and volunteers who were tossing hundreds of geysers of water and bags of sand on the flames.

But there were so many fires that the water pressure went low. Many extra pumps were rolled into use.

Cable communications from London to New York were disrupted and wireless contact, too, for a time. After a lapse of several hours the Associated Press correspondent succeeded in getting New York by telephone.

Waves of bombers apparently carrying cargoes of incendiary bombs—and no explosives—attacked the capital just after dark. They hurled hundreds upon hundreds of blazing missiles to light the way for the raiders, who followed with ton upon ton of heavy explosive bombs.

People Rush to Shelters.

Sensing another ferocious attack, London's millions darted down subway entrances to safety. Others took refuge in their backyard steel huts distributed by the government.

Hundreds of rooftop fire "spotters" stuck to their posts, and it is believed that many of these figured in the mounting casualty list.

Many air raid workers were believed to have died in the desperate task of battling and subduing fires.

For hours after the alarm sounded hardly a minute passed without the sharp crack of antiaircraft fire and the crash of heavy bombs.

Hear Guns in the Sky.

The antiaircraft barrage stopped suddenly when R. A. F. fighter planes took up the defense. Machine gunning high in the night sky could be heard plainly.

[Other messages from London indicated that the building housing the Associated Press, at 20 Tudor street, in central London, was hit in the bombardment, but that there were no casualties. Extent of damage was not given. This would be the third time that the AP building has been damaged by bombs, altho not greatly.]

The British air ministry touched on Saturday night's violent raids on the "invasion" and "blockade" bases on the French coast only slightly today.

In spite of unfavorable weather, it declared, the R. A. F. bombed oil supplies at Rotterdam and Antwerp, the ports of Boulogne and Cherbourg, and the submarine base at Lorient, France. Two planes were lost in the operations.

Hitler's Balkan Army Reaches Bulgar Border

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 29 (AP).—The advance guard of part of the great German expeditionary force now fanning out in southeastern Europe reached the Bulgarian frontier today. Bulgars, in anxious tension, wondered where and how far it would spread.

[Bulgaria is a potential avenue to Greece, or Turkey or the Russian dominated Black sea.]

Informed quarters said Bulgaria was likely to permit passage of German troops, under protest, recognizing the "futility" of armed resistance. Frontier district reports said fresh Nazi troops could be seen taking up positions, occupying barracks, and arraying equipment at Giurgiu, on the Rumanian side of the border, across the ice blocked Danube from Rustchuk.

King Consults with Premier.

Churning masses of ice in the Danube, some observers thought, may hold the Germans in check for a time, even if the Berlin high command plans to send them into Bulgaria.

The situation in Bulgaria grew tense. King Boris conferred with Premier Bogdan Philoff as political circles speculated on the possibility that German pressure would produce a government crisis.

Claim 600,000 Nazis on Move.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 29 (AP).—Estimates of the number of German troops moving across Hungary rose from the original 300,000 to 600,000 today as reports indicated that at least some of them might remain in Hungary. The bulk of them were bound for Rumania.

Hungary's minister of agriculture, Michael Teleki, resigned today because, it was reported, he differed with the government over the mass movement of German troops thru Hungary.

Reports trickling thru the Rumanian censorship indicated that most of the Germans moved directly into camps and barracks previously prepared in western Rumania, between Arad and Timisoara near the Jugo-Slav frontier and along the southern Rumanian border between Giurgui and the Black sea opposite Bulgaria.

Jugo-Slav Reaction.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 29 (AP).—The Belgrade newspaper Vreme, mouthpiece of the Jugo-Slav foreign office, commenting today on entrance of fresh German troops into Rumania, said:

"The reënforcements which German garrisons in Rumania are receiving these days will be used, it seems, rather to consolidate the present order in the Danubian region than for operations south of Rumania."

Battle in Atlantic; 2 Versions

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP).—A British cruiser attacked and chased a "powerful enemy surface raider" preying on a North Atlantic convoy on Christmas morning and, in the pursuit, sank a German vessel believed to have been the raider's supply ship, the admiralty disclosed today. The Nazi warship was said to have suffered at least one square hit.

The cruiser, the 10,000 ton Berwick, was damaged slightly, it was acknowledged. This was the second time within a month that the Berwick bore the scars of a sea battle and the communique disclosed for the first time that it had been transferred from Mediterranean service against Italy to convoy duty in the Atlantic.

Altho the Berwick lost the raider, which may have been a fast 10,000 ton German pocket battleship, it sank the German steamer Baden, an 8,024 ton vessel.

One Ship of Convoy Hit.

The admiralty acknowledged that one ship of the convoy "was hit and received slight damage" before the British escort gave chase.

The Berwick remains at sea as an "effective unit" of the British fleet despite its damage, the admiralty said. It acknowledged there had been five casualties.

The question of strengthening protection for convoys crossing the North Atlantic is known to have been gravely considered by Britain's sea lords because of increasing submarine attacks.

But there has been nothing to suggest that first class cruisers, such as the Berwick, would be used more extensively henceforth instead of auxiliary merchant cruisers and destroyers which have had the chief rôles as convoy shepherds so far.

Blame Poor Visibility.

"The enemy withdrew at high speed as soon as he realized the convoy was escorted," the admiralty communique related. "Our escorting force immediately gave chase and was able to engage the enemy at long range.

"The visibility, which had been variable, decreased rapidly until it was reduced to half a mile.

"One shell was seen to burst amidships on the enemy but it is not possible to state the extent of the further damages inflicted by our gunfire."

During the pursuit in low visibility, it added, the Berwick encountered the Baden but she "immediately set herself on fire and had to be sunk by one of our warships."

An admiralty spokesman added nothing to the matter of fact communique except that the raider apparently got far more than it expected when it encountered the Berwick.

Naval circles considered it unlikely that the Berwick's presence with the convoy was a deliberate trap, since the raider was attacked first and the supply ship apparently was discovered accidentally later.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The efforts of German and Italian U-boats to paralyze British shipping in the Atlantic now are being supported by German surface raiders of considerable fighting strength and are continuing with redoubled force, it was disclosed today.

Today's high command communique stated that German surface units attacked a British convoy in the Atlantic, sank a 6,000 ton merchantman by gunfire and torpedoes, damaged another freighter seriously, and inflicted heavy punishment on an escorting British cruiser.

Enemy Forced to Withdraw.

The high command communique declared that because of the hits scored on the 8 inch gun cruiser escorting the convoy, the British vessel was compelled to break off the engagement. The Germans said their own men o' war were undamaged.

The account of the engagement gave the impression that the Germans employed war vessels of relatively high fighting strength, possibly two heavy cruisers, since the outcome of the engagement appeared to indicate a German superiority.

Germany presumably has three heavy cruisers of the 10,000 ton Hipper class—the Hipper, Prinz Eugen, and the Seydlitz—and a fourth which was under construction at the beginning of the war may have been completed.

The heavy cruisers are regarded as a particular menace to British shipping in view of the asserted heavy losses Britain has suffered in this class of warships. Britain had 15 at the beginning of the war.

Not Confined to Atlantic.

The Germans take particular note of the fact that the British have seen fit to detail one of their precious heavy cruisers to convoy duty.

The Germans also made mention that their raiders' operations are not confined to the Atlantic. They announced the shelling of Nauru, British mandated island in the Pacific, by a vessel flying the German flag, but did not disclose whether it was an auxiliary cruiser or a regular warship.

The statement did not tell the German people of the Australian charge that the ship approached Nauru under the Japanese flag, changing at the last moment before firing. It merely stated that German ships "engaged in action only under German colors. Other foreign reports are not true."

SPEECH IS MOST WARLIKE SO FAR, SENATORS' VIEW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—Noninterventionist leaders in congress described President Roosevelt's radio address tonight as the most warlike he has uttered thus far.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said the speech "practically amounted to a declaration of war."

The noninterventionists generally deplored the President's deprecation of all effort to ascertain a possible basis for a negotiated peace. His position, they declared, commits this country to the support of Great Britain in a war to the finish even if it means military intervention by the United States.

Want Defense Facts.

The noninterventionists also said the President failed to tell the American people the facts of the national defense program and the reasons for its lack of progress. While approving his program of aiding Great Britain, they insisted that the defenses of this country must be denuded if the danger is as great as the President says it is.

Senator Wheeler said he thought "it was beneath the dignity of the President to attempt to intimidate all those who disagree with him by intimating that they are fifth columnists or agents of foreign powers."

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] said: "I regret that President Roosevelt did not tell the people explicitly and clearly what we are doing for our national defense and why it has not gone forward with greater celerity. I regret also that the President didn't say the United States is not now in the European war and is not going into that war. Those two statements would have given great consolation to the American people."

Denounced by Holt.

Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] said: "The President was not frank. He knows the program he advocates means war. His whole scheme is to force the axis powers to declare war on us and then claim we must defend ourselves. I have no confidence in his statement that no soldiers will be sent. His action will force the creation of another A. E. F. The spirit of Christmas does not seem to have affected the President.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] declared: "The President made a powerful statement of his position. I agree with his denunciation of an appeasement peace. A demand for a statement of war objectives from the belligerents would make it undeniably clear whether no other peace is possible. If so, there is clear need for all possible aid to England under the policy to which we are already committed. But the grave question of judgment always remains as to the extent to which we should use our defense facilities to build our own preparedness against a crisis in both oceans toward which we race.

Another "Grave Question."

"The grave question remains whether we shall stay short of war. I agree in any event to the demand for maximum defense production with a realism thus far sadly lacking. I still think that if the President would let us see the 1939 report of his war resources board some of the necessary realism would at last become apparent."

Senator William Bulow [D., S. D.] said: "I don't see how it exactly squares with preëlection pledges to keep this country out of war."

Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.] said: "The President's speech left me feeling that we are nearer—pretty close to war. I'm for keeping out of that war over there; I'm against any active participation.

HIRAM JOHNSON ANNOUNCES HE'S OFF TO THE WARS

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 29 (AP).—Senator Hiram W. Johnson departed today for Washington, D. C., and the opening of the 77th congress, with the remark that he was "off to the wars."

"The President said he hates war, so maybe he won't get in it," said the Republican legislator and veteran isolationist. "Of course, he's only going to have an army of four million men. Maybe he'll send them down to Tierra del Fuego."

Johnson will start his fifth term as senator when congress convenes Jan. 6.

British Radio Broadcasts Roosevelt Talk in German

New York, Dec. 30, Monday (AP).—The British Broadcasting corporation was reported today by the Columbia Broadcasting system to be broadcasting frequent 15 minute German language summaries of President Roosevelt's speech last night.

PROMISES ALL AID TO BRITAIN; RIPS PEACE TALK

Calls Our Situation 'Serious as War.'

The full text of President Roosevelt's address appears on Page 4. On the same page is a comparison of quotations from Mr. Roosevelt's preëlection speeches and from his talk last night.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—President Roosevelt tonight expressed his determination to give all possible material support to Great Britain, even at the risk of war for the United States. He defied any "combination of dictators" to interfere with his course by threats of what they might do about it.

In a White House "fireside chat" broadcast over 500 American radio stations and thruout the world by short wave transmission, Mr. Roosevelt called for a war to the finish against Nazi Germany. He dismissed as "nonsense" the demands of the congressional noninterventionists that this government explore the possibility of a negotiated peace before underwriting a British victory at the possible cost of military intervention by the United States.

"Gang of Outlaws."

There can be no "appeasement," the President said, of ruthlessness. You cannot negotiate with "a gang of outlaws," he explained. His denunciation of Nazism in particular and aggressor nations generally was equally belligerent in tone thruout the 40 minute address.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech was written, it was learned tonight, with the assistance of Robert E. Sherwood, one of the policy makers of William Allen White's Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Sherwood, a playwright and author of "Idiot's Delight," is one of the most bellicose interventionists in the United States. He was one of the first to issue a public demand for a declaration of war against Germany.

Guest at White House.

Sherwood arrived in Washington yesterday and was a White House guest until his departure for New York tonight. He was one of the 170 interventionists who signed a petition, which the White House released with implied approval, urging Mr. Roosevelt to commit this country to a policy of doing everything that may be required to assure defeat of the axis powers.

A petition addressed to the President by the No Foreign War committee and signed by 11,690 "everyday Americans," urging him to remember his campaign pledges and keep this country out of war, was not made public by the White House but the President scornfully answered this and similar appeals in his speech tonight.

Peace petitions, Mr. Roosevelt declared, expressed the attitude of "a small minority who want to see no evil and hear no evil, even tho they know in their hearts that evil exists."

"Risk in Any Course."

The President's admission of the risk of war involved in his course of greatly increasing aid to Great Britain was implied in his statement that, "if we are completely honest with ourselves we must admit there is risk in any course we take."

But the President insisted that the course he proposed involves the least risk of getting into war. What the nations defending themselves against attack require, the President declared, are planes, tanks, guns, and freighters. He declared that there is no demand for the sending of an American expeditionary force abroad and that any statement to the contrary can be dismissed as a deliberate untruth.

The President did not say whether the greatly increased aid he pledged for Great Britain would include the transfer of more destroyers from the American fleet or the use of American warships to convoy munitions and other supplies thru the war zones.

"Arsenal of Democracy."

The President intimated that he would proclaim an unlimited national emergency if he should deem such action necessary in order to mobilize the full resources of the country and convert it into "the great arsenal of democracy."

"For us," he said, "this is an emergency as serious as war itself."

AXIS REFUSES TO TALK PEACE, ITALY STATES

Press Hurls New Threat at U. S. on British Aid.

ROME, Dec. 29 (AP).—The axis powers are deaf to any proposal of a negotiated peace, the Fascist press declared today, and stand ready to strike back at the United States for any new aid to Britain which they might deem an act of war. The press asserted that Japan is expected to join Italy and Germany in any such reaction.

The assertions appeared in advance of President Roosevelt's fireside chat tonight.

Call Peace Talk Blow at Axis.

Il Popolo di Roma asserted that American talk of a negotiated peace was intended either to restrain the war effort of the axis, or, if rejected, to "convince the reluctant American people that war had become inevitable."

It was this paper that said the axis was "necessarily deaf" to suggestions of a negotiated peace. Its editorial, considered by usually informed Italian sources to have been officially inspired, declared that such a peace would benefit the "provocative democracies."

Axis "Forearms" Itself.

La Stampa of Turin stated:

"The axis powers, while condemning the profound injustice of the United States' attitude since the beginning of the conflict, have considered it opportune not to aggravate relations.

"Up to now the American flag has not been compromised in any open favoring of the English.

"Form has been saved, even if it must be considered that England, without aid and incitement from overseas, already would have been forced to surrender.

"But there are limits which cannot be exceeded. The axis already has had to take such an eventuality into consideration and forearm itself."

New Warning on Ireland.

The three power pact with Japan, a military alliance committing them to a one for all action against any new nation taking up arms against any of them, was part of the "precautions," La Stampa said.

Any American aid to Britain by way of convoys to neutral Ireland would bring immediate reaction, the newspapers said. This, they held, would be an act of war.

[The official Italian radio, as heard by CBS, said: "It has been stated in various quarters that the United States has brought pressure to bear on Ireland so that that country would cede bases to the British government."]

Expect El Salvador to Get U. S. Military Advisers

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Dec. 29.—Salvador probably will join other Latin American countries in using a United States military mission as technical advisers to her armed forces, it is reported. Uniformity of training tactics is viewed as an essential part of hemispheric defense plans.

3 GREEK FORCES EDGE CLOSER TO PORT OF VALONA

Advance Along Coast and Inland Routes.

ATHENS, Dec. 29 (AP).—Greek forces were reported today to have edged closer to Valona, their next goal, by threatening Italian control at three points guarding the approaches to that southern Albanian port.

Action continued slow because of heavy snow which has piled up to depths of six feet in some parts of the northern front. A strong north wind has made the weather bitterly cold for two days.

At Tepeleni, Greek machine guns were trained on the road leading to Italian bases to the northwest. Tepeleni is a junction of two roads leading to Valona. The Italians still hold some heights in the Tepeleni sector, despite the threat that their communications may be severed completely. The Greeks have claimed the capture of 200 prisoners and a large quantity of supplies in this area.

Last Line of Defense.

In the Klisura sector, also a control point on roads in the southern fighting zone, the Greeks were said to have driven the Italians from their most important hill positions to a last line of defense in the valley.

This line was described as only a series of trenches and barbed wire entanglements which, the Greeks said, has been put under heavy gunfire from the captured heights.

One report said the Italians attempted several counterattacks in the Klisura sector but that all were crushed, partly with the help of heavy bombardment of Fascist troops by Greek warplanes.

Advances Along Coast.

Along the coast, Greek advances were reported beyond Chimara. "Our units are successfully attacking a group of heights which defend Valona," said one report from that area.

A British royal air force communique reported a waterfront raid yesterday by R. A. F. planes on Valona despite "extremely" bad weather. One heavy bomb was seen bursting about 50 yards from a large ship and all bombs fell in the target area, the communique said.

The ministry of home security announced that during the second month of the war, 88 Greek civilians were killed and 296 wounded in Italian air attacks. Bombed today, the ministry said, were the town of Preveza and the islands of Corfu and Levkas.

Greeks Repulsed, Rome Says.

ROME, Dec. 29 (AP).—The Italian high command said today that action in the Albanian theater of war was "of a local character" with Greek forces "repulsed by our artillery fire."

The daily communique added, without amplification, that Italian planes "hit important enemy bases in the Mediterranean," and said that one pursuit squadron had shot down four of five British fighting planes.

COMPLETE 28 U. S. FIGHTER PLANES FOR BRITISH USE

New York, Dec. 29 [Special].—Twenty-eight of the newest type fighter planes, costing more than $2,000,000 are lying at Newark, N. J., airport, ready for shipment to Great Britain. Twenty of the ships already are crated, a survey showed today, and the remaining eight shortly will be boxed. The planes are guarded night and day.

The ships, which cost $75,000 or more each, were assembled at the Brewster plants in Newark. It was said they represent the first consignment on an order for $16,000,000 worth received four months ago.

The Brewster company added it now is turning out five of these planes every two days. The ships are not among the fastest type, it was said—their top speed is 350 miles an hour—but they are heavily armored and have a high degree of maneuverability. They carry a 37 millimeter gun and four .50 caliber machine guns.

Ecuador Decrees Sunday Morning Military Drills

QUITO, Ecuador, Dec. 29.—Ecuador will have virtually universal military training next year, according to a decree issued by President Arroyo Del Rio, reestablishing the civil guard which was disbanded in 1936. The decree requires that all male citizens between the ages of 18 and 50 engage in military drill and training four hours every Sunday morning. Preliminary military instruction must also be given in all schools and colleges.

INDIVIDUALISM AT END, PETAIN TELLS FRENCH

Brands It 'Destructive' Agent of 'Anarchy.'

VICHY, France, Dec. 29 (AP).—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state, urged all of France's young men today to abandon "destructive individualism" and learn teamwork to reconstruct their country. France, he declared, will flower again.

"My dear friends," Petain said in a radio speech for French Youth day, "there is a symbolic juxtaposition in the severe winter, which inflicts privations and suffering, and the sad period our country is passing thru.

Forget Self, He Asks.

"But stronger than the winter, we hold intact our faith in the return of spring.

"Young Frenchmen, the France which today lies prostrate will one day flower again."

Petain said that in the "national revolution" which he heads the elimination of individualism was necessary for reconstruction.

"Every Frenchman must begin to forget himself . . ." he declared. "I don't ask you to shed your independence, but independence may be perfectly accommodated to discipline, while individualism invariably leads to anarchy."

Bear Suffering, Baudouin Urges.

Paul Baudouin, secretary of state for presidency of the council, in an address to the youth reunion of Lyons, said:

"By your ardor to serve, your acceptance of cold and hunger, by the gift of the best of your body and soul, by voluntary destitution, and by suffering and comradeship, you can work for national reconstruction."

ALUMINUM POTS AND PANS TO BE USED FOR PLANES

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP).—Before leaving the war office recently to become foreign secretary, Anthony Eden ordered 500 tons of aluminum pots and pans from army kitchens given to the ministry of aircraft production—enough to make 500 airplanes.

For months past such metal contributed by housewives has been used in fabrication of airplane parts, in response to Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook's slogan, "Beat your saucepans into Spitfires."

More than half of this aluminum has taken wings. The rest will be turned into planes by the end of January.

MAYOR STARTS A CLEANUP DRIVE IN PANAMA CITY

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Dec. 29.—Col. Nicolas A. Barletta, new mayor of Panama, has started a campaign to make the city the cleanest in Latin America. He has given house-owners 25 days in which to make necessary repairs. All house roofs must be painted red as they are the first things seen by visitors arriving by plane. The mayor also is urging that all signs be printed in Spanish. Two beer gardens already have been fined for using menus printed in English.

BRITISH PATROLS HARASS ITALIANS IN SUDAN FIGHTING

Big Guns, Meantime, Shell Bardia Some More.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 29 (AP).—British guns poured shells into the Italian base town of Bardia today in continued preparation for a final attack on the Fascist stronghold in northeastern Libya, 15 miles from the Egyptian border. The British said their guns met "comparatively little response from the Italian garrison."

While the British assembled men and material for the coming big attack, their patrols far down in the Sudan "successfully" harassed the Italians southwest of Kassala and east of Gallabat, general headquarters reported.

Find Italian Banknotes.

Egyptian newspapers reported the discovery of a large number of bank notes especially printed for Egypt among the material abandoned at Sidi Barrani, first important Italian base town seized by the British when they began the African offensive early this month. The notes presumably were to be put into circulation when the Italians entered Alexandria, it was said.

Other captured documents disclosed Italian plans for administering Egypt, indicating they intended to set up a former Egyptian now living in Libya as a puppet governor.

After the Italians occupied Sidi Barrani, in Egypt, the radio station at Bari, Italy, broadcast in Arabic an announcement that the town was thriving under the Italians with street cars running and banks and cabarets open. Egyptians were greatly amused at the broadcast, since the town before its destruction consisted of about 30 houses.

Report Big Gun Duel at Bardia.

ROME, Dec. 29 (AP).—The defense of Bardia, eastern Libyan base under British siege, has developed into heavy artillery duelling and patroling while in the nearby desert "fast moving columns in coöperation with aviation destroyed some enemy armored cars," the Italian high command said today.

The comparatively inactive East Africa front was marked by inconclusive artillery, cavalry, and aerial activity, the communique said, while in the Mediterranean "two of our torpedoing planes attacked and hit a monitor and one destroyer."

Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's Leghorn newspaper, Il Telegrafo, told the Italian armed forces that recovery by the Italian army in Africa had brought about a "recovery of spirits and energy" in the homeland.

Says British "Marking Time."

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—An Italian radio commentator in a broadcast heard here today said the Italian resistance at Bardia has forced the "much more numerous and better armed enemy forces to mark time."

ITALY'S CAPTIVES GET GIFTS FROM FRENCH KINSMEN

VICHY, France, Dec. 29.—For the first time since the armistice, packages may be sent by relatives to French prisoners in Italy. Swiss sources report that the prisoners are receiving adequate food and satisfactory facilities, including the privilege of walking in groups. The number of prisoners held by Italy was not indicated. While the smallest camp in Germany houses several thousand prisoners, it is believed that not more than a few hundred are confined at any spot in Italy.

WARNS AGAINST 'AID DEMOCRACY' AS A WAR ALIBI

Verne Marshall Calls for Citizen Petitions.

11,690 Signatures

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 29 [Special].—The No Foreign War committee sent a telegram to President Roosevelt today informing him that a total of 11,690 citizens had authorized use of their names as signatures to the committee's antiwar petition. The petition, sent to the White House yesterday, stated that everyday Americans wanted no part of Europe's perpetual war. The signatures included 5,741 received up to midnight last night and 5,949 received since then.

Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War committee, in a radio speech in Chicago yesterday renewed his plea that America stay out of Europe's war and warned Americans against what he termed the Frankenstein of democracy—a radio monopoly.

Mr. Marshall, editor of the Cedar Rapids [Ia.] Gazette, was in Chicago on his way to Washington. He spoke over W-G-N after he said he had been denied time on the Columbia Broadcasting system to answer Herbert Agar of Louisville, Ky., spokesman for the interventionist William Allen White Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Agar made an address Saturday night over a Columbia network urging that telegrams be sent to the President asking help for Great Britain.

Urges Telegrams to President.

To his radio audience, Marshall addressed a fiery speech, asking his listeners to send telegrams to President Roosevelt "telling him you don't want him to take this country into another foreign war or to give away its defenses."

Marshall charged that the current war is one "in which the lives of men, women, and children are the pawns of governments which never yet have fought a great international war in Europe on which democracy hinged."

He listed his committee's aims as follows:

"To prevent this country from being sucked into another economic war in Europe on the excuse and alibi that it is a war to save democracy.

"To prevent the government of this country from having its defenses given away by a President who the other day said he proposed to do away with the 'silly dollar sign' in consideration of aid to Britain."

"We are always asked to save Europe when it gets into one of its wars or into a new chapter of the same old war," Marshall continued.

"How can the people of America be misled in 1940 and 1941 again as they were in 1916, 1917, and 1918?

"They called us Uncle Shylock when, after the war, we suggested that perhaps the taxpayers of America should not be called to finance in the billions a war begun in Europe and conceived in Europe and to which this country made no contribution as to cause.

"And we were called Uncle Shylock because we thought that the allies to whom we had loaned billions should pay for their own wars if we won them!"

Denied Time, He Says.

Marshall opened his address by describing how he had been denied time on the Columbia Broadcasting system, whereas Agar had been given free time. Agar, he said, frankly suggested that the people of America go to war, as he did last June 9 when, Marshall charged, he signed his name to an advertised manifesto calling for a declaration of war by the United States.

"Now I have heard something about monopolies in radio," Marshall continued, "and I have heard something about the possibility that radio may become a Frankenstein of democracy.

"I am willing to say here and now that if Herbert Agar, who candidly admits he wants this country to go to war, can be given time on CBS or any other radio chain in an effort to kick this country into war, while those overwhelming millions of Americans who say they do not want war are denied a voice for their spokesman, are denied time to answer Agar and all of his kind, then radio already has become the Frankenstein of democracy and there is no democracy as far as radio is concerned.

C. B. S. Replies to Marshall.

New York, Dec. 29 [Special].—The Columbia Broadcasting system asserted here tonight that the only "formal request" for time on the air that it has received from Verne Marshall was one that it had received by mail today. Columbia issued the statement in reply to a charge by Marshall that Columbia had denied him time to answer an attack made on him by Herbert Agar, interventionist editor, over C. B. S. facilities Saturday night.

"The only formal application for time made by Verne Marshall was received today by the Columbia Broadcasting system," an official of the company announced. "It will be given the usual consideration."

COMMENTS ON SPEECH

Willard, O., Dec. 29 (AP).—Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War committee, commenting on President Roosevelt's speech said here tonight that the President's speech "concerning the real cause of Europe's interminable war . . . gave us none of the truths concerning its economic, political, and ideological causes.

"The President indulged in a bomber flight to Denver this time. He will not be condemned for it as was Orson Welles for bringing to the eastern seaboard an imaginary enemy from Mars. But, even so, the people of Denver need not feel serious alarm. Hitler hasn't crossed the English channel yet, and it's still only 23 miles wide."

NAZIS SEEK RULE OF NORSE CHURCH, SWEDEN HEARS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 29.—Altho Maj. Vidkun Quisling promised the Norwegian church political independence on condition that it did not act against his Nazi sponsored régime, dispatches from Norway state that is being made the target of more frequent attacks by the Quislingists.

Some pastors are said to have been attacked, and the belief is growing that the régime is striving to put the church under state control and to use it as a propaganda agency to win support for Quisling.

Uneasiness among Norwegian churchmen is reported to have increased following the appearance of an article in Quisling's official organ comparing Quisling's politics to Christ's sermon on the mount and demanding that pastors "spread enlightenment about the new times."

590,000 Chinese, 13,000 Japs Killed in '40, Tokio Reports

TOKIO, Dec. 30, Monday (AP).—The war department today announced in a review of the conflict with China during 1940 that 590,000 Chinese and 13,000 Japanese had been killed. Total fatalities since the outbreak of fighting in July, 1937, were given as 1,800,000 Chinese and 100,000 Japanese.

LABOR TROUBLES GROW IN BRITAIN; RUSSIA BLAMED

Showdown with Leftist Workers Foreseen.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—At a moment when the government is demanding increased industrial production as a prime requisite for victory, serious concern is evinced over growing labor trouble which is attributed to activities of communists under instructions from Moscow.

The decision yesterday of Glasgow tram and busmen to cease work during raid alarms may precipitate a showdown between the government and leftwing workers. For some time these workers have been the driving force behind the movement for the people's convention in Manchester on Jan. 6. Strong pressure has been brought to bear upon Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, to prevent the gathering. The workers' program, as announced, demands restoration of the right to strike even in wartime.

Paper Boosts Convention.

The communist newspaper Daily Worker has been boosting the convention, which, it insists, will include many delegates from outside the communist party.

The Sunday Express, owned by Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook, today demanded that the "special privileges" which it says have been afforded the communists be immediately abolished.

"Today nobody doubts the communists in every country of the world receive instructions and orders from Moscow," it said. "Nobody doubts either what instructions the British communists are receiving today from their masters. They have been ordered to complain of ill usage, promote strife, exaggerate the perils of air bombardments, and do everything in their power to slow up Britain's disposition for fighting the war."

Recall Lenin's Special Train.

The Express recalled that in the last war Germany had "provided a special train for Lenin to conduct a revolution in Russia." In this war, it continued, Hitler "has provided special transportation for the French communist, Maurice Thorez to return to France [from Russia]." The paper asserted that Thorez was allowed to cross Germany because the Nazis knew "his message to the French workers, which was 'do not bother to attack Germany. Moscow advises you to concentrate your attack on French and British aristocracies and imperialism.'"

The Express then demanded that defeatists should be punished whether they are communists or conservatives.

The conservative Economist, in referring to the communist danger, declared that the "hard, fast rule that they are to be treated as enemies of the state would probably gain for them far more adherents by complaints of persecution than any amount of oratory, the advantages of which as a safety valve long have been recognized." It, however, urged their punishment for individual action and not for their political creed.

MYSTERY PLANES FLY OVER DUBLIN AND COAST AREA

DUBLIN, Ireland, Dec. 29 (AP).—A "multi-engined military aircraft" flew over Dublin and the eastern counties of Ireland today three hours after an unidentified military plane was sighted over the Buncrana and Lough Swilly coastal forts, the Irish department of defense announced tonight.

Antiaircraft defenses engaged the plane flying over the forts in the north and it flew off in a northeasterly direction, the department said.

Antiaircraft guns south of Dublin fired on the plane and an "interceptor patrol" took off at once. The plane disappeared into a "thick cloud before it could be identified," the statement added.

PICK URUGUAYAN COMMISSION TO PLAN AIR BASE

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 29.—The Uruguayan government today set up a commission of army officers to draw plans for an air base to be constructed near fashionable Carrasco beach. Gen. Alfredo Campos, former chief of staff, was appointed chairman of the commission. The government last September set aside 1,000 acres and made a preliminary appropriation of about $1,000,000 for the base.

The commission also is authorized to lay out a new system of roads connecting the airdrome with the country's main network of highways. The ministries of national defense and public works were instructed to coöperate with the commission. This air base will be the first one to be constructed in any South American country as a result of conversations begun in Washington, D. C., last June.

REPORT GERMANY GETS INCREASE OF SOVIET PRODUCTS

MOSCOW, Dec. 29 (AP).—Pravda, Izvestia and Red Star—respectively the organs of the communist party, the government and the soviet Russian army—reproduced today an article on German industry taken from the Danzig newspaper Danziger Vorposten.

"Raw materials are exported into Germany in greater quantities than before the war from the soviet union, the far east, the near east and continental countries," this article said. "In the first place we should point to supplies of oil from Rumania and Russia, iron ore from Sweden and cotton from Russia."

The first Russian-German trade agreement was signed on Aug. 20, 1939, just before the outbreak of war and negotiations are under way in Moscow for implementing the agreement. The volume of trade has never been made public here.

RESCUED AFTER LEAP INTO LAKE.

PRESIDENT BARS PEACE TALK NOW; HITS DICTATORS

Promises All Possible Aid to the British.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's "fireside chat" tonight:

"This is not a fireside chat on war. It is a talk on national security; because the nub of the whole purpose of your President is to keep you now, and your children later, and your grandchildren much later, out of a last ditch war for the preservation of American independence and all of the things that American independence means to you and to me and to ours.

"Tonight, in the presence of a world crisis, my mind goes back eight years ago to a night in the midst of domestic crisis. It was a time when the wheels of American industry were grinding to a full stop, when the whole banking system of our country had ceased to function.

Picture He Saw.

"I well remember that while I sat in my study in the White House, preparing to talk with the people of the United States, I had before my eyes the picture of all those Americans with whom I was talking. I saw the workmen in the mills, the mines, the factories; the girl behind the counter; the small shopkeeper; the farmer doing his spring plowing; the widows and the old men wondering about their life's savings.

"I tried to convey to the great mass of American people what the banking crisis meant to them in their daily lives.

"Tonight I want to do the same thing, with the same people, in this new crisis which faces America.

"We met the issue of 1933 with courage and realism. We face this new crisis—this new threat to the security of our nation—with the same courage and realism.

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE

He Calls It Peril to U. S. Civilization.

"Never before since Jamestown and Plymouth Rock has our American civilization been in such danger as now.

"For, on September 27, 1940, by an agreement signed in Berlin, three powerful nations, two in Europe and one in Asia, joined themselves together in the threat that if the United States interfered with or blocked the expansion program of these three nations—a program aimed at world control—they would unite in ultimate action against the United States.

"The Nazi masters of Germany have made it clear that they intend not only to dominate all life and thought in their own country, but also to enslave the whole of Europe, and then to use the resources of Europe to dominate the rest of the world.

Quotations from Hitler.

"Three weeks ago their leader stated, 'There are two worlds that stand opposed to each other.' Then in defiant reply to his opponents he said this: 'Others are correct when they say: With this world we cannot ever reconcile ourselves . . . I can beat any other power in the world.' So said the leader of the Nazis.

"In other words, the axis not merely admits but proclaims that there can be no ultimate peace between their philosophy of government and our philosophy of government.

"In view of the nature of this undeniable threat, it can be asserted, properly and categorically, that the United States has no right or reason to encourage talk of peace until the day shall come when there is a clear intention on the part of the aggressor nations to abandon all thought of dominating or conquering the world.

Fighting for Freedom.

"At this moment the forces of the states that are leagued against all peoples who live in freedom are being held away from our shores. The Germans and Italians are being blocked on the other side of the Atlantic by the British, and by the Greeks, and by thousands of soldiers and sailors who were able to escape from subjugated countries. The Japanese are being engaged in Asia by the Chinese in another great defense.

"In the Pacific is our fleet.

"Some of our people like to believe that wars in Europe and in Asia are of no concern to us. But it is a matter of most vital concern to us that European and Asiatic war-makers should not gain control of the oceans which lead to this hemisphere.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Speaker Discusses Its Aims and Effects.

"One hundred and seventeen years ago the Monroe Doctrine was conceived by our government as a measure of defense in the face of a threat against this hemisphere by an alliance in continental Europe. Thereafter, we stood on guard in the Atlantic, with the British as neighbors. There was no treaty. There was no 'unwritten agreement.'

"Yet, there was the feeling, proven correct by history, that we as neighbors could settle any disputes in peaceful fashion. The fact is that during the whole of this time the western hemisphere has remained free from aggression from Europe or from Asia.

"Does any one seriously believe that we need to fear attack while a free Britain remains our most powerful naval neighbor in the Atlantic? Does any one seriously believe, on the other hand, that we could rest easy if the axis powers were our neighbor there?

"A Loaded Gun."

"If Great Britain goes down, the axis powers will control the continents of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australasia, and the high seas—and they will be in a position to bring enormous military and naval resources against this hemisphere. It is no exaggeration to say that all of us in the Americas would be living at the point of a gun—a gun loaded with explosive bullets, economic as well as military.

"We should enter upon a new and terrible era in which the whole world, our hemisphere included, would be run by threats of brute force. To survive in such a world, we would have to convert ourselves permanently into a militaristic power on the basis of war economy.

"Some of us like to believe that even if Great Britain falls, we are still safe, because of the broad expanse of the Atlantic and of the Pacific.

Discusses Military Distances.

"But the width of these oceans is not what it was in the days of clipper ships. At one point between Africa and Brazil the distance is less than from Washington to Denver—five hours for the latest type of bomber. And at the north of the Pacific ocean America and Asia almost touch each other.

"Even today we have planes which could fly from the British Isles to New England and back without refueling. And the range of the modern bomber is ever being increased.

"During the past week many people in all parts of the nation have told me what they wanted me to say tonight. Almost all of them expressed a courageous desire to hear the plain truth about the gravity of the situation. One telegram, however, expressed the attitude of the small minority who want to see no evil and hear no evil, even tho they know in their hearts that evil exists. That telegram begged me not to tell again of the ease with which our American cities could be bombed by any hostile power which had gained bases in this western hemisphere. The gist of that telegram was: 'Please, Mr. President, don't frighten us by telling us the facts.'

"There's Danger Ahead."

"Frankly and definitely there is danger ahead—danger against which we must prepare. But we well know that we cannot escape danger, or the fear of it, by crawling into bed and pulling the covers over our heads.

"Some nations of Europe were bound by solemn nonintervention pacts with Germany. Other nations were assured by Germany that they need never fear invasion. Nonintervention pact or not, the fact remains that they were attacked, overrun, and thrown into the modern form of slavery at an hour's notice or even without any notice at all. As an exiled leader of one of these nations said to me the other day—'The notice was a minus quantity. It was given to my government two hours after German troops had poured into my country in a hundred places.'

"The fate of these nations tells us what it means to live at the point of a Nazi gun.

"PIOUS FRAUDS"

That's How Nazis Justify Actions, He Charges.

"The Nazis have justified such actions by various pious frauds. One of these frauds is the claim that they are occupying a nation for the purpose of 'restoring order.' Another is that they are occupying or controlling a nation on the excuse that they are 'protecting it' against the aggression of somebody else.

"For example, Germany has said that she was occupying Belgium to save the Belgians from the British. Would she hesitate to say to any South American country, 'We are occupying you to protect you from aggression by the United States'?

"Belgium today is being used as an invasion base against Britain, now fighting for its life. Any South American country, in Nazi hands, would always constitute a jumping off place for German attack on any one of the other republics of this hemisphere.

On Ireland's Position.

"Analyze for yourselves the future of two other places even nearer to Germany if the Nazis won. Could Ireland hold out? Would Irish freedom be permitted as an amazing exception in an unfree world? Or the islands of the Azores, which still fly the flag of Portugal after five centuries? We think of Hawaii as an outpost of defense in the Pacific. Yet the Azores are closer to our shores in the Atlantic than Hawaii is on the other side.

"There are those who say that the axis powers would never have any desire to attack the western hemisphere. This is the same dangerous form of wishful thinking which has destroyed the powers of resistance of so many conquered peoples. The plain facts are that the Nazis have proclaimed, time and again, that all other races are their inferiors and therefore subject to their orders. And most important of all, the vast resources and wealth of this hemisphere constitute the most tempting loot in all the world.

Warns of "Evil Forces."

"Let us no longer blind ourselves to the undeniable fact that the evil forces which have crushed and undermined and corrupted so many others are already within our own gates. Your government knows much about them and every day is ferreting them out.

"Their secret emissaries are active in our own and neighboring countries. They seek to stir up suspicion and dissension to cause internal strife. They try to turn capital against labor, and vice versa. They try to reawaken long slumbering racial and religious enmities which should have no place in this country. They are active in every group that promotes intolerance. They exploit for their own ends our own national abhorrence of war. These trouble breeders have but one purpose. It is to divide our people into hostile groups and to destroy our unity and shatter our will to defend ourselves.

Criticizes Some Americans.

"There are also American citizens, many of them in high places, who, unwittingly in most cases, are aiding and abetting the work of these agents. I do not charge these American citizens with being foreign agents. But I do charge them with doing exactly the kind of work that the dictators want done in the United States.

"These people not only believe that we can save our own skins by shutting our eyes to the fate of other nations. Some of them go much further than that. They say that we can and should become the friends and even the partners of the axis powers. Some of them even suggest that we should imitate the methods of the dictatorships. Americans never can and never will do that.

"The experience of the past two years has proven beyond doubt that no nation can appease the Nazis. No man can tame a tiger into a kitten by stroking it. There can be no appeasement with ruthlessness. There can be no reasoning with an incendiary bomb. We know now that a nation can have peace with the Nazis only at the price of total surrender.

"Even the people of Italy have been forced to become accomplices of the Nazis; but at this moment they do not know how soon they will be embraced to death by their allies.

"NONSENSE!"

That's Roosevelt's Word for Negotiated Peace.

"The American appeasers ignore the warning to be found in the fate of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, and France. They tell you that the axis powers are going to win anyway; that all this bloodshed in the world could be saved, and that the United States might just as well throw its influence into the scale of a dictated peace, and get the best out of that we can.

"They call it a 'negotiated peace.' Nonsense! Is it a negotiated peace if a gang of outlaws surrounds your community and on threat of extermination makes you pay tribute to save your own skins?

"Such a dictated peace would be no peace at all. It would be only another armistice, leading to the most gigantic armament race and the most devastating trade wars in all history. And in these contests the Americas would offer the only real resistance to the axis powers.

"With all their vaunted efficiency and parade of pious purpose in this war, there are still in their background the concentration camp and the servants of God in chains.

"Altars of Dictatorship."

"The history of recent years proves that the shootings and the chains and the concentration camps are not simply the transient tools but the very altars of modern dictatorship. They may talk of a 'new order' in the world, but what they have in mind is but a revival of the oldest and the worst tyranny. In that there is no liberty, no religion, no hope.

"The proposed 'new order' is the very opposite of a United States of Europe or a United States of Asia. It is not a government based upon the consent of the governed. It is not a union of ordinary, self-respecting men and women to protect themselves and their freedom and their dignity from oppression. It is an unholy alliance of power and pelf to dominate and to enslave the human race.

"The British people and their allies today are conducting an active war against this unholy alliance. Our own future security is greatly dependent on the outcome of that fight. Our ability to 'keep out of war' is going to be affected by that outcome.

"Direct Statement."

"Thinking in terms of today and tomorrow, I make the direct statement to the American people that there is far less chance of the United States getting into war if we do all we can now to support the nations defending themselves against attack by the axis than if we acquiesce in their defeat, submit tamely to an axis victory, and wait our turn to be the object of attack in another war later on.

"If we are to be completely honest with ourselves we must admit there is risk in any course we may take. But I deeply believe that the great majority of our people agree that the course that I advocate involves the least risk now and the greatest hope for world peace in the future.

"Liberty and Security."

"The people of Europe who are defending themselves do not ask us to do their fighting. They ask us for the implements of war, the planes, the tanks, the guns, the freighters which will enable them to fight for their liberty and our security. Emphatically we must get these weapons to them—get them to them in sufficient volume and quickly enough so we and our children will be saved the agony and suffering of war which others have had to endure.

"Let not defeatists tell us that it is too late. It will never be earlier. Tomorrow will be later than today.

"Certain facts are self-evident.

"In a military sense Great Britain and the British empire are today the spearhead of resistance to world conquest. They are putting up a fight which will live forever in the story of human gallantry.

"There is no demand for sending an American expeditionary force outside our own borders. There is no intention by any member of your government to send such a force. You can, therefore, nail any talk about sending armies to Europe as deliberate untruth.

"Our national policy is not directed toward war. Its sole purpose is to keep war away from our country and our people.

"Democracy's fight against world conquest is being greatly aided, and must be more greatly aided, by the rearmament of the United States and by sending every ounce and every ton of munitions and supplies that we can possibly spare to help the defenders who are in the front lines. It is no more unneutral for us to do that than it is for Sweden, Russia, and other nations near Germany to send steel and ore and oil and other war materials into Germany every day.

OUR DEFENSE NEEDS

Must Be Integrated with Britain's, He Says.

"We are planning our own defense with the utmost urgency; and in its vast scale we must integrate the war needs of Britain and the other free nations which are resisting aggression.

"This is not a matter of sentiment or of controversial personal opinion. It is a matter of realistic, practical military policy, based on the advice of our military experts who are in close touch with existing warfare. These military and naval experts and the members of the congress and the administration have a single minded purpose—the defense of the United States.

"This nation is making a great effort to produce everything that is necessary in this emergency—and with all possible speed. This great effort requires great sacrifice.

Want and Privation.

"I would ask no one to defend a democracy which in turn would not defend every one in the nation against want and privation. The strength of this nation shall not be diluted by the failure of the government to protect the economic well being of its citizens.

"If our capacity to produce is limited by machines, it must ever be remembered that these machines are operated by the skill and the stamina of the workers. As the government is determined to protect the rights of workers, so the nation has a right to expect that the men who man the machines will discharge their full responsibilities to the urgent needs of defense.

"The worker possesses the same human dignity and is entitled to the same security of position as the engineer or manager or owner. For the workers provide the human power that turns out the destroyers, the airplanes, and the tanks.

Wants No Labor Trouble.

"The nation expects our defense industries to continue operation without interruption by strikes or lockouts. It expects and insists that management and workers will reconcile their differences by voluntary or legal means, to continue to produce the supplies that are so sorely needed.

"And on the economic side of our great defense program, we are, as you know, bending every effort to maintain stability of prices and with that the stability of the cost of living.

"Nine days ago I announced the setting up of a more effective organization to direct our gigantic efforts to increase the production of munitions. The appropriation of vast sums of money and a well coördinated executive direction of our defense efforts are not in themselves enough. Guns, planes, and ships—many other things—have to be built in the factories and arsenals of America. They have to be produced by workers and managers and engineers with the aid of machines which in turn have to be built by hundreds of thousands of workers thruout the land.

Hails "Splendid Coöperation."

"In this great work there has been splendid coöperation between the government and industry and labor, and I am very thankful.

"American industrial genius, unmatched thruout the world in the solution of production problems, has been called upon to bring its resources and talents into action. Manufacturers of watches, of farm implements, linotypes, cash registers, automobiles, sewing machines, lawn mowers, and locomotives are now making fuses, bomb packing crates, telescope mounts, shells, pistols, and tanks.

"But all our present efforts are not enough. We must have more ships, more guns, more planes—more of everything. This can only be accomplished only if we discard the motion of 'business as usual.' This job cannot be done merely by superimposing on the existing productive facilities the added requirements of the nation for defense.

"Our defense efforts must not be blocked by those who fear the future consequences of surplus plant capacity. The possible consequences of failure of our defense efforts now are much more to be feared.

Our Peacetime Needs.

"After the present needs of our defense are past, a proper handling of the country's peacetime needs will require all of the new productive capacity—if not still more.

"No pessimistic policy about the future of America shall delay the immediate expansion of those industries essential to defense. We need it.

"I want to make it clear that it is the purpose of the nation to build now with all possible speed every machine and arsenal and factory that we need to manufacture our defense material. We have the men—the skill—the wealth—and above all, the will.

"I am confident that if and when production of consumer or luxury goods in certain industries requires the use of machines and raw materials that are essential for defense purposes, then such production must yield and will yield to our primary and compelling purpose.

"I appeal to the owners of plants—to the managers—to the workers—to our own government employés—to put every ounce of effort into producing these munitions swiftly and without stint. With this appeal I give you the pledge that all of us who are officers of your government will devote ourselves to the same wholehearted extent to the great task which lies ahead.

"As planes and ships and guns and shells are produced, your government, with its defense experts, can then determine how best to use them to defend this hemisphere. The decision as to how much shall be sent abroad and how much shall remain at home must be made on the basis of our over-all military necessities.

"ARSENAL OF DEMOCRACY"

Pledges More and More Aid to Britain.

"We must be the great arsenal of democracy. For us this is an emergency as serious as war itself. We must apply ourselves to our task with the same resolution, the same sense of urgency, the same spirit of patriotism and sacrifice as we would show were we at war.

"We have furnished the British great material support and we will furnish far more in the future.

"There will be no 'bottlenecks' in our determination to aid Great Britain. No dictator, no combination of dictators, will weaken that determination by threats of how they will construe that determination.

"The British have received invaluable military support from the heroic Greek army, and from the forces of all the governments in exile. Their strength is growing. It is the strength of men and women who value their freedom more highly than they value their lives.

Predicts Axis Won't Win.

"I believe that the axis powers are not going to win this war. I base that belief on the latest and best of information.

"We have no excuse for defeatism. We have every good reason for hope—hope for peace, yes, and hope for the defense of our civilization and for the building of a better civilization in the future.

"I have the profound conviction that the American people are now determined to put forth a mightier effort than they have ever yet made to increase our production of all the implements of defense, to meet the threat to our democratic faith.

"As President of the United States I call for that national effort. I call for it in the name of this nation which we love and honor and which we are privileged and proud to serve. I call upon our people with absolute confidence that our common cause will greatly succeed."

Roosevelt Speeches Compared

Following is a comparison of quotations from President Roosevelt's speeches before his reëlection last November and quotations from his radio address of last night:

Pre-Election	Last Night
OCT. 11, AKRON, O.—"For many years we in the United States have managed to keep out of trouble in other continents, and I am confident that in the future we shall be able to avoid being brought into war thru an attack by somebody else on America."	"The axis not merely admits but proclaims that there can be no ultimate peace between their philosophy of government and our philosophy of government. In view of the nature of this undeniable threat, it can be asserted properly and categorically that the United States has no right or reason to encourage talk of peace until the day shall come when there is a clear intention on the part of the aggressor nations to abandon all thought of dominating and conquering the world."
OCT. 12, DAYTON, O.—"This country wants no war with any nation. The American republics are determined to work in unity for peace just as we work in unity to defend ourselves from attack."	"It is a matter of most vital concern to us that European and Asiatic war makers should not gain control of the oceans which lead to this hemisphere."
OCT. 23, PHILADELPHIA, PA.—"I repeat again that I stand on the platform of our party: We will not participate in foreign wars and will not send our army, naval, or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas except in case of attack."	"There are those who say that the axis powers would never have any desire to attack the western hemisphere. This is the same form of wishful thinking which has destroyed the powers of resistance of so many conquered peoples. The vast resources and wealth of this American hemisphere constitute the most tempting loot in all the world."
OCT. 28, NEW YORK CITY.—"For eight years our main concern has been to look for peace and the preservation of peace. I ask you to support a continuance of this type of affirmative, realistic fight for peace."	"The British people are conducting an active war against this unholy alliance. Our own future security is greatly dependent on the outcome of that fight. Our ability to keep out of war is going to be affected by that outcome."
OCT. 30, BOSTON, MASS.—"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers, I give you one more assurance. I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again—your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."	"Emphatically we must get these weapons to them in sufficient volume and quickly enough so that we and our children will be saved the agony and suffering of war which others have had to endure."
NOV. 1, BROOKLYN, N. Y.—"I am fighting to keep this nation prosperous and at peace. I am fighting to keep our people out of foreign wars and to keep foreign conceptions of government out of our own United States."	"There is no demand for sending an American expeditionary force outside our own borders. There is no intention of any member of your government to send such a force. You can, therefore, nail any talk about sending armies to Europe as deliberate untruth."
NOV. 2, CLEVELAND, O.—"The first purpose of our foreign policy is to keep our country out of war. . . . That is why we make ourselves strong. That is why we muster all the reserves of our national strength. The second purpose of this policy is to keep war as far away as possible from the shores of the entire western hemisphere. Also our policy is to give all possible material aid to the nations which still resist aggression, across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans."	"We must be the great arsenal of democracy. For us this is an emergency as serious as war itself. We must apply ourselves to our task with the same resolution, the same sense of urgency, the same spirit of patriotism and sacrifice as we would show were we at war."
NOV. 4, HYDE PARK, N. Y.—"Across the seas life has gone underground. I think I speak the minds of all of you when I say that we thank God that we live in the sunlight and starlight of peace—that we are not in war and that we propose and expect to live our lives in peace—under the peaceful light of heaven."	"There will be no 'bottlenecks' in our determination to aid Great Britain. No dictator, no combination of dictators, will weaken that determination by threats of how they will construe that determination."
	"If we are completely honest with ourselves we must admit that there is risk in any course we take."

SPANIARDS WARNED AGAINST CRITICISM OF NATION'S LEADERS

MADRID, Dec. 29 (AP).—Spaniards were told today by the official Falangist organ that they may stand on the sidelines if they wish but they must not attempt to sow confusion in the path of the "select majority" working out Spain's destiny.

The warning in the newspaper Arriba followed closely the first "punishment of murmurers" yesterday when two fines of 2,000 pesetas [$180] were imposed. Arriba said the hour has come to prohibit "opinions and annoyances" from persons who take advantage of Spain's difficulties to grumble or spread confusing remarks about men in power or measures announced.

BRITON ASKS U. S. STANDARDIZING OF PLANE PARTS

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Dec. 29 (AP).—Sir Hugh Dowding, British air marshal and former chief of the royal air force fighter command, declared today he was hopeful of arranging standardization of American plane products so they would fit "perfectly" into British requirements.

"I am not much concerned with the details of supply," Sir Hugh said. Emphasizing his interest in standardization, he said "it's not much use for them to send us over radio or other equipment which would have to be ripped out of planes because it wouldn't work with our types."

U.S. Pilots Help Cuba Mark Pan-American Aviation Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 29.—Squadrons of Cuban and United States army planes today participated in a joint commemoration of Cuba's first "Day of Pan-American Aviation." The holiday recently was created by executive decree "as a means of further strengthening the spiritual and material bonds of solidarity and understanding already existing among all republics of the western hemisphere." Ten planes from the United States airplane carrier Ranger now anchored at Guantanamo flew to Havana and joined 18 Cuban planes in maneuvers over the capital.

DICTATOR BEGINS RULING ITALY'S DINNER TABLES

Bosses Food Production and Consumption.

ROME, Dec. 29 (AP).—Italy set up a dictator of the dinner table today with absolute control over the appeasement of the national appetite.

The man chosen by law to regulate the production and consumption, exportation and importation of food, for civilians and fighting forces alike, is the minister of agriculture, Giuseppe Tassinari. He is 49 years old and is, perhaps, Italy's foremost authority on agricultural economy.

The law, issued late last night, was praised today by Virginio Gayda, editor of Il Giornale d'Italia, as one that provided a long felt "united command" on the food front.

The act decreed the death penalty for extreme cases of food hoarding or destruction of prime materials and agricultural products, and tripled already severe penalties for violations of laws on pooling, wholesaling, and distribution of food.

Food Census Ordered.

Under the new law, Tassinari, former professor of agricultural economy at the Royal University of Bologna and a Fascist since Premier Benito Mussolini's march on Rome in 1922, will take a census of food supplies. He will also take charge of purchases of food from domestic as well as foreign sources, assign the armed forces their share, and play watchdog over both farmers and industrialists to see that they produce sufficient food and convert it efficiently and without profiteering.

He is authorized to call for help from the personnel of the guild ministry and the railways and maritime agencies and automobile transport concerns, who are under the communications ministry, as well as the armed forces.

7 Per Cent Limit on Dividends.

Dividends of Italian firms will be limited to 7 per cent. This decree was published in the official gazette with another that increases 10 to 20 per cent the tax on interest on bonds of private companies and various state agencies.

The law relating to dividends made company officers personally responsible and subject to fines varying from 500 to 2,000 lire [$25 to $100] and ejection from all executive positions for five years. The firms would be liable to a fine equal to the amount distributed in excess of 7 per cent.

Bans Holiday Fare Cuts.

The government, which recently reduced the number of passenger trains, announced the reduced fares usually accorded holiday groups would be discontinued Wednesday. Foreign circles interpreted this as meaning the railroads were needed more extensively for transportation of war . . . [at this point the censor ended the dispatch].

SPAIN PENSIONS NATIONALIST SOLDIERS' KIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 29.—Spain today decreed the payment of pensions to widows and children of men who met death while supporting the Nationalist cause in the civil war.

Poor soldiers who have children and the heirs of any slain soldier also will receive payments.

The order follows another decree that took all orphans under the protection of the state, which will feed, clothe, and teach them a trade, regardless of whether the parents were Nationalists or Republicans. Application of the decree has not been perfected "because of Spain's impoverished condition."

The government also is trying to repatriate children sent out of the country during the civil war. Twenty-five children sent back from France were returned to their parents today.

UNION THREATENS TO HALT WORK ON NAVY CONTRACTS

C. I. O. Local Protests Use of A. F. of L. Men.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 29.—The Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company, which has received orders in the last two months for the construction of $18,000,000 worth of turbine and shafting for the United States navy, has been notified by the C. I. O. Automobile Workers union local that it will stop work and force a shutdown of the plant if two members of an A. F. of L. union are restored to their jobs.

The C. I. O. threat to halt work was posted on company bulletin boards by shop stewards.

The A. F. of L. members are Mike Bohacef and Nicholaus Imp who complained to West Allis police last week that C. I. O. members had surrounded Bohacef's automobile and tried to prevent them leaving the plant. The two men were laid off recently after a jurisdictional dispute with the C. I. O.

Want Attorney Removed.

The bargaining committee also wrote to Gov. Heil asking him to remove District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes from office because Steffes refused to issue a warrant for Bohacef and Imp on a charge that they threatened to run down union men who surrounded their automobile.

The Allis Chalmers local of the C. I. O. Automobile Workers union has been accused before the Dies committee of being dominated by communists. Harold Christoffel is president of the local.

The Allis Chalmers plant here is the largest employer of industrial labor in the state and the local is the largest union group.

Demand Military Service Pay.

The local also is demanding that the company pay full time wage to any union members drafted into military service. The company's announcement that it would pay one month's wages to employés who were away from work for a year receiving military training was designated by Christoffel as an insult.

The turbines and shafting to be made in the $18,000,000 order will be used in navy vessels now under construction in various shipyards. William Watson, vice president of the company, said Allis Chalmers is spending about $1,000,000 for tools and equipment for the order, but that no plant expansion will be necessary.

Two Confess Liquor Store Holdup; One Shot in Arm

Two red-haired colored youths were held last night by Wabash avenue police after one was wounded during the $6 holdup of a liquor store at 5302 Indiana avenue. As the bandits left, John Martin, 5306 Indiana avenue, colored, a watchman, fired two shots, one of which took effect. James Taylor, 17 years old, was arrested after he sought treatment at Provident hospital for a wound in his right arm. Newell Jones, 17, of 5142 Michigan avenue, his companion, also was arrested. Both confessed. Police are searching for a third man.

Guns Mounted

New York, Dec. 29 [Special].—The former American Export liner Exochorda has been commissioned as a marine troop transport and its name changed to the U. S. S. Harry Lee, in honor of the late Maj. Gen Harry Lee of the marine corps. The new transport will be able to carry about 1,100 men, and has been altered considerably since her purchase by the navy. The ship has been fireproofed, a 5 inch gun and additional antiaircraft guns have been mounted on the once-peaceful vessel, and a Degaussing apparatus to neutralize magnetic mines has been constructed along the inner side of her hull.

SANTA IS ABSENT MINDED.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 29 [Special].—Police here are seeking the owner of a bag of Christmas gifts found Dec. 26 at a bus stop at State and Main streets. The bag apparently was left behind by some one who boarded a bus.

JAPS EYE RICHES OF INDO-CHINA IN TRADE TALKS

Rice, Rubber, Tin Vital to Empire's Life.

TOKIO, Dec. 29 (AP).—The French Indo-China economic conference which begins here tomorrow is as vital to the welfare of Japan as anything which has occurred in recent months, officials said today.

The importance of the conference lies in the rice paddies of French Indo-China. The 1939 rice crop was valued at $35,000,000.

The government declines comment on results of preliminary conferences at Hanoi, capital of the French colony, but obviously leaders hope to arrange an exchange of Japanese manufactured goods for rice, needed because of Japan's drought, rubber [Indo-China's second most important export], tin, iron, manganese, and ores.

Supplies Cut Off.

Indo-China's supply of manufactured goods, previously obtained for most part from Europe, has been cut off.

A recent editorial in the foreign office controled Tokio Times said the "chief importance of Indo-China in the far eastern economy is her rice producer position."

"Whoever holds Indo-China can dictate much of the Pacific policy as it touches the livelihood of many millions," the paper asserted.

Indo-China rubber exports in 1939 were valued at $25,000,000 with 42 per cent delivered to the United States.

Riches Unexploited.

Much of the riches of the French colony remain unexploited and Japanese interest undoubtedly is partially due to these opportunities, with an eye always on the difficulties being experienced because of United States embargoes.

Japanese consider Indo-China an extreme instance of the wealth and resources of east Asia under control of non-Asiatic powers.

"Japan has objectives of vital and sheer necessity," Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka commented yesterday. "I hope the French delegates will deliberate, bearing in mind this particular aspect."

4 IDENTIFIED AS ROBBERS.

Joseph Hart, 3538 Federal street; Edward Archibald, 3576 Vincennes avenue; James Phillips, 4558 Calumet avenue, and John Bryan, 6049 Calumet avenue, all colored, were identified yesterday at a detective bureau showup as participants in robberies of nine Chinese laundries.

2,610 AT ANNUAL TRIBUNE PARTY FOR EMPLOYES

THE TRIBUNE held its 20th annual New Year's reception yesterday for employés and their families.

A total of 2,610 guests, 421 of them the children of employés, entered the flower decorated lobby of Tribune Tower, where they were greeted by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE. The guests then went to other sections of the tower for dancing, refreshments, and informal New Year's gatherings.

THE TRIBUNE'S large mailing room on the first floor was converted into space for buffet service, with its machinery concealed behind Yuletide decorations. The second floor mailing room was converted into a ballroom, with Jack Russell's orchestra playing for dancers.

A total of 848 reception guests packed the main audience studio of W-G-N for a one hour program of music and comedy. Tom, Dick and Harry [Bud and Gordon Vandover and Marlin Hurt] shared honors with Kathryn Witwer, Attilio Baggiore, Edna Odell, and Lawrence Salerno. Robert Trendler, pianist, and Porter Heaps, organist, accompanied the singers, with Jess Kirkpatrick master of ceremonies.

THESE CRITICAL TIMES.

The critical days for America were predicted earlier in the year. They were foreshadowed long before the election. It was known in Washington that the movement to send the United States into the war as a full, but not fully armored, combatant would reach its maximum velocity along about New Year's.

Until the election was over the country was not to be unduly alarmed. Attention would be given to keeping the people in the belief that the draft, the mustering in of the National Guard, and the war preparations were entirely for defense and that no soldiers were to be sent into foreign wars. Promises and pledges were given. No young men were to fight in Asia, Africa, or Europe. America would aid Great Britain with materials but we would not enter the war. Most Americans were satisfied with that policy if adhered to. But it was known at the time that the war party did not intend to have it so.

Now that the election is out of the way and the third term is about to begin the persons who are determined that America should make war and not keep the peace are turning on the heat. They have nothing to fear politically now. The only thing the people can do is to protest and most of them are far away from the Washington scene where the decision will be made. It may be assumed that Mr. Roosevelt will pay very little attention to any display of public opinion or sentiment which opposes his own intentions. In his own opinion, his own program, whatever it may develop into, was approved Nov. 5. For whatever he does he will say he has a mandate.

The new congress probably will not be very much different from the present one except for the increased Republican representation in the senate from the middle west, where the people do not want this war. That should be a safeguard. These new senators are additions to the defenders of American peace who have been most eloquent and vigorous in the senate.

The war party is strong in Washington. It has its voices all over the Atlantic seaboard and it can concentrate forces in the capital. In the east it may seem at times that the country is clamoring for war. The people who would be sacrificed to it may have more difficulty in making themselves heard. They are further away and in the east they are regarded as negligible. They are not, however, unorganized, and the vigor of their protest is increasing. Congress at least will listen to it.

The administration has found many ways of avoiding congressional sanction in the steps it has wanted to take and may continue to do so. But a representative assembly, aroused by its constituency, is not powerless. If America is to be kept out of war the people of America must keep it out. They can do so thru the organizations which have come into being to defend them and they can do so thru congress.

If they do not thus protect themselves they will be at war. They will be in a struggle the end of which, as soon as they enter, no one can foresee. They will have undertaken to shape the destinies of Europe, Asia, and Africa. The mind cannot calculate what the consequences will be or when the American people will come out of the destructive enterprise into which they will have then gone.

There is nothing now to reveal what will happen to the American form of government, to the American economy, to the lives of the people—of such as remain alive—to the country's finances, to its liberties, or to the generation which will be paying the costs.

BEHIND SCHEDULE.

William F. Carey, the defense commission's expert on cantonment construction, says the camps east of the Mississippi will cost millions of dollars more than was expected, and will not be ready until a month or six weeks after the scheduled dates of completion. Mr. Carey offers four reasons for the failure to finish on time and within the estimates of expense.

The war department, he says, has made material changes in its plans; it now wants much more construction than was at first contemplated.

The original estimates of cost were too low. The weather has been unseasonably cold in the north and unseasonably wet in the south. The necessity of working at top speed has increased unit costs.

These are explanations which may go far to absolve Mr. Carey of responsibility, but they expose the war department as a good deal less efficient than the country would like to believe it is.

The department knew last summer how many soldiers were to be trained, and early in the autumn gave out the approximate dates when they would be called. The army has a staff which is supposed to be expert in planning, and an engineer corps which is supposed to be expert in construction.

It is difficult to see why changes in the plans should have been required. The problem of creating training centers was neither new nor unexpected. The department had the experience of 1917-'18 as a guide, and 20 years to meditate on it. The sites should have been selected years ago and the plans drawn; the contracts could have been negotiated while the appropriation was pending and should have been ready for signature the moment that the appropriation was available. If all this had been done—as it should have been—there could have been no talk now of inaccurate estimates.

The weather this year has been abnormal, but it is always more or less abnormal. Instead of accepting that as a fact and making allowances for it, the war department announced to the National Guardsmen and the prospective conscripts the dates on which they could expect to be called, and then broke faith. These men have borne the brunt of the inadequate planning. Instead of knowing to a day when they would have to abandon their civilian pursuits they have been misinformed, and the error is measured in months. The blundering has meant worry and loss to many men and inconvenience to all of them.

The lack of foresight in Washington ought to cause a great deal of concern thruout the country. There was no enemy in the field to retard our effort and force rapid change of plan. If the war department cannot make a creditable record on a relatively simple problem such as the preparation of cantonments in time of peace, what is to be expected of the organization in the heat, the excitement, and the confusion of war? And if, as many expect, the declaration of war would be accompanied by commandeering of the nation's industrial apparatus, what progress would then be achieved in the production of arms and equipment?

A STATE POLICE FORCE.

Governor Elect Green indicates that he will give the state highway police force a thoro shaking up as soon as he takes office. It needs it. He also says that members of the force should be picked on merit, thru a system of competitive examinations. That also is good news.

The present personnel of the highway police is the result of treating jobs on the force as political patronage during eight years of Democratic state administration.

Mr. Green says that he is not in favor of immediate civil service status for the police. It would be a grave mistake to blanket into a civil service police force the present political jobholders.

The only way to get a good police force for the state is to select its personnel on merit, by competitive examination, as Mr. Green suggests, and then give the resulting group civil service status and a merit system of promotion. Civil service status is essential if the state is to have a decent state police force. The only good state forces are those so protected.

The state police force needs further reformation than that of its personnel. At present it confines its operations to policing the highways, altho there is no statutory reason why it should do so. The statutes give members of the force all the powers of police and sheriffs.

Those powers should be exercised. The crime problem in Illinois is not confined to Chicago. There are serious problems of law enforcement in rural areas and small towns which, unlike Chicago, are unable to retain trained law enforcement officers.

Not all of the downstate sheriffs are of the low caliber of Chicago's entry, the Statesman O'Brien, but a great many of them know no more about law enforcement than he does about serving a handbook writ. Motorized crime, moreover, makes it increasingly difficult for local officers to deal with it. Even such offenses as chicken stealing are operated from bases several counties away from the scenes of theft.

Illinois has, in addition to its highway police, a state bureau of criminal identification and investigation. The latter is a competent unit which, at the request of local authorities, has rendered valuable aid in solving murders and other major crimes. This bureau should be consolidated with the highway police as its detective division. The uniformed police should use their latent statutory powers to be a real state police force.

ESCAPE FROM JEEVES.

Pelham Wodehouse [P. G. Wodehouse in our way of life] is now Gefangenennummer 796, in a Nazi internment camp in Silesia. Only recently it was learned that the war had rolled over him while he was at work in his villa at Le Touquet, picked him up and put him in strange surroundings. A correspondent searched him out and found him apparently happy—"quite happy here," in his own words.

To be quite happy in a camp for war prisoners would be an achievement even for a humorist. One explanation of the contentment of Mr. Wodehouse is that he is at work. He is finishing one opus and has another novel outlined, in which, no doubt the ninth earl is raising prize pigs, making the world much safer for democracy, and foreshadowing the future shape of things.

There is another explanation for our author's happiness. The correspondent who visited him reported: "Wodehouse came in smiling and pulled an old battered hat from his shining head. He was wearing a long heavy tan bathrobe held together by a leather belt, a blue turtle neck sweater, a tweed sports jacket, trousers, and knit gloves."

For once he has escaped from Jeeves.

Editorial of the Day

AN OLD WOLVERINE CUSTOM.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The Presidential elector from St. Johns, who became confused and cast one of Michigan's 19 electoral votes for President Roosevelt at the state's electoral college balloting, need not feel too chagrined at his error. He merely thought that Roosevelt's majority in most states nullified Willkie's Michigan plurality. It's an old Wolverine custom for voters not to know for whom they vote.

Names, for example. In last month's election many a voter saw the name Murphy on the ballot and thought he was casting his tally for the Murphy long since elevated to the United States Supreme court. On the same day another former governor, in his grave two years, unknowingly helped boost the total for a United States senate candidate of identical name.

All states have "good" voting names that go marching on to affect election results long after their owners have retired from politics or shuffled off their mortal coils. At least the St. Johns elector was under no delusion that it was Theodore Roosevelt for whom he nearly flunked out of the electoral college.

This state built 177 miles of roads with federal aid last year, but the New Dealers can't understand how the state raised its share without a bond issue.

THE OLD GUARD PASSES.

When Daniel Frohman died a few days ago, 89 years old, he was a tradition for playgoers between the ages of 60 and 70, a barely remembered name for those between 30 and 50, and a forgotten man for the Bright Young Things. Yet he had an important hand in the development of the American stage into its fine flowering of the premovie period; and he was also the most gentle figure among the coterie of theatrical magnates who organized the much abused organization called "the syndicate."

Since 1900 or thereabouts Daniel Frohman's reputation had been obscured by that of his brother Charles; but Daniel was the discoverer of Charles' most highly exploited star, Maude Adams. Another of his gifts to the American stage was E. H. Sothern, whose youth was largely spent in Frohman productions.

Daniel Frohman's career as an impresario began at the old Lyceum, 4th avenue and 23d street, New York, in 1886. He moved his stock company to Daly's in 1899, and transferred his activities to the new Lyceum, on West 43d street, in 1903. His management ended in 1905, but he continued to use a studio there until his death.

Back biting, ironic jeers, and jealous snarls flourish in the atmosphere of the theater. All the managers of Daniel Frohman's period were targets for such slurs; he alone was immune. No one ever spoke an unkind word about him, and this might serve as his epitaph.

In his "Memoirs of a Manager," there is a paragraph that gives the social flavor of his period. In discussing the première of Pinero's "Sweet Lavender" [1888], he wrote:

"The firstnight patrons were startled to discover that the heroine was an illegitimate child. It seemed to cast a pall over the assemblage. I cabled the author for permission to make a slight change in the relations of the parents. He grudgingly consented. The success of the play was at stake, and as a result of my revision it ran a season."

PROLOG TO A PLAY.

Ladies an' gentlemen, yer ear!
A play for ye tae see an' hear
By that incomparable mime—
Ye ken him weel—auld Feyther Time,
Supported by a muckle east,
As he has aye been in the past.
This drama, booked for twalmonth run,
Is "Chaff and Wheat of '41."
The plot tae ye I maun confess
Is a rank, unco bluidy mess.
Across the stage that's worrld wide
War stalks wi' his horrendous stride.
Peace, a frail frump, frigid an' frowzy,
Plays a wee part—an' is it lousy!
Noo there'll be acts an' scenes galore
The like o' which ye've kenned before,
But keep on hopin' for a cue
That introduces features new.
Some o' the auld stuff dinna miss:
The baby's laugh; the lover's kiss;
The gentle burgeoning o' spring,
Which let us pray tae earth wull bring
Surcease o' that horrific hell
That man imposes on himsel.

Noo since I havena read the play
There's little mair that I can say;
An' if the end I tried tae guess,
I fear I'd make an awfu' mess.
Hooever, this I'll tell tae ye:
The end is cloaked in mystery;
But taxes, war, an' death are certain—
Ladies, yer hats! Ring up the curtain.

ADDISON'S DISEASE: FAILURE OF THE ADRENAL GLANDS.

THE dependence of the human family upon the behavior of the ductless glands is emphasized over and over again in the daily practice of many physicians. Mr. A. may experience symptoms which indicate that the thyroid is producing too much secretion. Mrs. B., on the other hand, may complain that she is gaining weight and is tired most of the time. In this latter instance, the factory in question may be sluggish and unable to supply the body with the needed substance.

Other endocrines of equal significance are the adrenals, which lie just above the kidneys, and which have for their duties certain responsibilities in relation to the metabolism of foods and minerals, the maintenance of water balance in the body, and the support of blood pressure. Should these organs become ill or be subject to degeneration, the patient will exhibit a number of symptoms. Because this condition was first described by Thomas Addison, an English physician, the disorder bears his name—Addison's disease.

First of all, the victim complains of weakness, and a low blood pressure will be observed. Later, the pigment in the skin will be increased. While this manifestation usually appears slowly and gradually it is associated, as a rule, with dizziness, nausea, and diarrhea. Appetite vanishes, there is a distinct aversion to fatty foods, and prostration will become evident if the situation persists. After a time the body may lose so much fluid that the processes of digestion will suffer greatly and—because of poor circulation—nutrition may fade almost to the vanishing point. Thus it is that mental disturbances, beginning with simple forgetfulness, become pronounced.

A few years ago an extensive study demonstrated the vital importance of the cortex of the adrenals in the treatment of this type of gland failure. When it was applied to human beings, startling results ensued. It is now possible to supply an active extract which can be absorbed gradually and which will not only lengthen life but will restore efficiency, in many cases, to normal.

When salts of sodium [common salt or sodium chloride, for example] are administered simultaneously, the effect of the product is greatly enhanced. This is especially true if the diet contains but little potassium. Under this management many victims are progressing satisfactorily.

While a score or more of preparations have been isolated from the gland tissues, one in particular [desoxycorticosterone] can be manufactured in the laboratory and appears to be the most potent factor in combating the malady. When this is employed, it is not so essential to use large amounts of sodium or to restrict potassium quite so strictly. Under its influence, pressure levels which have been too low approach normal, mineral and sugar metabolism are restored, and water balance need no longer be considered as requiring adjustment. Sometimes it is feasible to bury a bit of this material beneath the skin, thus allowing slow absorption to renew the body's reservoir.

One report describes a man of 51 who consulted his physician because of nervousness, underweight, and trouble with vision. Examination revealed anemia and a blood pressure of 90. Pigmentation of the skin was in the early stages. Addison's syndrome was recognized.

Under treatment with liver extract and the adrenal cortex, plus plenty of common salt, he improved greatly. But he failed to return to his physician until a collapse followed a sharp drop in blood sugar. It was then that the chemical noted above was utilized and he has since been strict in his adherence to the prescribed régime. At the present time he is "going strong."

REST FOR SPINE.

T. Y. writes: Can a tuberculous condition of the spine be cured by any other means except surgery?

REPLY.

The parts must be fixed so as to be immovable. As a rule this requires skilled surgery. Enforced rest and relief from pressure will permit healing.

AMEBIC DYSENTERY.

J. G. S. writes: How is amebic dysentery contracted?

REPLY.

Disease producing ameba must enter the digestive tract. They may be conveyed by contaminated water, uncooked vegetables, or unclean hands.

RECOLLECTION OF MR. WHITE.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—After the offensive at St. Mihiel in September, 1918, my outfit, the 28th infantry, 1st division, was removed from the battle front and sent to encamp in a woods near Raulecourt which was only a short distance from the scene of our last battle. In our new camp we had typical French weather, rain and more rain and the few roads that existed were ankle deep in mud. Our pup tents were inadequate to protect us from the elements and the majority of us were in anything but a happy frame of mind.

Peering from our pup tents in this rain-soaked spot, one day we saw a large American automobile and a truck going down the road in the direction of regimental headquarters. Shortly afterward it was announced by the grapevine that representatives of the American Red Cross had arrived to succor us. Two or three days passed and at last it was announced that the gifts would be given out after the noon meal.

After the usual meal of beans, bread, and black coffee, I, along with a large number of shabbily dressed and rain-soaked men, joined an ever increasing line in front of the truck that was to be used. After waiting about three-quarters of an hour, two well booted and tailored men arrived on the scene and took up positions in the truck and began to dispense the handouts. After serving a small number of the men in line it was announced from the truck that the supplies were exhausted. Upon hearing this news the usual wisecracks were made about relief organizations, the line of men dissolved into the rain and mist, the non-recipients retired to their leaky tents to meditate on the weather, the war, and their hard luck.

I learned next day of the identity of our benefactors. The well dressed, booted, and polished gentleman who dispensed the shoestrings was William Allen White; his co-worker who presided over the razor blades was Henry J. Allen. I also learned that the major portion of the time that they spent with us was devoted to gathering souvenirs and interviewing officers, dog-robbers, and flunkies at headquarters, obtaining material that later appeared in a national magazine.

Here's the payoff. The shoestrings given out by Mr. White were worthless. They were of the ordinary variety and could not be used by men shod in the well known army hobnails. The razor blades dispensed by Mr. Allen were also worthless. They were designed for use in a razor of a type that few men in the regiment possessed.

The soldiers who were lucky enough to receive these wonderful gifts were an ingenious lot. They promptly started crap and blackjack games with the razor blades and shoestrings as stakes. One soldier evidently won all of them. While making a final inspection of our camping area the following evening just before boarding French trucks which transported us to the Argonne forest, I noticed a small pile of them where a pup tent had been an hour before. They were probably salvaged by some thrifty Frenchman, who no doubt found some use for them. At least I hope so.

Mr. White is front page news these days. He is now busy begging handouts for Britain. I sincerely trust that the money donated by his war mongering friends and dupes will be used to purchase things of a more practical nature for the people of that beleaguered island than the trinkets he gave out to that group of poorly dressed, half fed, half sick, rain-soaked doughboys that dismal day in September, 1918.

THE NEUTRALITY ACT.

Olney, Ill., Dec. 20.—We certainly do not want the neutrality law repealed nor do we want any loans granted to Great Britain. What happened to the sane and intelligent trend of thought we had when the law was passed? I still maintain that this is not our war and that we intend to stay out of it.

If we repeal this law now and extend credit or grant loans to Great Britain we might just as well admit that this is our war as well as Great Britain's and extend the rest of our support—which is men as well as money. Because if we feel obligated to the extent of financing the war then surely we feel obliged to the extent of fighting it. And that is just what we will be letting ourselves in for by repealing the neutrality act—actual participation in Europe's war between the old order and the new.

I am in favor of keeping our money and our men over here in the defense of America and her order when the time comes.

NEGLECTED PORTUGUESE.

Dubuque, Ia., Dec. 24.—If we are really trying to cultivate the good will of South America, could not our educational system do something definite? South American literature in English translations and South American history would form interesting and practical additions to our high school and college curriculums. True, Spanish is taught, but what about the almost universal neglect of Portuguese, the language of the 43 million inhabitants of Brazil? This beautiful tongue has a literature of the first importance and a world-wide distribution because of its use in the colonies of Portugal. What we need is not patronizing nor a cultivation of the big brother attitude, but friendly understanding between sister republics, which regard each other as equals.

WHAT ABOUT COLLATERAL?

Chicago, Dec. 21.—I see where Tommy the Cork, plus Crackpots, Inc., speaking via FDR, suggests mortgaging arms to J. Bull. Inasmuch as we have no aeroplane engines to deliver, and none in the offing in any great number, I have a cap pistol of my grandson's which needs just a little oiling which I will be glad to mortgage providing said J. Bull can supply the type of collateral my bank demands for an ordinary business loan.

LOTUS EATERS.

Homewood, Ill., Dec. 20.—They called us appeasers, pacifists, lotus eaters, and now they want to talk it over with us, saying there were no real differences.

The real lotus eaters are those who believe that the United States will really be defended by any army or navy but our own. Hired troops have never been trustworthy, nor the people who hired them.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother and father died September, 1940, left no will but did leave real estate and personal property [a farm]. There are notes of $2,000 and $1,000 signed by my father and, of course, the funeral bills, doctor bills, and my brother and his wife lived at home and they never received a salary but got their living and money now and then. Now there is not enough personal property to pay all these bills.

1. Are these notes considered a first obligation or should he receive a salary first?

2. We are going to try and sell the farm also.

P. J.

1. Yes, in the sense that debts should be paid ahead of distribution to beneficiaries. No, in the sense that if the relatives who rendered services can show by outside testimony that they are entitled to compensation, then such claims would rank the same as the other debts.

2. If the personal property is insufficient to pay debts, then a sale of real estate to pay debts can be forced.

"Where housekeeping services are rendered by one who stands in the family relation with the deceased and who then acts to charge the deceased estate with the value of the services, the presumption is that the services were intended to be gratuitous. This presumption, however, may be overcome by proof of facts or circumstances which show that the [parties] intended that compensation would be paid." [In re Lyons' Estate, 303 Ill. App. 642.]

CALL ON SCIENCE FOR ANSWERS TO VITAL PROBLEMS

Men Turn to Nature for Enlightenment.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29.—In a world where all ethical values are constantly being denied or challenged, where might makes right temporarily, science is being called upon to chart the course of future human thinking. It is asked for answers to age old problems, the problem of values. Men are turning to nature for the answer to many questions, and they are not sent away unsatisfied.

Dr. F. R. Moulton.

In the multitude of reports given at the American Association for the Advancement of Science in sessions here, there are a number of answers given. Sermons are found in stones and bugs, in the stars, and in the human body.

Science Constructive Force.

These truths, according to Dr. F. R. Moulton, secretary of the association, who spoke today at a meeting of science writers, are truths that are felt in the human heart. Science, he said, has built more than it has destroyed. This new faith is building in the fundamental mind of the people, slowly but surely, displacing so many of the inheritances of the animal within us. Not in a day, or in years, he says, will the new enlightenment come, but the direction is in the line of progress.

Coöperation is a rule thruout the natural world as well as the rule of tooth and claw. Nature helps, as well as rends. Science implies freedom, according to Dr. Thomas D. Leake of the University of California school of medicine.

Depends Upon Satisfaction.

"From the characteristics of current biological knowledge," he said, "a general principle of ethical significance may be deduced: Probability of survival or relationship between organisms, or groups of organisms, increases with the degree to which the relationship is mutually advantageous. In terms of humanity this generalization becomes: The probability of survival of a relationship between humans, or groups of humans, increases with the extent to which the relationship is mutually satisfying.

"The indications of this generality are altruistic and in accord with such conduct which conventional ethical systems call 'good.' Biologists should be the first to appreciate that the moral conventions now with us continue to exist thru their survival value. The biological urges for self-preservation and satisfaction supply motivation for a biological basis for ethics.

"The proposed principle explains the ultimate failure of any form of power politics and implies the social ideal of democracy. Science in itself and in its application to ethics seems capable of operating most effectively when a conscious society voluntarily guarantees full freedom to it."

Discusses Science Values.

Ralph Barton Perry, professor of philosophy at Harvard, in a discussion of the values of science said:

"Once it is granted that values are facts there can be no radical difference between the knowledge of physical or psychical nature, and the knowledge of values. If we focus attention upon the objects having value, such as maxims, codes, ideals, goals of endeavor and visions of counsels of perfection, we are exploring realms of nonexistent entities and their logical relations.

"But the same is the case when the physicist resorts to mathematics, frames theories, and makes deductions from hypotheses. The fact that peace derives value from the longings of a war-ridden world, or thru its promise of happiness to destitute or frustrated men, is just as solid a fact as the fact that gases obey the law of probability, or atoms the differential calculus.

Values Are Facts.

"Values then are facts or the nonfactual derivities or components of facts. There is no justification for the antithesis between science and values any more than there would be justification for antithesis between science and motion, or science and heat, or life, or science and human behavior."

Dr. Perry finds "the maxim of reflective agreement" the only workable principle and one that gives clear and verifiable meaning to such expressions as the Golden Rule.

"Does it make men better," he asks, "to have ethics, a moral philosophy, an idea which they set above all other ideas, which they define, for which they argue and to which they win converts?

"Americans in facing the present crisis are seeking to define and prove their creed, believing that this is a condition both of survival and fitness to survive. I accept this belief.

Seek to Achieve Agreement.

"The ideal of harmonious happiness is a union of passion with enlightenment. It is the function of the science of that ideal to define its meaning, to illuminate its characteristics, to commend it to such human interests and sympathies as are sensitized to those characteristics, and to discover whatever laws of nature will enable men both to achieve agreement and realize the ends in which they agree.

"Science, morally neutral in its own motivation, is the natural ally of libertarian institutions. It can be misused, but it may be well used."

Crushes Revolt

KING IBN SAUD.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 29 (AP).—Saudi Arabia's legation announced today that King Ibn Saud had smashed a plot to overthrow his régime with the arrest of six persons, one of whom has been executed. The plot was believed to have included plans to assassinate Ibn Saud, but the legation said the supposed conspirators had no popular support.

The leader was said to be Sherif Abdul Hamid Ibn Ohn, a relative of Amir Abdullah Ibn Hussein of Transjordan and of the royal family of Iraq. The others were his servants.

The sherif was sentenced to death but the penalty later was commuted to life imprisonment, presumably because of his ancient lineage and his royal connections. His chief aid, El Abet El Dib, was executed and the others jailed. The sherif had lived in Egypt until three months ago when he went to Mecca.

SCIENTIST TELLS HOW WAR PERILS IDEAL OF JUSTICE

All Lose Confidence in Virtues, He Says.

War's greatest threat to family life may be the fact that it causes people to "lose all confidence in justice as one of the principles which regulate the course of human existence." This was the message yesterday of Dr. James H. S. Bossard, of the University of Pennsylvania, at the concluding session of the American Sociological society's convention in the Congress hotel.

"In peacetime the conception of a measurably just relation between effort and result, labor and the production of labor, seems as natural to the mind of the average citizen as it is indispensable to the maintenance of the state," Dr. Bossard said.

"With war, this conception changes. An irritating sense of incalculable chance takes its place. Things go awry from the point of view of a reasonable causality. Each new day may demonstrate the futility of the most careful preparations. War cancels causality.

Life Becomes a Carnival.

"Life becomes a carnival in which nothing remains true to itself. There is no apparent relation between what a man does and what happens to him. There is a robot-like disregard of individual effort, and the human reaction is "why then be limited by the old restrictions? Why be inhibited by yesterday's virtues? Why then labor, and especially save, when the rewards of labor and saving are taken away, impersonally, thru the law of chance?"

Dr. Bossard reminded his audience that war has been the rule in human society during so-called civilization. Between 1496 B. C. and 1932 A. D. there were wars 91.7 per cent of the time, he said.

Dr. Pitirim A. Sorokin, chairman of the department of sociology at Harvard university, called for a reconstruction of sociology from top to bottom to make it "as valid as any verity of natural science."

"Social science has become increasingly more uninspired, more uncreative, and more incapable, either of foreseeing future trends or of serving efficiently the practical needs of our society and culture," Dr. Sorokin said.

Reforms Fail to Reform.

"The more economists have tampered with economic conditions, the worse they have become; the more political scientists have reformed governments, the more are governments in need of reform; the more sociologists have tampered with the family, the more the family has disintegrated.

"Likewise, all the social sciences have failed correctly to foresee the trends of important socio-cultural processes. On the eve of war they were forecasting peace; on the eve of economic crash and impoverishment they were predicting bigger and better prosperity."

The American Political Science association continued its 36th annual meeting yesterday in the Palmer House. The 27th annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors will convene today in the Stevens hotel. Delegates and members from 200 colleges and universities are expected to attend.

THAILAND CLAIMS FRENCH REPULSED IN BORDER FIGHT

BANGKOK, Thailand, Dec. 29 (AP).—Large scale hostilities flared again today along the French Indo-China frontier, and the Thai [Siamese] high command declared French forces retreated after two clashes.

The communique said the French left arms and ammunition behind when they were forced back yesterday in the Aranyapredes district.

A later engagement in which large forces of Indo-Chinese troops were said to have been involved was reported to have lasted two hours. Then, the communique said, the French again were repulsed with many casualties.

Awful Conflagration of the Steam Boat LEXINGTON In Long Island Sound on Monday
Eve.g Jan.y 13th 1840, by which melancholy occurrence, over 100 PERSONS PERISHED.

Steamboat LEXINGTON sinks!

On a bitter winter night in 1840, the steamboat Lexington caught fire and burned in Long Island Sound. Over a hundred lives were lost.

New York was electrified by the disaster.

Nathaniel Currier, who was later to found the celebrated firm of Currier & Ives, had a Yankee hunch. He reasoned that if public interest in the disaster was so keen, the public would buy pictures of it—if it had the chance.

So he had a theatrical picture of the disaster drawn. And only three days after the fire, he had prints on sale on the streets of New York. The city was amazed at this journalistic enterprise. And it eagerly bought prints from the peddlers who hawked them at prices ranging from 6c for a little print to $4 for a full color picture. To satisfy the demand for copies of pictures of the burning ship, his presses had to run day and night.

* * *

Just one hundred years ago, Nathaniel Currier was the first to sense New York's keen interest in pictures of spot news.

The hunger for pictures has always existed. But not until The News began in 1919 did New York enjoy spot-news pictures of all occurrences, quickly published, rapidly distributed.

The News was the first picture newspaper in America. The initial issue of The News recognized the importance of camera reporting,—it said:

"Ten thousand words of description could not convey to you the impression you receive when you look at Millet's painting, 'The Angelus'. You could read all that has ever been written about the Clock Room in Paris, where the peace conference is being held, and get no clear idea of it. Look at a single picture of the same room, and you know exactly what it is like."

From the beginning, The News established records for remarkable speed in picture gathering. Twenty years ago, in 1920, Wall Street was rocked by a terrific explosion. News photographers and cameramen were the first to arrive in Wall Street after the blast, and got the only pictures taken before police lines were established.

In 1924, The News published the first pictures sent by radio from London. In 1926 News cameramen covering the Passaic silk strike were set upon by the police; their cameras were broken—but airplanes were used to outwit the police and secure strike pictures. When Lindbergh hopped off for Paris in 1927, a News photographer flew 100 miles to take the last picture of him at Lake Ronkonkoma, L. I.

In 1933, The News bought the first picture plane. The only pictures of the actual sinking of the Vestris were secured and first published in The News in 1934. In 1937, The News got some of the most remarkable photographs of the explosion of the Hindenburg. One of these was awarded first prize at the Press Photographers' Association Exhibition, as the best news photograph of the year.

Among the many noteworthy picture achievements of The News in 1940 were publication of hundreds of war pictures obtained from Europe by radio, cable, clipper, and boat . . . striking pictures of the World's Fair bombing . . . the "suspected-sabotage" explosion in Woodbridge, N. J. . . . and the Kenvil powder blast.

* * *

To get the most significant pictures, and get them first, The News spends about $450,000 on photographs alone. It has the first and only AP wirephoto franchise in New York—which costs $100,000 a year. It has the only portable AP wirephoto sending and receiving set in New York. It has two picture planes, which fly 150,000 miles a year. It subscribes to the more important picture services, and has a local staff of about 50 photographers and studio men. Editorial expenses total several million dollars annually. Altogether, to produce The News requires the largest newspaper expenditure in the world.

Noteworthy pictorial reporting is one of the reasons why The News is America's most popular newspaper. Its net paid circulation exceeds 1,950,000 daily, 3,550,000 Sunday. It is read by four New York City families in five, and more suburban families than read any other newspaper. It sells merchandise in tremendous volume. The New York market annually spends billions of dollars—and a majority of the New York audience are News readers! If you want their vast purchases—concentrate your messages in The News!

MORALITY IS BASE OF SOCIAL STUDY, ASSERTS STRITCH

Christian Truths Form Backbone, Session Told.

Sociology belongs squarely in the field of moral theology. This is Christian sociology, and it is impossible to set up a social philosophy apart from religion and that idealism which dominates the individual life of man.

This was the essence of an address delivered yesterday by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch before the American Catholic Sociological society in the Chicago Towers club.

After describing what he considered the true function of sociology, the study of man as a social being, Archbishop Stritch denounced two branches of modern social thinkers.

Badge of Skepticism Assailed.

"There are those," he said, "who pay homage to the mechanical, mid-Victorian methods of science, who scoff at basic truth, who think the badge of erudition is to be a skeptic, who look upon life as merely an adventure in experimentation, and who, because they have not been able to find spiritual values in their laboratories, have taken spiritual values to be mere assumptions, mere conventions."

To these thinkers the archbishop charged the development of the trend of absolutism.

"These men," he said, "sometimes talk in terms of democracy, but when we read of the philosophies which go under their talking we must stand in horror and aghast at the social spectacle which they present. They present a tyranny as terrible as any which has ever been described in the pages of history."

Truth Termed Objective.

The other thinkers he criticized were those who "make everything of the creation of man's phantasy, who would have us believe there is no reality except the reality which we create in our own selves, who say there is no objectivity to truth at all."

He said it is not strange that from their philosophies should come the principles of destruction and of the exaltation of a group and individual, and the principle which makes for the destruction of all that is holy.

"The Christian sociologist," Archbishop Stritch said, "studies Christian man, the Christian soul in the interplay of social life. He ties the experience of all his notions of a right order in society to the great Christian truths. But he doesn't separate himself from progress. He realizes he is living in a changing society, and in that society he holds to the one basic truth without which there can be no right social order. We must bring Christian truths to men today in the terms of their social needs and their social experiences."

11 P. M. CURFEW CURBS NEW YEAR'S EVE FOR BERLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Last year Berliners were allowed to celebrate New Year's eve on an almost normal scale, but this year the 11 p. m. curfew must be observed. The big hotels have dropped their traditional New Year's eve parties. Restaurants will close at 11 p. m. Consequently, persons bent on celebrating will do it at home or in some cases in clubs which have obtained special permission to stay open beyond curfew.

Fireworks are banned for New Year's eve celebrations. The German press also states that slapstick party favors are not to be used at parties this year.

In the old days January used to be full of thrills for women. It was the month of winter sales. This year's winter sales have been banned in view of the manufacturing restrictions for ordinary goods and the concentration of all efforts in Germany on the production of war material.

SCIENCE TAKES UP HIGH COST OF ALCOHOLISM

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29.—America's liquor bill was estimated today at more than $5,000,000,000 a year, not including the cost of the liquor itself.

Dr. Horatio M. Pollock, mental hygiene statistician of the New York state department of health, told members of the symposium on alcohol conducted by the American Association for the Advancement of Science that there are at least 1,000,000 chronic alcoholics in the United States and that "the wastage of human values chargeable to alcoholism greatly reduces the annual income of the nation and is a potent factor in keeping a large proportion of the population in a dependent or marginal economic condition."

Dr. Abraham Myerson of Harvard university asserted that the problem must be met by social means, social re-education, and social legislation, but, that strict prohibition is not the answer.

PAIR TO REWED 5 DAYS BEFORE SILVER WEDDING

Los Angeles, Dec. 29 [Special].—Dr. Frank F. Newell, Burlington, Wis., surgeon, and Mrs. Marie Barney Joy, Los Angeles piano and vocal concert soloist, will be married at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Tuesday afternoon. And next Sunday they will celebrate their 25th silver wedding anniversary.

This is an easily explained paradox. First wed at Charlotte, Mich., on Jan. 5, 1916, they were divorced five years later. Thereafter, Dr. Newell remarried, as did Mrs. Joy. Dr. Newell was divorced from his second wife a year ago. Three years earlier Mrs. Joy's husband died. Now they will begin their romance all over again.

"We've been in love since we were youngsters," Mrs. Joy explained.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN TOPS GOAL BY $49,000

$3,653,342 Given by 500,000 Donors.

George A. Ranney, president of the Community Fund of Chicago, announced yesterday that 500,000 Chicagoans had contributed $3,653,342 to the 1941 fund. The goal was $3,604,000, so that oversubscriptions so far total $49,342. Ranney was optimistic that this figure would be increased by contributions still coming in.

The money is to be distributed among 185 Catholic, Jewish, Protestant, and nonsectarian charitable and social agencies, whose aggregate budgets amount to 17½ million dollars annually. These agencies expect to receive 9 millions in earnings from endowments, to raise $4,986,000 thru independent drives, and to obtain the remainder thru the Community fund.

50,000 Workers in Drive.

Ranney said that 50,000 volunteer workers were instrumental in making the campaign a success. He said that the 500,000 subscribers this year represented an increase of approximately 7,000 over last year, continuing the trend toward wider support of the fund which has been in evidence since 1935, when contributors numbered 228,000.

"The base of giving is constantly broadening," Ranney said. "The Community Fund has established itself as the medium thru which Chicagoans prefer to do what lies in their power for humane projects. The fund enables donors to help with every important phase of charity."

How Dollar Is Divided.

Ranney said that the distributed fund dollar is divided as follows: For relief of families in distress, 36 cents; for care of underprivileged, poor, hungry, and dependent children, 18 cents; hospital and clinical care for dependent patients, 12 cents; educational and recreational activities among children and youth, 20 cents; nursing services, 4 cents; care of the aged, 2 cents; specialized services and help for the infirm, 4 cents. Of the remaining 4 cents, Ranney said, only 3.3 cents is used for campaign and administrative expenses.

Ranney said that the campaign officers, Merle J. Trees, general chairman; Harold H. Swift, head of the sponsors' division; Champ Carry, industrial chairman, and Mrs. King Mitchell, chairman of the women's division, were due special commendation for the efficient organization of the drive.

'Relief Client' Says He Was Shot by a 'Tall, Short Man'

Joseph Palumbo, 52 years old, 2908 Parnell avenue, was in the Bridewell hospital in serious condition early today after being shot in the kidney, near 29th and Wallace streets. Palumbo, a relief client, was brought to People's hospital by his father-in-law. The latter refused to give his name, address, or any other information to Deering police. Palumbo would say only that he had been shot by a "tall, short man."

2 BILLION CUT IN NON-DEFENSE SPENDING URGED

Economy League Would Taper Off Relief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—Savings of $2,043,000,000 on nondefense expenditures in the 1942 fiscal year, which is to begin next July 1, were urged today by the National Economy league to offset part of the cost of rearming America.

"In the face of extraordinary defense needs perhaps equaling the previous level of nondefense expenditures, there is no justification for a policy of 'folly as usual,'" said Ernest Angell, league chairman.

"Much nondefense spending is indefensible waste. The financial burden of defense should focus the attention of all thoughtful citizens on the obvious need to conserve financial resources and credit for the armament emergency.

Relief Cut Is Proposed.

"The league's study points the way to substantial savings, without cutting a penny from defense and without jeopardy to any citizen. While urging drastic curtailment in public assistance as defense work advances, the league's proposals allow for a tapering off period and provide for continued assistance at a moderate level to prevent hardship."

The league would reduce the present 7 billion 100 million dollar level of nondefense expenditures to 6 billion 700 million dollars in the present fiscal year and to 5 billion 100 million dollars in the coming fiscal year. It argued that the savings can be accomplished if the administration and congress are determined to reduce government costs and if the pleas of minority groups for appropriations be rejected.

Three Places to Economize.

The league reminded that substantial economies can be made only in public works, relief, and agriculture. Possible reductions even in regular departmental expenses would equal the cost of several warships, it was said.

The study recommended the following economies:

Expenditure [In Millions].

	Year ending June 30, '41.	Year ending June 30, '42.
Gen'l government: legislative, judicial, executive agencies	54	109
Public works	...	378
WPA	200	736
NYA	...	40
CCC	40	160
Aids to agriculture	100	600
Total	394	2,043

"There is no occasion to regard continued deficits as inevitable," the league said. "By paring every type of expenditures to the minimum required for efficient government and national security and by a program of courageous taxation, the budget can be brought to a balance earlier than is generally realized."

TRIBUNE OPENS EXHIBITION OF PRIZE PHOTOS

The first Chicago Tribune News Cameramen's Photographic exhibit was opened yesterday on the first floor of Tribune tower. The show consists of 300 news photographs taken in recent years by staff cameramen during the regular course of their duties.

The exhibit will be open free to the public today thru Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. The photographs on display are of every type—sports, disaster, human interest, scenic, and aerial views. Visitors will be asked to indicate their first, second, and third choices, and the photographers who snapped the winning pictures will be awarded prizes.

The prizes, as well as latest types of photographic equipment, are on display in the window of the Public Service office in Tribune tower. The equipment shown includes such recent developments as the new speed lamps which catch action at 1-30,000th of a second, and "big and little Berthas," or giant long range cameras.

JUDGE WILKERSON VERIFIES REPORT OF RETIREMENT

Judge James H. Wilkerson verified reports yesterday that he has sent to President Roosevelt his resignation as senior judge of the United States District court here. The veteran jurist said he expects to end his 18 years of service in the federal court tomorrow. His resignation is worded to take effect Jan. 1.

Judge Wilkerson is 71 years old and has been eligible for retirement at full pay for more than a year. His health has been frail for the last year and friends said this was the chief reason for his retirement. He was appointed to the federal court in 1922.

The judge said he had not made up his mind on his future plans. He said he first intends to rest and that he had not decided whether to return to the practice of law.

COURTNEY AIDS JOIN IN BATTLE TO FREE UNION

McLane Ouster Sought in Court Move.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Two assistant state's attorneys were assigned yesterday to join in litigation which is aimed at purging local 278 of the bartenders' union of George B. McLane, its business agent, and of its affiliation with the Nitti gang.

The defeat of McLane in the union election scheduled for Jan. 6 is given as the primary aim of a group of petitioners whose attorney, Raymond F. Hayes, is to be heard today by Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne. The election is under the control of Judge Dunne.

Aids to Be in Court.

William Crawford and Richard Gallagher, assistant state's attorneys, were instructed by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney to be present in court and to offer their services in any manner acceptable to Judge Dunne.

Hayes also is expected to ask Judge Dunne to cite McLane for contempt of court on the ground McLane's alleged dealings with the gang of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti constitute a fraud on the court. McLane's charges that the Nitti gang had seized the union led to the appointment of a receiver for the union and Nitti's subsequent trial on charges of conspiracy to take over the organization. Nitti was acquitted when McLane refused to testify against him.

Write-In Votes Sought.

Hayes said he will ask the court to rule on the legality of a write-in campaign intended to defeat McLane for business agent in the union election. McLane is without organized opposition because two candidates for union business agent—Arthur Donohue and Jerry Forney—were induced to take their names off the ballot.

"If the court permits, the Progressive candidates will run Richard Nugent, a bartender employed in the Congress hotel, for business agent," Hayes said. "At present Nugent is a candidate for trustee. They are certain they can get enough votes for Nugent for business agent by having the members write his name on the ballot and marking an X in front of it."

W-G-N TO OFFER MUSICAL VARIETY SHOW THURSDAY

Mills Brothers, Yvette and Zurke on Program.

Thursday will be music night on the W-G-N Mutual celebrity program, In Chicago Tonight, produced from 7:30 to 8 o'clock in the W-G-N main audience studio. A variety of music by three distinctive types of entertainers will be on the program.

The Mills Brothers—a famous harmony quartet—will occupy one spot on the bill. In another will be Yvette, honey-haired singer voted the radio singing discovery of 1940. Third in the lineup of stars will be Bob Zurke, swing pianist picked by Paul Whiteman recently as the All-American piano player.

Mills Brothers Coming to Theater.

The Mills Brothers are in New York and will open Friday at the Oriental theater. Yvette [Elsa Harris] is starred in the Camellia house of the Drake hotel. Zurke is appearing in the Panther room of the Hotel Sherman.

Lou Jackobson will produce the show in the absence of William A. Bacher, W-G-N chief of programs and production, who went to Palm Beach, Fla., yesterday for a vacation. Harold Stokes will direct the orchestra and Announcer Jess Kirkpatrick will be master of ceremonies.

The Mills Brothers—Harry, Herbert, Donald, and John,—started in their father's barber shop in Bellfontaine, O., some 15 years ago. They became famous in vaudeville and radio for their singing imitations of trumpets, trombones, and other musical instruments.

On Radio Less Than Year.

Yvette, a native of Birmingham, Ala., was educated in the Sacred Heart of Mary convent in New Orleans, La. She is 18 years old. She had a radio audition in New York last year and made her network debut just less than a year ago, on Jan. 14, 1940. Her sultry southern voice made her an immediate success.

Zurke's chief eccentricity—that of never looking at the keyboard while playing—will be visible to the W-G-N studio audience tho not to listeners Thursday. Zurke has been starred with several dance orchestras. His greatest success was with Bob Crosby's band, which he left some months ago to fill single engagements.

'THE OLD REFRAIN' TO BE HIGHLIGHT OF CONCERT HOUR

Wilkomirski to Accompany Miss Claire in Song.

"The Old Refrain," sung by Marion Claire with violin accompaniment by Michael Wilkomirski, concertmaster of the W-G-N orchestra, and the W-G-N orchestra and chorus, will be the highlight of the Chicagoland Concert hour tonight. The concert will be presented over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 10 to 10:45 p. m.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra.

Miss Claire also will sing the Mexican folk song, "Cielito Lindo," "Ring Out, Wild Bells," an old hymn; Brahms' "Lullaby," and the Prayer waltz and finale from "Hansel and Gretel," by Humperdinck. The chorus will join in the latter number. Orchestral numbers will include works by Delibes, Strauss, and Wagner.

The Concert hour is produced by William A. Bacher. Music commentary is written by Cecil Smith of The Tribune music and drama department.

TEAMSTER UNION ELECTS OFFICERS AS POLICE WATCH

An estimated 4,500 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs elected officers yesterday under the watchful eyes of Lieuts. Thomas Kelly and Charles Egan of the state's attorney's office, 12 detectives, and a number of uniformed policemen. There was no violence.

The police guard was requested by a rank and file group seeking to dethrone their present officers. Voting was at 220 South Ashland avenue, and altho the polls closed at 4 p. m., the last vote wasn't cast until 5:10 p. m. Five ten man auditing teams, selected outside the union ranks, were still busy early this morning tabulating votes.

The incumbents are headed by Frank Tiedt, president, who is opposed by Ray Nelson, 2410 Wellington avenue. Nelson recently found a package of bullets on his doorstep.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE
SERVING CHICAGO FOR 93 YEARS

Reveal Troths of Miss Judson, Miss Chapman

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO engagement announcements concerning four old and prominent Chicago families take precedence over all other social news this morning. One concerns Miss Alice Clay Judson and Edward L. Ryerson III. and the other Miss Carolyn Stickney Chapman and Thomas Edmund Wells. Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman made formal announcement of their youngest daughter's engagement to a son of Mrs. Thomas E. Wells yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Clay Judson are announcing their only daughter's engagement to the elder son of the junior Edward L. Ryersons this morning.

Miss Chapman, a senior at Vassar college, is at home for the holidays, and Mr. Wells, who is working in Rock Rapids, Ia., arrived yesterday for a visit in Lake Forest with his family and his fiancée. His mother is to be married to Dr. Ellsworth Faris on New Year's day. Mr. Wells, who attended the University of Arizona, has a sister, Nancy, and a brother, Greeley. Miss Chapman has three sisters, Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., Mrs. Francis Beidler of Lake Forest, and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno Jr. of Boston, Mass.

Miss Judson, a sophomore at Bryn Mawr college, was included in this year's list of debutantes altho she did not choose to have a formal "coming-out." She has one brother, Clay Jr. They are grandchildren of the late Howard Van Doren Shaw, eminent architect, and Mrs. Shaw. Their mother is the former Sylvia George A. Ranney Jr.

Young Mr. Ryerson will be graduated in June from Yale, where his father finished in 1908. He has one brother, Morton, and a sister, Mrs. Shaw, is well known as a sculptor.

Grandmothers Give Party for Two Buds Tonight

Tonight's supper-dance at the Casino club will be unique among the debut festivities crowding the calendar today, for two grandmothers are entertaining jointly for their debutante granddaughters.

It will be an evening long remembered by Miss Adrienne Ely and Miss Joan Revell, whose grandmothers, Mrs. C. Morse Ely and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, are entertaining the buds' friends at supper and dancing. The quartet will be on hand by 10:30 o'clock to receive the merrymakers, Miss Revell in French blue taffeta with a spray of rosebuds twining from shoulder to waist, and Miss Ely in flesh-colored tulle.

Both debutantes already have been presented to society by their parents. In September the junior Alexander Revells gave a tea in their home in Lake Forest, and Miss Ely, daughter of Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, had a similar party. Miss Revell is studying music at the Juilliard school, while her young contemporary is at home this season.

Among the guests at tonight's party will be Miss Revell's house guest, Miss Tina Vaughan of Boston.

Tannisse Twyman to Have Breakfast.

The debutantes will start the day today with Miss Tannisse Twyman's debut breakfast at the Arts club. With the debut calendar as crowded as it is this season, the Robert Twymans found this the most satisfactory method of presenting their daughter, who is a student at Pine Manor.

The debutante will wear an afternoon dress of military blue. Her assistants are Miss Mary Ann Wyman, Miss Muriel MacChesney, Miss Angeline Johnson, and Miss Jeanne Stenson.

Tea for Barbara Burch at Indian Hill Club.

Pyramids of camellias will deck the tables at Miss Barbara Burch's debut tea at the Indian Hill Country club from 4 to 7 o'clock this afternoon. Miss Burch, a senior at Pine Manor, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Burch of Winnetka. She will wear a bouffant white tulle gown embroidered in silver and carry a bouquet of pink camellias.

Three of Miss Burch's classmates at Pine Manor have come from out of town to assist at her debut. They are Miss Evelyn Gardner's gown of white tulle frosted with silver lace blended with the decorations at her debut ball Saturday night at the Blackstone hotel. The party was the Henry A. Gardners' second this season for their daughter, who attends Connecticut college. The ballroom was filled with white Christmas trees and huge, glistening snowballs held red poinsettias.

Ozark Party Invitation Tour.

Inviting the guests to an Ozark party is more fun than the party itself. With no telephones, the inviting is always done in person . . . and develops into a solid day of visiting. Take today's inviting trip, for example.

My first stop is at Aunt Lizzie's. She has just opened a jar of poke, canned last spring, and I eat a saucerful while convincing her that we will not play cards or do anything else sinful at the party. She never forgets our three card tables! My next stop is at the Heatons', where I find three of the "girls" and their deaf brother, Harry, sorting hickory nuts, butternuts, black walnuts, and hazelnuts, while sister Snow reads aloud to them beside the roaring woodburning heating stove. They bring in a stone jar of big, flat, white sugar cookies. I eat a couple and accept a bagful of the choicest nuts before driving on to my kinfolks.

• • •

Uncle Bert is fixing the door of the cellar. He admits that mom had been after him all fall, but just today he got workbrittle enough to do it. Aunt Blanche and my two young cousins, Rosa Lou and Betty Lee, greet me. We admire the repaired cellar door. I gaze with awe at the 700-odd jars on the narrow shelves, all canned by Aunt Blanche last summer. Peach preserves, apple butter, spiced carrots, watermelon pickles, corn relish, succotash, tomatoes, catsup, chili sauce, beans, peas, beets, grapes in sirup, blackberries, plum jelly, and dozens more. As I look at the jugs of sorghum, the gunny sack full of peanuts, and bins of turnips and apples, they tell me of the squash, pumpkins, sweet potatoes, dried corn, popcorn, and strings of peppers stored in the kitchen. These, I reflect, are my people, and I am proud of them! We open a tall jar of 14 day pickles, sweet, spicy, delicious. The girls and I eat two apiece in our fingers, while Aunt Blanche and Uncle Bert put a sackful of peanuts, a pail full of baby turnips, and a "mess" of sweet potatoes in my car.

I drive on to the Springers' to find Verna and her mother canning sausage . . . the aftermath of butchering day. The plump cakes are crisply fried, then put into glass jars. Hot fat is poured in upon them, and the jar is sealed and inverted, allowing the fat to congeal and form a perfect seal. This, Verna says, keeps the sausage from tasting "old." I eat a couple of hot sausage cakes and some cold biscuits and take a "mess" of spareribs and backbones out to the car before crossing the road to the Rhineharts'.

Mrs. Rhinehart is getting dinner. She has just opened a jar of her specialty, fried chicken. "Tastes just like it was canned yesterday," she says proudly, "but it was done last spring soon as the young roosters were big enough to bother the pullets." I eat a drumstick and give it deserved praise!

At the Wolf Creek corner, I turn thru the woods and get to the Hawkins' just as they are finishing dinner. I refuse the baked beans, but eat a large cube of warm gingerbread, topped with whipped cream, yellow as gold and thick enough to eat. I accept a loaf of Mary's crusty light bread, fresh from the oven, and head for the Simms' farm house on the banks of Jack's forks. Nonnie, a thin, wiry, indefatigable great-grandmother, is just rounding the corner of the smokehouse with an apronful of green hickory chips. Together we replenish the smoldering fire under four hams, then go into the house to talk about the party, quilt patterns, and butchering. I eat a thick slab of crackling cornbread, oozing with sweet butter churned within the hour, and accept a pail full of snowy lard before starting home.

Happily remembering the unanimous acceptances and planning party fun, I turn on the car radio. I hear that the families of Spain were allowed an extra five ounces of bread for Christmas.

Good Morning!

It's not often that a little program picture packs two such punchful surprises as you'll find toward the end of "East of the River." Tell you what they ARE? Certainly not. But they're believable. Meaning that what DOES happen—COULD—naturally.

The story told is of Mamma Lorenzo, who runs a popular little ravioli restaurant on New York's east side; her two boys, Joe, her own son, and Nicky, whom she has adopted, and Laurie Romayne, who is, first, Joe's moll and later becomes Nicky's fiancée.

Had Mamma not pleaded with the judge both boys would have been sent to the reformatory when mere youngsters, for Joe was a hardboiled little egg, and Nicky was his shadow and, between them, they had almost killed a detective. But Mamma promises the judge there will be no more trouble.

Joe grows up and goes to—San Quentin, tho letters to his mother come—with money in them—from a California ranch. . . . Nicky graduates with honors from an engineering school. . . . Joe, released from gaol, boards a train with his Laurie—whose forging prowess has accounted for the checks Mamma's received—and the whole happy family is on hand for the celebration. . . .

"WHAT?" cries Mamma, "Go to a hotel?" Indeed not, her house is where Laurie shall stay. . . . So Joe and Laurie go home—and Mamma's love gives the girl a new slant on life. . . . When Joe departs for reasons the picture shall show, Laurie stays in New York, gets an honest job—and falls in love with Nicky, to whom she confides the truth about herself.

Joe comes back—and here is where things you don't expect start to happen. . . .

It's one grand performance Marjorie Rambeau turns out! She is a worthy follower of Marie Dressler. One scene of hers in this picture I don't believe you'll ever forget. And Brenda Marshall! Isn't she splendid? So sincere, so facile and SO beautiful! . . . John Garfield fits well into the pattern of Joe; William Lundigan is a convincing Nicky, and other parts are excellently played.

The potent little story has been beautifully directed and the dialog really TALKS!

See you tomorrow.

Cartoon Folk Caper on Stage in New Ballet

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Cartoon characters from the New Yorker magazine came to life yesterday and pranced about the stage of the Auditorium. Among them were Peter Arno's Colonel, Dowager, and Timid Man; Helen Hokinson's well upholstered Club Woman; Rea Irvin's very correct Eustace Tilley, and O. Soglow's Little King. Aiding and abetting them in a fine feverish hour of music and dancing were such dignitaries of New York café society as the Gossip Columnist, the Debutante, and the Drunk Man.

This was the first Chicago performance by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo of the new ballet, "The New Yorker," choreographed by Leonide Massine to music by the late George Gershwin, and with décor by Carl Kent.

The ballet has a headlong, brawling, hysterical quality. The usually dignified artists of the Ballet Russe take to American jazz as easily as if they had all been born and raised in Brooklyn. They clatter away to Gershwin's supercharged tunes until you would swear that the stage was coming down under them.

The flavor of the cartoon characters has been caught with varying degrees of success. At the top, certainly, is Mr. Massine's Timid Man. There is a jointless, dead pan, much put upon quality about the creature that rings some inner bell.

But there are some of the cartoon characters whom we do not want to see move—let alone dance. The Dowager, still as Gibraltar, should forever stare down the world thru her lorgnette. The Small Fry should remain fixed eternally on their football field, their truculent grimaces frozen on their faces. At least this is what one watcher thought.

Outside of the cartoon characters, there were wonderful enactments by Nathalie Krassovska of the Debutante and by Frederic Franklin of the Gossip Columnist. The former's glitter and vitality and the latter's nosiness and bounderishness made two unforgettable characterizations.

Saturday night "Vienna—1814" came to its first Chicago performance. It is a courtly little piece by Mr. Massine to almost totally unfamiliar music by Weber.

A ball held to celebrate Napoleon's overthrow and exile to Elba offers excuse for a series of brilliant divertissements based on national motifs. The ballet has a scintillating quality which makes it a good topper offer for an evening of more serious things. Saturday these more serious things were a slightly ragged "Les Sylphides" and a sufficiently dramatic "Scheherazade."

By the way, last Saturday's words of praise for Nathalie Krassovska ["Le Baiser de la Fée"] should have been directed toward Leda Anchutina, who entered the cast on too short notice to get her name in the program.

BY CECIL SMITH.

No performance of the regular opera season had a more attentive or more appreciative audience than yesterday's postseason matinée of "Hansel and Gretel." The entire house had been sold out days ago, and the big Civic Opera house played host to probably a larger number of children yesterday than in all the 38 regular performances put together.

The emotional climax of the performance, hailed with great applause and other audible signs of joy, came when Hansel and Gretel, summoning all their strength, pushed the horrid witch into the big bake oven, from which she was shortly to emerge in the form of gingerbread. But many other moments in the opera also appealed strongly to the audience, and perhaps most of all the dream pantomime, in which guardian angels descend a lighted staircase to guard over the sleeping children.

Obviously it is not altogether appropriate to apply the usual yardstick of grownup criticism to a performance which held so much charm and delight for its spectators. And anyway the singing and acting, while somewhat short of the ideal, were attractive and effective enough not to cause the lifting of a sophisticated eyebrow.

Miss Sten, as Hansel, sang better than she acted, and Miss Haskins, as Gretel, acted better than she sang. Miss Sten was a little inclined to believe that boys walk stiff legged for a while, only to break into a run swifter and with shorter steps than Melisande's, or perhaps to dance around in giddy circles and ellipses. But she sang the music musically well, with a solid, agreeable tone and English diction almost as good as any one else's.

Miss Haskins was completely cute and winsome as Gretel, with her stiff little blonde pigtails. But, alas, her voice was too tiny for Humperdinck's sonorous orchestra, so that most of the words and a good deal of the music was at least partly buried. In passages where the orchestration was light, her tone was lovely and fresh.

Sonia Sharnova made a horrifying witch, acting the part with clever detail and singing with a deliberately strident and acid tone. Douglas Beattie sang the father's music with gusto, and with the only diction that was understandable at all times. In other small parts Helen Bartush, Henrietta Chase and Annette Burford acquitted themselves satisfactorily. Kurt Herbert Adler conducted sympathetically and with musical warmth.

Spring Styles Are Forecast in Resort Garb

BY REA SEEGER.

Resort fashions and midwinter evening clothes are running seam by seam for shopping attention! Staying or going, you take your pick or try a little of both. Resort clothes are especially interesting for they presage what's coming for spring or summer.

And besides the significant fashion trends, the best things seldom stage a return engagement, that is, when you want them, come next May or June. Prints never look as fresh, crisp and different as they do now in this newly arrived presentation. Nor do the unusual contrasts and combines. Ensembles, whether for sports spectators or active participants, travel coats, thin wool suits of dashing cut and color, are all out. A perspicacious shopper spends now for future impressions while the collections are so beautifully different and so complete.

One of the most interesting colors promoted for southern wardrobes is a shade of russet brown called native brown. It's not dismal, flat, drab, or difficult to wear, but a good, lively tone similar to a russet apple. Even the swim suits are of this golden brown.

Brown and white prints with patterns or designs as huge as wall paper flowers make beach outfits. Smaller prints make the smart, casual daytime dresses for sightseeing or spectator sportswear. Streamlined slacks of this brown teamed with dazzling white tops are other versions of the brown with cooling white idea.

Lastex swim suits feature brown and white printed designs. One has waving palm trees for a pattern, another has flowers that resemble orchids. Stripes are listed among the missing this time. The feminine floral designs, together with leaves and fancy South sea island foliage mix-ups predominate.

Big hats, each with a gargantuan circumference, are visible not only because of the size but because of the gaudy colorings.

Next to the brown color promotion come the tangerine and burnt orange shades; these, too, are cooled down with white accessories or this blazing color goes out with the browns as a dashing contrast.

'Manon' to End Opera Season on Gala Note

Grace Moore, the American soprano who has won millions of friends for her work in movies, radio, musical comedy, concert, and opera, will appear in the Civic Opera house tomorrow night in one of opera's most radiant rôles—that of Manon in the Massenet work of the same name.

The occasion is the gala New Year's eve performance which will bring the Chicago Opera company's season to an end. The supporting cast will be headed by the Italian tenor, Tito Schipa, as Des Grieux, and the Polish baritone, George Czaplicki, as Lescaut. Leo Kopp is to conduct.

It was in "Manon" that Miss Moore made her Chicago operatic debut three years ago. She has sung the rôle here twice since then.

The attractiveness of Manon lies partly in her character, partly in the music which Massenet has written for her, partly in the lovely costumes and setting in which and against which she acts out her pathetic story.

Manon is a wistful, not very bright young girl who clutches at life just when she is on her way to be immured in a convent and whose experiments bring her nothing but sorrow. Massenet has devised for her tender, girlish music which fits her character with an uncanny perfection.

The story is laid in early 18th century France—in its inn yards, its luxurious homes, its fashionable gambling houses, and even in its churches. Thus there are countless opportunities for imaginative costumes and settings.

It goes without saying that the Chicago Opera company, which is possessed of the finest equipment of any opera producing group in the world, takes proper advantage of these opportunities. As mounted at the Civic Opera house, "Manon" is a series of startlingly beautiful stage pictures. The scene in the fashionable gambling house has a silvery splendor which can be matched in few, if any, other operas.

Other reasons for believing that this New Year's eve performance of "Manon" will be one of the high points of the season lie in the presence in the cast of Mr. Schipa and Mr. Czaplicki, and, at the conductor's stand, of Mr. Kopp. The first is one of the most tasteful singers now before the public, the second has a dignified virility which should make Lescaut unforgettable, and the third has an extraordinary talent for keeping a musical performance alive and moving.

After the opera there will be dancing in the foyer and refreshments in the Opera club. Patrons may spend their entire New Year's eve—from 8 p. m. to 3 a. m.—under one roof.

Looking at Hollywood

by John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 29.—Sunday—The R. Sisks over for tea, and Bob is back from San Francisco full of enthusiasm for his new Ginger Rogers picture. He, Paul Jarrico, and a couple of others fled to San Francisco for four days of work out of reach of phones and conferences.

Monday—To RKO to deliver two trout flies George Poindexter made from Carole Lombard's hair, and the Gables will try them out in Mexico next month. . . . Lunch at Lucey's with a producer, a publicity man, and a director and we play the match game and my mind has lost its cunning because I get stuck for the works.

Tuesday—It being the day before Christmas, there's a comparatively small lunch group at Chasen's, but those who come are merry enough. And a producer says that he is getting tired of having actors and directors get all the credit for a film, so he has hired a press agent. The matter of credit is life's blood to all of Hollywood, and the scramble for it is rude and ruthless. Personally, I do not think the public knows what a producer is, or cares a hoot. Nor does it read all those screen credits at the beginning of a picture.

Wednesday—Christmas day in a peaceful land and deep thanks therefor. Routed from bed at 6 a. m., and a long and exciting morning dithering around the tree, and calls upon sundry friends, and a fine dinner on a turkey from Harold Lloyd, who raises turkeys.

Thursday—I write all day long, paying for my holidays.

Friday—A morning of running about to little avail and to Lakeside for a round with R. Carroll, Pete Milne, and Scott Darling, so bitterly fought that nobody wins. Frank Willard there, being in a tournament, and Henry O'Neill reminisces about Eugene O'Neill in the days of "The Hairy Ape" and "The Great God Brown," in which Henry played. . . . In the evening to Republic, where a fine new sound stage is being dedicated to the memory of Mabel Normand. There is a huge quadrangular bar and a big dance floor and a fifty-foot Christmas tree, and it's a very fine party. All available folk from the Mack Sennett days are there, with everybody making much of Mack himself. The ladies are given Sis Hopkins hats, Sis being an old Normand rôle and Judy Canova's next one, and the men tiny Keystone kop hats and badges. Eddie Cline, ex-kop who is now Bill Fields' director, says the hats should have been gray, not blue. Louise Fazenda, ex-Bathing Beauty and now Mrs. Hal Wallis, is there, and Eddie tells how the Bathing Beauties were created. He was ordered by Sennett to make a 500-foot picture for Uncle Sam's wartime food conservation program. The film was to say, "Eat fish." So Eddie, trying to make the idea of seafood popular, rounded up some bathing girls and took them to the beach. When Sennett saw the films he said, "You've got something there"—and work on the bathing beauty comedies began.

Saturday—A morning at the desk, and away as soon as possible for the opening of Santa Anita. This act, of course, stamps one finally and completely as a Hollywoodian.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright, 1940, By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwell goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Gerente with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron lives in the apartment below Paul's and he confesses to the murder, claiming a girl, Hilda Lesirade, witnessed it, but Maclain doubts his story. Norma longs to ask the advice of Bunny Carter, head of the aircraft works where her stepson, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, but does not dare for fear of implicating Barbara in the murder. In Gilbert's workroom some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder and the bombing sight Gilbert Tredwell has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwell home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced and learns from Norma that she thought Bella, the maid, was hiding behind the wardrobe and it was she who pushed it on Norma. Later Bella is found beheaded. Maclain came upon the odor of violets in Paul's apartment and finds it again about Bella. He concludes that violet perfume is a trademark in a foreign spy system, but thinks Bella was killed because she was working for the naval intelligence, but pretending to work for the spies. Maclain questions Bunny Carter and drives with him out to the aviation plant where he hears Louis Madoc, a foreman, speak, and he realizes he is hearing the voice of the fake Paul Gerente, who visited him the night of Paul's murder. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee. When Maclain decodes it he realizes there is a plan to kidnap him. He throws the ad out to be collected, willing to act as bait to catch the criminals, but in the meantime he dictates a message to Spud into a dictaphone and sends it to him by his chauffeur Cappo. Spud goes to the House of Bonnee, perfume store in New York—and when the saleagirl tries to sell him some black violet perfume, Spud is knocked out by a whiff of it. On reviving he finds himself in bed with a nurse and doctor standing by. The doctor attempts to give Spud a hypodermic, but Spud knocks it out of his hand.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

RESCUE DELAYED.

The whipcord fingers of Spud's right hand fastened on the doctor's throat with a strangler's grip, searching for the carotid artery. With his left hand Spud jerked the covers free and threw them over the doctor's head. He left the bed like a dementia praecox case fighting for freedom and landed on top of the physician on the floor.

The doctor cried out hoarsely from beneath the muzzling covers, circled Spud's arm with muscular hands made doubly strong by fear, and vainly tried to tear the throttling fingers free.

Lights went up in the room. Spud's yellow eyes glared up at the nurse standing above them with an automatic in her hand. His lips curled back in a grin which held a tinge of insanity.

The woman fired just as Spud whirled underneath the doctor, lifted the 190 pounds two feet clear of the floor. He heard the shot as the bullet plowed up splinters three inches from his ear. He hoisted his feet with a wrestler's trick, planted them in the doctor's stomach, and heaved the struggling man free. The hurtling body smashed into the nurse, slamming her against the wall.

Spud came to his feet like a rubber ball. Before the woman could raise the gun again, he hooked a left to her jaw. She sagged down unconscious to the floor. Spud snatched the automatic from her limp fingers and cracked the butt down twice on the doctor's head. He ripped the covers from the helpless form, undid the belt and jerked the intern's trousers free, slipping them on over his own bare legs and tucking in the hospital gown. The doctor's white coat followed. He took the key from the coat pocket and unlocked the door.

He pushed the switch, turning off the ceiling lights. Again the room was dim, lit only by the table lamp. Spud turned the knob and opened the door cautiously. He stuck out his head, reconnoitering the dimness of a narrow uncarpeted hall.

From the ventilators up in the corner of the room a gun popped with no more noise than a champagne cork being drawn. Spud sank slowly to his knees with a bullet in his back just as he stepped thru the door.

. . . . . .

Officers Sheridan and Dietz of the Connecticut state police had just turned their patrol car halfway between Bridgeport and the New York state line on the Merritt parkway and headed north again when they got the call:

"Watch out for black convertible coupe," the radio announcer droned into the darkness of their car. "New York license N-0002. Better block the toll house if necessary to stop this car. Driver must be drunk. Outran patrol car at entrance to parkway doing better than 92."

"Holy mackerel!" said Trooper Dietz. "Maybe if we step on it and head her toward New York City, we'll be in time to see him go by. He'd outrun this crate of ours if he's doing 92. The last time I got her up to 68 she nearly threw a wheel."

"What are you grousing about?" asked Sheridan. "We can always fire our guns at him and toot the siren!"

"Yes—— if we see him," said Dietz. "If he got up to 92 at the entrance to the parkway, by the time he gets here he'll be running a temperature of 104."

He whirled the patrol car skilfully thru a cutoff and backed it into a siding to wait for the prey.

"Maybe it's Barney Oldfield trying out a new set of tires he wants to give his kids for Christmas," Sheridan asserted with a sigh. "You remember last week when that guy——"

He broke off. Far up the road they heard a roar.

"Step on it," he told Dietz. "You wouldn't want New York state to pick up such a fine."

"Hell," said Dietz, "if I have to run him across the state line, he'll be so far ahead the New York cops will never see him, and they'll probably pinch me."

He shot the patrol car out onto the parkway with the siren pulled wide. The band of light that flashed before his eyes followed by a streak of black gave him the impression that somebody had suddenly drawn a paint brush along the sky. Dietz coughed uneasily and jammed the accelerator to the floor.

"Don't try to pass him," Sheridan advised facetiously. "It'd be dangerous at this speed, particularly if he's drunk."

"I don't think he's drunk. I think he's had a shot and he's trying to fly."

"Look out," Sheridan warned. A sedan was pulled up at the side of the road.

"He missed her," said Dietz as they flashed by. A distraught lady leaned from the automobile waving her hands hysterically.

Warning signs reading "Slow" popped up and were gone. Ahead, the yellow lights of the toll house rushed to meet them. Dietz heaved a sigh of relief. Parked in wedge formation beyond the toll house, four other state cars were blocking the road efficiently.

Sheridan wiped the sweat from his forehead and climbed out as Dietz braked down beside the New York coupe. A man in a felt slouch hat and a camel hair coat was sitting behind the wheel.

He looked at Sheridan as tho the officer was a bad oyster and said, "Good God! I paid my toll—why are you fellows bothering me?"

"There's a 50 mile speed limit on this parkway," Sheridan began.

"Yes," the man exclaimed impatiently, "and it's too damn slow." He reached down for the pocket of his car and Sheridan ready to suspect anything went after his gun.

"Don't shoot," said the man. "I'm Santa Claus, and I'm heading for a Christmas party for motherless orphans."

"You're heading for the cooler," said Sheridan.

"That's what you think." The man opened his fist and laid his hand palm up on the side of the door.

"Nuts," said Sheridan. "I wish you fellows would shoot off rockets."

He turned around and called to the blockading cars. "It's a sewer inspector, boys, from the WPA. Get out of his way and let him go by."

The man at the wheel looked up into the rear view mirror and with one hand went carefully to work on the shoulder of his camel hair coat, brushing off imaginary snow.

. . . . . .

The clerk behind the desk in the apartment hotel at 72d and Riverside drive looked up from working on his transcript just in time to see the man with slightly graying hair disappear behind the elevator door. The clerk sat idly chewing his pen, watching the elevator indicator ascend to the top floor.

"Who was that?" he asked when the boy came down again.

"Somebody calling on Capt. Maclain."

"In a pig's ear it is! Why don't you send people over to the desk when they come in? Capt. Maclain's away."

"So's my father, most of the time," the elevator boy said disgustedly, "but my mother's always there."

"I can figure out without using mathematics," said the clerk, "just what days your father was gone. Mr. Savage is out, too, and there's nobody up there. Now go up and get that man and bring him down again."

"I don't have to take such talk," the elevator boy muttered as he slammed the door.

Five minutes later he was back down again.

"Where is he?" asked the night clerk.

"How do I know?" The boy stared back defiantly. "He's not up there."

"Not up where?"

"Where I took him," the boy explained impatiently. "On the 24th floor."

"O, is that so?"

GASOLINE ALLEY—GREETINGS

Home Wanted for Pedigreed Bull Terriers

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

A letter from Mrs. M., with an offer which may interest our readers:

"Dear Miss Brown: I have some pedigreed, registered American bull terriers for which I must find good homes.

"We are selling our house and I cannot take them to an apartment with me, but I am so attached to them that rather than sell them, I would like to give them to some person who has a fenced yard and will give them good care.

"The mother is two years old, housebroken, and fond of children. There are two female puppies, almost four months old. They are all brindle and white and excellent watch dogs."

Any interested reader may write to Mrs. M., in care of this department. All letters will be forwarded to her for selection. Please do not telephone this office regarding this offer.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

All we can say about the giddy fashion started in the east that encourages brown haired women to dramatize themselves with bleached streaks is that it looks pretty fierce. Maybe we saw the wrong heads, but we didn't like what we saw.

Now dark hair dramatized with white streaks is something else again. It looks effective on certain types—altho we can't imagine doing it ourselves. Most women feel that white hair comes to them quickly enough. But we've seen some beautiful heads of dark hair with either one white streak down the center or "wings" on either side.

The brown hair with bleached streaks we don't like at all—and of those we've seen the very worst were home efforts. Somehow the word seems to have gotten around that it's easy to do with your own two hands and a bottle of peroxide. It isn't—and it is anything but good for your hair.

To carry off any such striking idea as streaks of a different color requires first of all that you be one of those perfectly turned out, chic women. Then, the job must be well done, so that the streak doesn't look obviously dyed. And, finally, the hair must be exquisitely—which usually means expertly—dressed! If any one of these very important considerations is ignored the whole effort to be distinctive works in reverse. The hair just looks untidy and badly cared for and its owner will be marked as a woman of poor taste.

Sometimes it's more fun to stay at home New Year's eve and give an informal midnight supper party than to mingle with the crowds of merry-makers downtown. This kind of party is easy to plan, and may require so little preparation that it may be organized almost at the last minute.

Guests usually arrive around 10 o'clock for such a party, and gather around the buffet table after the old year has been rung out and the new year has jingled in.

If there's space enough in the dining room, the table should be placed away from the wall so that guests may move around it. In small quarters it's often more advisable to keep the table next the wall, and arrange the food only on the exposed side. In either case the hot dish will be at one end of the table and the coffee or other beverage opposite it. Next the hot dish will be arrayed warm plates, the napkins and silver, and down toward the coffee will come relishes or salad, and the rolls.

Guests may help themselves to the dessert course in a second visit to the buffet table, or the hostess may gather up the used plates and bring the dessert herself. Possibly there'll be no dessert, since a midnight supper may get along very well without one.

MIDNIGHT SUPPER MENUS.

I.
Casserole of Ham, Noodles, and Mushrooms
Waldorf Salad in Lettuce Cups, Radishes, Ripe Olives
Hot Rolls Butter Balls
Red Currant Jelly
Christmas Hard Candies
Salted Almonds
Coffee

II.

Jellied Cranberry Fruit Salad, Mayonnaise
Cheese Biscuits
Pineapple Cupcakes, Rum Sauce
Coffee

III.
Turkey Newburg in Patty Shells
Cloverleaf Rolls Cranberry Jelly
Tray of Celery, Radishes, Olives
Eclairs with Strawberry Cream Filling

IV.
Platter of Cold Sliced Meats and Cheese
Cranberry-Apple Relish Gherkins
Cherry Muffins
Mulled Wine or Cider with Holiday Cookies
Mints and Assorted Nuts

V.
Italian Spaghetti
Green Salad Bowl Hot Rolls

A midnight supper needn't include more than a hot dish, a relish, some kind of breadstuff, and a drink, but there should be plenty of everything, and the food should be attractively served.

Dec. 30, 1940.

Universal day—Rather a jittery day unless you try to work harmoniously with those around you.

Universal month—If I sounded gloomy about January for the world in general, it was because the whole trend of events hasn't much "lift" to it. It is easy to get bogged down if one reads the news of the hour. The best way to handle January, no matter what your personal month may be, will be to try to hunt for the spiritual significance in the struggle going on. If we can look further than the rather confused picture being presented now, we might see light ahead. The world can't ever be the same again, and we ourselves are changing with the changing world, so try to accept the changes philosophically during the seven month which we enter soon.

Graceful Frock for Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

There's no reason, we believe, for house frocks to be uninteresting. To prove our contention we've designed one with as much grace and style as a street dress, and we know you'll enjoy wearing it during your at-home hours.

There are two ways to style this model. One employs a slide fastener down the front and gives the heart-shaped neckline, the sleeves, and the pockets a simple trim of rickrack braid. The other styling places a ruffled collar on the V neckline and repeats the trimming on full, short sleeves and pockets. Buttons instead of a zipper do honors.

Style No. 2777 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with 2½ yards of rickrack; ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Circular Luncheon Doily

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A change from the usual rectangular, crocheted, luncheon doily is this most attractive and easy to create circular model. It is made of ivory, mercerized, crochet cotton, and the large doily measures approximately 12 inches when completed. A smaller glass doily may be made to complement the large one.

For instructions in crocheting the round luncheon doily, No. 859, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

An expert's reluctance to double slam contracts is based on the soundest type of reasoning. The potential gain is very slight compared to the risk that the double will point out a winning line of play. Today's hand is an example of a very bad double.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's bidding was, of course, very "fancy." Having bid three clubs on the second round with the dual purpose of stopping a club lead and announcing a very strong hand to South, North determined to bolster his bluff by redoubling the final contract. Unless West had both the ace and king of clubs, this redouble probably would scare him off the club opening. Obviously, North did not know that a club lead, clearing South's king, was the best thing the partnership could hope for.

The fact that West did not open the ace of clubs was proof that he himself became doubtful as to the value of his heart king, a doubt that should have entered the picture before he doubled.

The spade jack was the opening lead. Declarer won in his own hand and led a low heart toward dummy. When the queen finesse held the ace was cashed, West's king ignominiously falling. [At first glance declarer's gambling on a 2-2 heart break will appear outrageous, but actually it was vital to the sound development of the only plan that had a chance, considering West's double.] Three rounds of diamonds followed, and then two more trumps, ending in the closed hand.

With five cards left declarer's were the low spade, one trump and the K-9-5 of clubs. West's were the 10-9-8 of spades and the A-Q of clubs. Dummy held the A-K-6 of spades and the 4-3 of clubs. The last trump forced West to blank his club ace in order to protect the spade suit. Dummy's spade was discarded, and declarer then led a low club from his king. West won, but could return nothing but a spade, which was won in dummy. Declarer's low club was discarded on the good spade, and the club king was cashed for the twelfth trick.

Normal line of play [in the absence of a double] would have been to lead the ten of hearts from the closed hand in order to retain the lead, and later to play East for the club ace. The squeeze play actually employed was based entirely on the information conveyed by West's foolish double.

Michael Todd's Theatre-Cafe
CLARK AT LAWRENCE • CHICAGO

Memorandum: APOLOGY!
To: Mr. and Mrs. Chicago and Family
From: Michael Todd

Despite the fact that the Theatre-Cafe has the largest capacity of any place of its kind in the world, we had to stop taking reservations for New Year's Eve last week. But while we will not make further New Year's Eve reservations, we'll have room for those who wish to "drop in" at any time until dawn in the balcony lounge where a second dance floor and an excellent view of the show are available.

On opening night also we had to stop taking reservations. All who attended found that there was no "catch" in our offer of a $5 entertainment value for 50 cents (plus 5 cents tax). Judging from your spontaneous response, I feel more than ever that Barnum was wrong. People want their money's worth and here's what you get for your 50 cents (plus 5 cents tax) INCLUDING Saturdays and Sundays at the Theatre-Cafe.

The colorful, tuneful musical production, Hassard Short's "Gay New Orleans" starring Ruby Mercer and Joe Frederick; A. Robins, the clown hit of "Jumbo"; Willie West & McGinty, smash success of the Aquacade; Rola Rola, the Brazilian Plastic Balance Dancers, hit of Ringling Brothers Barnum & Baily Circus; Jack Denny's and Johnny Gilbert's dance band. ALL THIS AND GYPSY ROSE LEE, TOO!

Complete dinners are from 75 cents, champagne and other cocktails 25 cents, and 15 cent cigarettes are still 15 cents.

For your convenience there are two performances nightly at 8 and 12, three performances on Saturday night, 8, 12, and 2, and an added matinee on Sundays at 3 p.m. For reservations telephone Miss Curtis at Longbeach 3127. (Additional lines have been installed to accomodate telephone reservations).

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

Firm as a New England conscience is my resolve to bring you throughout the year new and easier ways to prepare more delicious foods. And since there's small happiness without good food, I might modestly boast that while many of your friends will wish you a Happy New Year, I promise to help you achieve one as I talk to you, week after week, in this column.

George Rector
Food Consultant, Wilson & Co.

As American as "God Bless America" is a New Year's Baked Ham, in all the shining beauty of a handsome glaze. It's the easiest way I know to bowl over your New Year's Eve or New Year's dinner guests.

To get ham with that rich, old-time hickory smoked flavor, tell your dealer it must be a Wilson's Certified Tender Extra Mild Smoked Ham... the ham in the bright orange wrapper. P. S. This ham looks "handsome" on a New Year's Buffet table, too.

And speaking of New Year's Buffet, why tire yourself out on a busy day making countless sandwiches? Why not, instead, line up at one end of your table, around your electric toaster, the following sandwich necessities:

Sliced bread, dishes of whipped Clear Brook Butter, silver spreading knives, mayonnaise, relishes, assorted sandwich fillings—that bear the Wilson Certified labels—to wit:

Braunschweiger Spread
Cheese Deviled Chicken
Tender Made Deviled Ham

Then let your guests have the time of their lives concocting their own sandwich creations. Remember, too, that small, hot baking powder biscuits make delicious sandwiches. Hot toaster, keep it going . . . hot biscuits, keep 'em coming!

MOR Appetizing Appetizers

Cut Wilson's MOR into pieces 2 inches long and 1 inch square. Dip in melted butter or wrap in Wilson's Certified Bacon, and broil. Ditto with stuffed olives.

FRUIT CAKE RING DESSERT

Good things run in circles, so serve your frozen dessert in a ring mold of fruit cake, handsomely decorated as follows: Glaze the fruit cake thoroughly with a syrup made by boiling down the juice from canned or stewed apricots. Before the glaze sets, decorate the cake with "chrysanthemums" made of petals clipped from candied cherries (use the kitchen scissors to clip the petals). Cut leaves and stems from citron.

Happy New Year and goodbye until next year, next week

DEATH TO RIDE WITH NEW YEAR TIPSY DRIVERS

Celebrants Get Warning to Play Safe.

Tomorrow night your friends and acquaintances — plain, ordinary, respectable citizens —may be the most dangerous people in Chicago.

Judge McCormick.

You yourself may be a greater threat to the life and property of others than a criminal stalking the streets with a gun.

This warning was issued yesterday by Judge John V. McCormick, who will preside in Safety court Jan. 2 when justice presents a bill to New Year's Eve celebrants whose automobiles have taken their annual toll of injured and killed.

A Warning to Tipplers.

"If you plan to drive after drinking, take a taxi, a street car, a bus, or an elevated train instead of your own car," said Judge McCormick. "We will not be lenient in Safety court. Those 10 or 20 days in jail will be a long, long time."

George W. Fleming, general chairman of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, warned pedestrians that they account for 75 per cent of all traffic fatalities and reminded them not to "stagger carelessly across streets without looking."

"Motorists who have had too much to drink should leave their cars where they are parked," Fleming said. "Police Commissioner Allman and Capt. David Flynn of the traffic division have promised to waive parking tickets for the sensible motorist who does not foolishly attempt to drive home."

1940 Toll Estimated At 34,500.

The National Safety council estimated that America's 1940 traffic death toll will reach 34,500, an increase of 1,900 over last year's total. During the first 11 months of this year, the council reported, traffic fatalities totaled 30,980—an increase of 7 per cent from the corresponding 1939 period.

Fatalities in Illinois totaled 2,066 for the first 11 months of 1940, an increase of 77 over the corresponding period in 1939. In Chicago the 11 month toll was 569, a decrease of 36 under the figure for 1939. Chicago was 15th in a list of cities of 250,000 or more population which reduced traffic fatalities.

HEAD OF AUTO UNION ASSAILS FORD CONTRACT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America (C. I. O.), said today that the war department's decision to award a contract for midget scout cars to the Ford Motor company would "seriously undermine the morale of labor engaged in defense work."

The department overruled a protest of Sidney Hillman, labor member of the defense production board, when it announced on Saturday that a $1,387,500 order for such cars would be allowed to stand.

Hillman, a C. I. O. vice president, and other labor leaders had protested against awarding defense contracts to the Ford company, because, they said, the labor board had declared the company guilty of unfair labor practices. They contended that defense contracts should contain certain labor safeguards, among them a clause requiring manufacturers to conform to the Wagner act.

RED IN AIRPLANE PLANT UPHELD BY VOTES OF UNION

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 29 (AP).—Members of the aeronautical mechanics union reported today that vote tabulators were recording a three to one ballot to ignore a trial board's recommendations for expulsion of a union official on charges of communist activity.

The union's local, representing 7,000 employés of the Boeing Aircraft company, voted yesterday, following the filing of various charges against more than 20 members and their examination by the union's trial board.

The trial board returned verdicts declaring two of the officials guilty of communist activity and recommending expulsion and fines. The membership's vote tallied yesterday gave a majority for upholding the board in one case. The incomplete ballot count today indicated the second official had been vindicated.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE.

Harry T. Fennell, 54 years old, 414 East 110th street, foreman for a steel company, was found dead, apparently of a heart attack, yesterday in his garage at the rear of 11023 South Park avenue.

ADMITS 27 YEAR HATRED LED TO DOUBLE SLAYING

Clarion, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP).—How the smouldering hatred of 27 years drove Frank Dearolph, 43 years old, a garage mechanic, to steal a revolver and exact "revenge" of double death on the family of the man he blamed for the slaying of his father, stepmother, and stepsister, was revealed tonight by Deputy Sheriff Amos Dolby.

Frank Dearolph.

Dearolph was captured 24 hours after the slaying of Reuben Levi Wentling, 58, and the latter's son, Reuben L. Jr., 12, at the Wentling home Friday night. Dearolph, when arraigned last night, admitted he intended to kill Wentling, but insisted the boy was shot accidentally.

Wentling's wife, 51, and his daughter, Elizabeth, 22, were injured in leaping from a porch after the double killing. Dolby said the girl accused Dearolph of twice raping her, but he denied this.

It was in 1913 that Dearolph's father, stepsister, and stepmother were slain. The coroner found that the elder Dearolph had killed his wife and stepdaughter and committed suicide. But Frank Dearolph accused Wentling of the triple slaying.

LEADER OF BUND TO APPEAR AGAIN TODAY IN TAX SUIT

Dr. Otto Willumeit, head of the German-American bund in Chicago, is scheduled to appear before Municipal Judge Oscar S. Caplan again today to testify in the tax liability suit brought by the county against the bund and its affiliated organization, the Teutonia Publishing company. The county seeks to collect $380 in personal property taxes for 1938 owed by the two groups. Records seized by police in the bund's safe at 3855 North Western avenue are being examined by the federal bureau of investigation.

BOOKS ON WAR, DEFENSE NEEDS NOW IN DEMAND

Libraries thruout the country are reporting a greatly increased demand for reading matter on national defense and allied subjects, Carl H. Milam, executive secretary of the American Library association, reported yesterday at the association's annual midwinter conference in the Drake hotel.

The trend, Mr. Milam said, is toward books dealing with democracy, technical training and defense industries. Atlases, maps, and globes of the world are in constant use.

PRESIDENT ASKS MEXICAN UNITY IN BILL OF AMNESTY

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 29 (AP).—President Manuel Avila Camacho has sent a bill to the chamber of deputies granting amnesty to all persons held guilty of political crimes during the recent presidential campaign.

To give substance to his post-electoral promise that there would be "neither vanquished nor victors, only Mexicans," Avila Camacho proposed modification of Mexico's criminal law which would "concede amnesty" for acts of rebellion, sedition, and political agitation.

TRACE HIT-RUN CAR AND SEIZE 2 EX-CONVICTS

Police Follow Trail of Auto License.

Two ex-convicts who allegedly drove off Saturday night after their car struck a young woman at Jackson boulevard and Lotus avenue were held by Fillmore police yesterday. They are John Passe, 24 years old, and Frank Dunkin, 22, both of 301 Division street.

They were arrested by Policemen William Sexton and Charles Belzer after a witness took their license number. Police said the hit-run car struck another near the intersection, then ran into Miss Rachel MacHatton, 17, of 5440 Gladys avenue, breaking her leg. The car then made a U-turn and sped away.

Daughter of Minister.

Miss MacHatton is the daughter of the Rev. Burtis R. MacHatton, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. She came here a year ago from England, where her mother is now an ambulance driver. Police records show that Passe served 11 months for burglary in St. Cloud, Minn. Dunkin, who told police a woman "stepped in front" of their car, also admitted that he has a record in Terre Haute, Ind.

Andrew Budai, 64, of 5208 Cullom avenue, a cabinet maker, was killed in Newland avenue at Higgins road last night when he was hit by a car driven by Kenneth Nyreen, 22, of Route 1, Leyden township.

Charles Soltwisch, 67, of 116 East Maumell street, Hinsdale, a carpenter, was killed when struck by an automobile as he was walking in Ogden avenue near the Cook-Du Page county line. The driver was Arthur Pfau, 445 Sherman street, Downers Grove.

George Furness, 68, of 3819 West End avenue, a retired machinist, died in Robert Burns hospital of injuries suffered Christmas day when he was struck by a car at Washington boulevard and Hamlin avenue. The driver was Herbert Bennett, 208 West Huron street.

Dies after Being Hit by Car.

Peter Popovich, 56, of 10229 Bensley avenue, a steelworker, died in St. George hospital of injuries suffered Christmas day when the automobile in which he was riding collided with one driven by Carey Tate, 1609 Union avenue, Chicago Heights. The crash occurred at 74th street and Vincennes avenue.

Bruno Rutkowski, 52, of 2825 25th place, a laborer, died in County hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 23 when he was struck by an automobile at 47th street and Kedzie avenue. The driver was Walter Lumley, 10756 Troy street, a clerk.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 907 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 664 were killed in Chicago, where 24,030 were injured in traffic during the same period.

FT. BLISS ORDERS CHICAGO TROOPS TO CUT FURLOUGH

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 29 [Special].—Members of the 202d coast artillery, Chicago National Guard unit, en route home by special train for a new year's furlough, today were ordered to return to Fort Bliss next Thursday, instead of Friday as originally instructed.

The commander of the 8th corps area explained that the full regiment must be present Friday morning to begin the next phase of an intensive training program, and all troops must start the training on an equal footing.

Under the original leave schedule, the guardsmen would have spent New Year's day with their families. To get back to camp on time they now will have to leave Chicago early on the morning of Jan. 1. Five hundred members of the regiment who went to Chicago for Christmas will be back tomorrow night.

Three hundred and 25 members of the 202d coast artillery, arrived at the Dearborn station at 11:30 p. m. yesterday aboard a Santa Fe special train.

INJURED IN ALLEY FIGHT.

Lemuel McKee, 1922 Washington boulevard, a cement finisher, suffered a possible skull fracture yesterday in a fight with an unidentified Negro in an alley behind 1650 Fulton street.

Radio Answers the Call of Total Defense

★ ★ ★

With characteristic speed, radio is responding to the call of national defense. Enrolled to serve the public interest and to fortify the Nation's invisible life-lines of communication are: Research, Engineering, Manufacturing, Broadcasting, International Circuits, Ship-and-Shore Stations. The Radio Corporation of America was organized in 1919, as an American-owned, American-controlled radio company. RCA has established a world-wide wireless communications system, independent of foreign interests, and has pioneered in the creation and development of a new art and a new industry. Today, each of its services is equipped and ready for action in the first line of America's total defense on land, sea, and in the air.

RCA calls the roll of its services to the Nation:

WORLD-WIDE COMMUNICATIONS

Vital to defense and commerce, RCA operates 24-hour direct communication service to 43 countries. This service avoids censorship, errors, and delays which might occur at relay points. The Nation is protected against the loss of overseas communications through the cutting of submarine cables in war-time. Supplementing these globe-girdling channels, RCA operates a domestic radiotelegraph system that links 12 key cities in the United States.

MARINE COMMUNICATIONS

Life and property at sea are guarded by modern radio coastal stations and radio-equipped ships. Eighteen hundred American ships are equipped with RCA apparatus. The shore-lines of the United States are fringed with radio beacon transmitters to guide shipping and the fleet in American waters. American ships do not have to depend upon foreign-controlled means of communication to send messages home.

BROADCASTING

RCA pioneered in establishing the first nation-wide network of broadcasting. The National Broadcasting Company, formed in 1926, today serves an American radio audience through 50,000,000 receiving sets. NBC provides these listeners with serious and popular music, news and information, drama and education, public forums and religious services. Under the American system of broadcasting, the finest and most extensive variety of programs to be had anywhere in the world is free to the listening public. The richest man cannot buy what the poorest man gets free by radio.

NBC broadcasting service is also maintained internationally, by short wave, and helps to strengthen good-will and cultural and economic relations between the Americas, and with other parts of the world.

An informed public opinion, promoted by a free press and a free system of broadcasting, is a highly important national asset in total defense.

MANUFACTURING

The RCA Manufacturing Company operates five large plants, strategically located at Camden and Harrison, N. J., Indianapolis and Bloomington, Ind., and Hollywood, Calif. Within the year the company has invested millions of dollars in expansion to facilitate production and rapid filling of orders from the Army and Navy. Machinery is geared for national defense in addition to providing for normal requirements of the public.

RESEARCH AND ENGINEERING

Through science and research, the RCA Laboratories are enrolled in national defense. Research in electronics, wave propagation, television, facsimile, acoustics, optics, and in other fields has opened many new services and extended greatly the scope of existing services, both commercial and military.

No longer must an aviator "just look to the ground" to find his way to a target or to his base. He may fly and land "blind" by radio. The electron microscope, a product of RCA Laboratories, is a new means to help protect the national welfare as it opens new horizons for bacteriologist, chemist, physicist and industrialist. In these and many other ways, peace-time radio research has built new bulwarks of defense for our Nation.

INVENTIONS AND THEIR USE

RCA licenses many other manufacturers to use its inventions and patents. By making them widely available, RCA has helped to create an industry as well as an art.

Through this licensing policy the radio industry has access to results of the research of RCA Laboratories. In this way, competition has been stimulated, and numerous sources of supply opened to the public and the Government.

TRAINING

Over 1,100 students are enrolled in the completely equipped schools of the RCA Institutes, Inc., in New York and Chicago. From this enrollment and from graduates of the Institutes, the United States can enlist the services of trained men in all branches of radio, from ship operators to service men. Scientists and engineers associated with RCA present and publish hundreds of scientific papers each year as aids to others interested in radio. For those who follow technical developments of the art, RCA Review, a quarterly journal, prints the latest scientific reports on progress in radio.

EMPLOYEES

Labor relations between RCA and its employees are excellent. Employment in the RCA organization in 1940 increased from 22,000 to 27,000 employees. Principal officers and many employees of RCA are members of the Army and Navy Reserves.

For 21 years the pioneering efforts and services of RCA have safeguarded American preeminence in radio.

RCA continues to serve the public interest and is fully prepared and ready to carry on in the first line of total defense!

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 29.—Unexpected opposition sprang up before Chicago's mighty Bears in the sunny snugness of little Gilmore stadium today, but in the clinches the world champions had more than enough to close their season with a 28 to 14 triumph over a team of National Football league All-Stars.

Spacing their touchdowns one to a quarter, the Bears went into a seven point lead on a seventy-eight yard march before the All-Stars had their hands on the ball in the first period. They climaxed the drive with a fifty-eight yard combination play on which Sid Luckman passed twenty-three yards to Dick Plasman, and Plasman lateraled to Hampton Pool for thirty-five.

Crowd Looks for Rout.

The tempo of the Bears' attack at this point aroused in the overflow crowd of 20,000, including the Stanford and Nebraska teams, Rose bowl contestants, hopes of witnessing another 73 to 0 scoring jamboree such as the Chicagoans put on in Washington three weeks ago. But midway in the second period the All-Stars took advantage of a bit of confusion on Bob Snyder's part to tie the score on Guard Ted Livingston's seven yard return of an intercepted pass.

On this play Snyder was driven back to his 7 yard line attempting to pass, and his first toss was slapped in the air by John Shirk, Cardinal end. Snyder regained the ball as it fell, but on a second attempted throw the ball went into Livingston's arms.

Two plays after the ensuing kickoff, the Bears jumped back into the lead on Luckman's fifty-nine yard pass to Harry Clark. But the champions' confidence in their own offense led to indifferent defensive play and before the period ended the All-Stars had combined an interference penalty with two short passes by Sammy Baugh to Don Looney for another touchdown, sending the teams to the intermission tied, 14-14.

Tie Quickly Dissolved.

The tie was dissolved in the third quarter as quickly as the Bears were able to kick off to the All-Stars and wrest the ball from them on Luckman's interception of Baugh's pass. Luckman sneaked over from the 1 foot line for the score. Thereafter the All-Stars did not threaten, but managed to turn back two thrusts within their own 5 yard line before succumbing to Joe Maniaci's four yard plunge in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter.

Coached by Ray Flaherty of Washington, the All-Stars used the same defense against the Bears' man-in-motion offense that the Redskins had employed in the 73 to 0 playoff debacle. Their surprising strength, however, lay in the more rugged and evenly balanced personnel than the Redskins sent forth in Washington. After the Bears' opening period touchdown, the famed quick opening plays and wide full back runs were stopped with more frequency than many of the crowd thought was in order for a world championship eleven. But the Bear power always was there, ready to explode when the Stars threatened.

Hinkle, Drake Annoy Bears.

Clarke Hinkle of Green Bay and Johnny Drake of Cleveland, the All-Stars' full backs, were a source of considerable annoyance to the Bear defense, and Baugh's passing several times taxed the secondary. But in the main the Bears, operating under the direction of Assistant Coach Luke Johnsos, while Head Coach George Halas heard the game by special telephonic broadcast to his bedside in St. Vincent's hospital, where he is recovering from an appendectomy, were in complete charge of the contest from the opening kickoff.

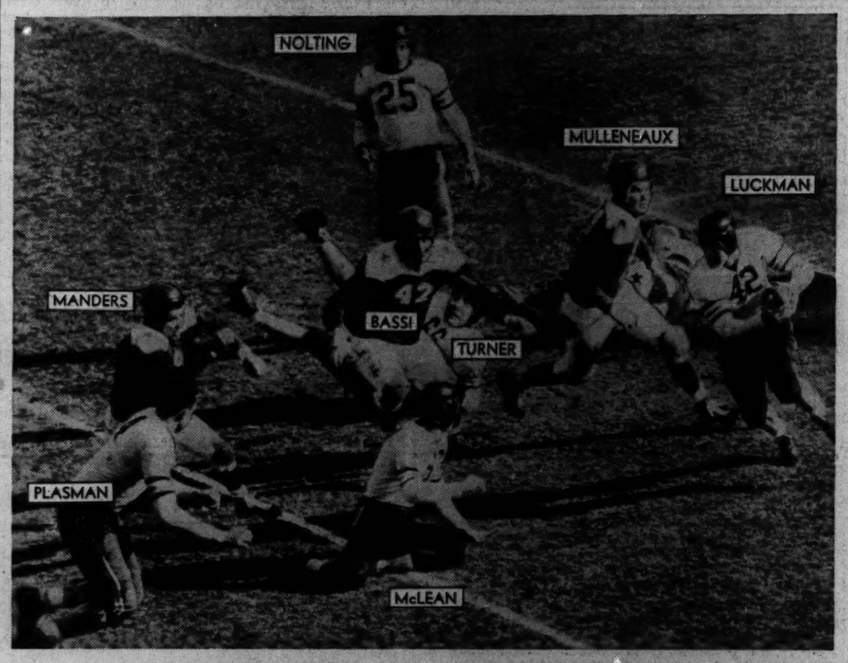
Luckman Makes Baugh's Pass Work for Bears



Sid Luckman, Chicago Bears' quarter back, sets up a touchdown in the third period by intercepting one of Sammy Baugh's passes and racing 26 yards to the All-Stars' 5 yard line in yesterday's Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles. Luckman went thru center from 1 foot line for the score which followed his interception. The Bears won, 28 to 14. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Nebraska Visits Rose Bowl; Sees Bears and T Formation

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 29 (AP).—Approximately 50 years of football for the University of Nebraska reached a high peak today. The Cornhusker team arrived in Pasadena for its first game on California soil and—more important—its inaugural appearance in the Rose bowl.

Hundreds of Nebraska supporters, many of whom had traveled by train, plane and thumb from the rolling prairies to get here ahead of their idols, braved a drizzling rain to greet the Huskers. Music from the Tournament of Roses band evoked a festive air as Maj. Lawrence M. [Biff] Jones, Nebraska coach, led the Big Six conference champions off the train.

A Threefold Program.

Jones said there were three things he wanted the players to see on their first day here. One was the famous Rose bowl itself. Another was the Pacific ocean. The third was today's game between the Chicago Bears and the National league All-Stars, because the Bears use the same intricate man in motion offense from a T formation that Stanford uses.

The Huskers lost no time seeing the bowl. Despite the rain, they rode in two big buses from the train to the stadium near by before going to their hotel.

The Nebraskans were spectators in the afternoon as the Bears beat the pro All-Stars, 28 to 14, in Los Angeles, and got an eyeful of the tactics which were adopted by Stanford.

The boys from the plains state also got a good look at the Pacific.

Across town in their quarters in the Huntington hotel after a brief workout in the morning, Stanford university's champions of the Pacific Coast conference and Nebraska's opponents in the New Year's day contest, remained in as much seclusion as Coach Clark Shaughnessy could command. The undefeated Indians have been in camp here since Thursday.

FORDHAM PLAYER HURT

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 29 (AP).—Claude Pieculewicz, Fordham university second string quarter back, fell from a horse today and probably will not play in the Cotton bowl against the Texas Aggies. Pieculewicz's horse bolted.

"The trunk of a tree threw the hardest block into me I ever received and knocked me off the horse and into another tree," Pieculewicz said.

X-rays showed no fracture, but Dr. Glen Carlson said two ribs on Pieculewicz's right side were bruised severely.

Pieculewicz started to leave the hospital but complained of being dizzy and fainted. He remained for further observation.

If he is not able to play, Quarter Back Jim Noble's relief man will be Jimmy Hearn, a junior who has played less than 10 minutes all season. Noble, who missed two full games during the season because of injuries, now is in top condition.

EAST RULES OUT OFFICIALS WHO WORK PRO GAMES

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Football officials will have to decide between working college or professional games in the east next year, Asa S. Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate association, said tonight at a dinner of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials.

He requested that the choice be made before Jan. 20, 1941, so that appointments for next fall's games might be made in the middle of February, and announced that a rules interpretation clinic for officials would be held Sept. 5-7 in Hershey, Pa.

"We have definitely decided not to use the services next season of any men who are also officiating in professional football games of any sort," Bushnell said.

"The determining factor has been a condition markedly present during the 1940 season and which was substantiated by comments from various sources. Many of the officials who doubled in college and professional duties went stale by early November; their fine edge was gone, they were frequently listless and dispirited, and they didn't do themselves justice."

The announcement caused many present to recall the case of Red Friesell, a leading official in both college and pro games, who lost count of the downs in the Cornell-Dartmouth game, which was awarded to Dartmouth, 3 to 0, two days after it was played when movies showed Cornell had scored on fifth down on the last play of the contest.

GOLF IS MOST EXPENSIVE GAME; FISHING SECOND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The biggest bill for sports equipment last year was footed by the followers of the old Scotch game of golf, the census bureau reported tonight, and the tipoff probably lies in the census of the golf balls—34,580,004 were produced.

The bureau had no figures on the number of golfers in the country so the lost balls couldn't be calculated on a per capita basis, but a source thoroly familiar with this situation described it officially as terrific.

Golfers Spent $15,645,000.

At any rate, golfing equipment accounted for $15,645,000 of the $64,754,000 worth of sporting goods produced in this country in 1939. [The figures represent factory value.]

There were 2,850,000 golf clubs and nearly 3,220,000 golf club shafts produced—reflecting another situation with which the previous source said he was familiar.

The next costliest equipment was turned out for the humble sport of fishing. Tackle came to $12,575,000, of which more than $2,600,000 was represented by artificial lures alone.

The output included 808,000 bamboo rods, more than 1,200,000 steel rods and nearly 2,600,000 reels—apparently some 592,000 of those big ones that got away took the reels along with them.

Softball's Growth Noted.

The growth of softball was reflected in comparative figures on baseball and softball production—536,660 dozen baseballs and 311,443 dozen softballs. The figures are significant, since only three or four balls are used in a game of softball, while a baseball game requires a dozen or more.

Equipment produced for other sports during the year included 2,588,549 footballs, 501,924 basketballs, 389,336 boxing gloves, 3,454,382 pairs of roller skates, 1,128,185 pairs of ice skates, 608,545 dozen tennis balls and 686,923 rackets.

The production of skating goods amounted to $5,400,000, while equipment produced for tennis came to $4,748,509.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 29 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks closed an unhappy road trip here tonight by losing their third straight National Hockey league game of the season to the Detroit Red Wings, 2 to 1, before a near capacity crowd of 7,679 in the Olympia arena. The Wings failed to win one of their eight games with the Hawks last year. The Hawks headed for home after the game to meet the Wings again New Year's night.

The Chicagoans lost two and tied one since leaving home ice. They tied the world champion New York Rangers, 3 to 3, and then went on to Montreal to take a 7 to 5 licking from the Canadiens.

Hawks Score First.

The Blackhawks scored the first goal of the game 4 minutes after the contest started, and clung to their lead until 7 seconds of the second period remained. The Wings broke thru to get the deciding goal in the middle of the third period.

Bill Thoms got the Chicago goal when he rapped home a rebound shot by John Mariucci, with the veteran Johnny Gottselig also drawing an assist on the play.

Wings Tie, Then Win.

The second period had run to 19:53 before the Wings managed to tie the score when Sid Abel took a double pass from Carl Liscombe and Eddie Wares and drove past Goalie Paul Goodman.

There was little excitement in the third period until Art Wiebe was sent to the penalty box at the 10 minute mark for tripping Liscombe. Then the Wings went to work on the weakened Chicagoans, and Wares soon counted the winning goal when he took a pass from Abel and beat Goodman with a low, whistling shot. The Wings beat off all Chicago attacks after that to improve their hold on second place in the league standings. The Hawks still are fourth.

DEW RIDES TWO WINNERS TO TIE TAYLOR AT 285

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Dec. 29 (AP).—Jockey Earl Dew galloped back into a tie with Walter Lee Taylor in their contest for 1940 national riding honors today by piloting two horses to victory at the Agua Caliente track.

Dew squared the contest at 285 race victories apiece when he piloted Kai-Shen to the tape first in the third race and then beat the field on Magnanimous in the substituted ninth and final of the scheduled 10 race program. Taylor, who is at Tropical Park in Florida, was idle today.

Mounted in each of the nine races run today, Dew scored two first places, two seconds, one fourth, two fifths, and one seventh. He was left at the post on Attorney's Best in the fourth race.

EIGHT DERBIES WILL BE HELD IN GARFIELD PARK

Lists Close Jan. 12 at Midnight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The twenty-fourth Silver Skates Derbies, annually sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be held in Garfield park Jan. 18 and 19. The entry lists now are open. All boys and girls may compete in one of the eight Derbies if entry is submitted before midnight Jan. 12.

The Silver Skates races, sanctioned by the Illinois Skating association, are the oldest sports promotion of their kind in the nation. The first Derby, which was limited to boys, was held on Jan. 28, 1917, and the same senior event for men has been held continuously since that year with the exception of 1932 when a mild winter and consequent lack of ice on the park lagoons forced cancelation.

Tremendous Growth Noted.

In 24 years the meet has grown from this one event, which attracted 300 contestants, to a program of eight Derbies in which several thousand boys and girls compete. As interest increased the program of races was enlarged. The second race for boys, for example, was started in 1919 and this became known as the junior division with the establishment of the intermediate class in 1921. In this same year the first race was held for girls and a second class was created in 1922.

With the establishment of the girls' intermediate class in 1937 the present status was reached, altho a fourth age group for girls will be created next year if the girls' junior group is sufficiently large this year to warrant it. There are five Derbies for boys and the last of these, the boys' midget class, was set up in 1931. Since all competition centers on these eight divisions, here are the age classifications for these Derbies:

Men's senior—18 years of age and over.
Boys' intermediate—16 and 17 years of age.
Boys' junior—14 and 15 years of age.
Boys' juvenile—12 and 13 years of age.
Boys' midget—Under 12 years of age.
Girls' senior—18 years of age and over.
Girls' intermediate—16 and 17 years of age.
Girls' junior—Under 16 years of age.

Novices Have Equal Chance.

Silver Skates are the magnets which annually draw these hundreds of boys and girls. Many of them, of course, are novice skaters, but in the lower age groups inexperience is not necessarily a handicap since all are just learning competitive speed skating. The awards in these Derbies are identical with those in the older groups.

Each of the eight champions will be awarded a pair of silver skates. Chromium and bronze skates are the prizes for second and third places, respectively, in each derby. In addition to these 24 pairs of skates, silver medals are presented to those boys and girls who finish fourth in each championship race and bronze medals are the awards for fifth and sixth places. This sixth place award will be made this year for the first time.

Bronze Buttons for All.

The team scoring the most points in the championship will receive the Walter Eckersall memorial trophy for one year. This huge silver award becomes the permanent property of the club which wins it three times. It is the second cup, since the Catholic Youth Organization skaters secured possession two years ago.

The fundamental attraction for the youngsters probably is the bronze button given to all skaters. Then, too, each winner of a preliminary race receives a gold medal. Annually at least 200 of these are given away. More than 60,000 bronze buttons have been presented to Chicagoland skaters since 1917.

Finally, the park, playground, or club which has the largest number of skaters report for its preliminary events is awarded a silver trophy.

The distances at which the eight derbies will be skated are as follows:

Event.	Preliminary.	Championship.
Men's senior	1 mile	2 miles
Boys' intermediate	half mile	1 mile
Boys' junior	440 yards	half mile
Boys' juvenile	220 yards	440 yards
Boys' midget	110 yards	220 yards
Girls' senior	half mile	1 mile
Girls' intermediate	440 yards	half mile
Girls' junior	220 yards	440 yards

COACHES FAVOR RULES CHANGES TO AID OFFENSE

Also Hear Ohio State Is to Sign Paul Brown.

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Rules experts among the nation's football coaches went into a huddle today and came up with nine recommendations for changes in the game based on giving the offense a break.

At the same time headquarters for the coaches' convention and the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association buzzed with rumors linking Paul Brown, Massillon, O., High school coach, with the vacant Ohio State coaching berth, and Tuss McLaughry of Brown and Francis Schmidt, late of Ohio State, with the Dartmouth job, which Red Blaik left a week ago to switch to Army.

That Fourth Down Pass.

Only two of the changes recommended by the coaches' rules committee were not directly aimed at helping the offensive and thus building up spectator interest. Chief of the approved suggestions, all of which were to be presented to the N. C. A. A. rules committee meeting in Pine Valley, N. J., Wednesday, was to change the rule on a fourth down incompleted pass over the opponents' goal line.

At present, such a pass is ruled a touchback, and the ball is brought out to the opponents' 20 yard line where they take over with a first down. The coaches suggested that in the future such a pass be treated the same as if it had occurred in the field of play and not be ruled a touchback.

"Thus," explained Lou Little of Columbia, the committee's chairman, "the ball would go to the opposing team at the point from which the pass was thrown. This will tend to improve offense, because teams, once they have penetrated inside the opponents' 20 yard line, do not like to take the chance of being pushed back to that point if a pass into the end zone fails."

Suggest Other Changes.

In addition to the fourth down goal line pass, other proposed changes approved were:

1—Widen the goal posts by six feet, making them 24 feet 6 inches, thereby encouraging field goal kicking. In this connection, the committee recommended that the goal posts be left on the end line, ten yards back of the goal line.

2—Permission for a back to hand the ball in any direction behind the line of scrimmage, provided the exchange is from hand to hand [not a pass] and that the men on the line of scrimmage who may handle the ball must face the goal line they are defending before receiving the ball.

Would Use Dry Ball.

3—A more liberal substituting rule, permitting any player to reënter a game once in any quarter

4—In case of a muddy or wet field, in order to facilitate play and to provide a dry ball for play, three balls should be used, with the two not in play to be put in condition by attendants on each side line.

5—In order to stop the practice of intentionally kicking the ball out of bounds on the kickoff, such a kickoff should be put in play on the 40 yard line of the receiving team, instead of the 35 yard line at present. It also was recommended to bring back the kickoff from a tee.

Favor Numbering System.

6—Placing an extra line of different color three yards outside of the side lines and the end lines to keep the boundaries clear of substitutes and coaches.

7—A uniform system of numbering all players and positions in order to aid spectators, newspaper men and officials, and some system of identifying various officials. One suggestion was to have all ends numbered in series ending with the numeral 1, all guards 2, all tackles 3, etc.

8—A stricter interpretation of the rule passed last year regarding ineligible men going down the field on forward passes.

Shortly afterward some of the players complained of nausea and were sent to the hotel.

McCracken listed Herman Schafer, Jay McCreary, Ed Denton, Ervin Swanson, and John Logan as most seriously affected.

Mind and Hand.

Who knows the solid beauty toiling hands
Can shape from images within the brain,
Has an advantage which at once commands
The right of way to goals he hopes to gain.
For mind, devoid of executing tools
To build its monuments of lasting fame,
Is powerless of good and men are fools
Who disregard the skill of hands and claim
That it can make a thought vibration rise
Unto a thing of beauty one may see
And fondly touch and measure as the prize
Of cogitation's strange reality.
For the one think, another build the thought,
Yet thru combining is the image wrought.

Leo to Meet St. Michael in Fenwick Final

Leo and St. Michael will meet tonight at 9 o'clock for the championship in the second annual junior Catholic preseason basketball tournament sponsored by Fenwick High school. Preceding the title game, St. Patrick and Mount Carmel will meet to decide third place.

Leo earned the right for a title berth by turning back St. Patrick, 34 to 26, last night, while St. Michael defeated Mount Carmel, 30 to 25.

A last quarter spurt led by Pete Kuhn, one of the outstanding players in the meet, assured victory for St. Michael.

Kuhn, who was an all-tournament selection in the recent St. George preseason meet, registered 18 points against Mount Carmel to bring his total for three games to 37.

Leo's attack against St. Patrick was paced by Tom Ruane, a guard who chalked up 16 points. He made 14 during the first half. The south siders were out in front, 26 to 13, at half time. Lineups:

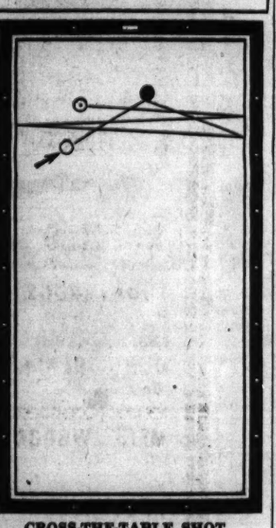
Shots of the Stars



CROSS-THE-TABLE SHOT.

[This is the first of a series of sketches on the specialty shots which competitors in the world three cushion billiards tournament, opening Jan. 13, in Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, are expected to play.]

The magnificent success Willie Hoppe enjoyed in last year's tournament, in which he rolled up the unusual record of 20 victories in as many matches, can be traced largely to his adeptness in completing the cross-the-table and backup shots. This was particularly true of the New York veteran's use of the former maneuver, especially in many close matches.

The cross-the-table shot, as executed by the champion, is best appreciated when it is made plain that the "leaves" [the position of the balls before the shot is attempted] are considered safeties by the opposing player. An extremely delicate touch of right hand English is used in stroking the cue ball, but it becomes a "dead ball" when leaving the third rail.

Harry Meli Again Wins in Lincoln Park Shoot

Harry Meli won the Lincoln park challenge cup trap shoot event for the second consecutive week with a score of 49 out of 50 at the Lincoln Park Gun club yesterday. Meli also won in class A A with 50 straight. R. P. Proffitt won in class A with 46; Harry Russell in class B with 45; and Floyd Millis in class C with 45.

MARSHALL TO MEET GREENE IN MATCH TONIGHT

Franklin Bout Awaits if Carl Comes Thru.

Frank Greene, 1939 north west side sectional Golden Gloves light heavyweight winner, faces the hardest fight of his career in a 10 round bout against Carl Vinciquerra in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. If victorious, Vinciquerra, 1936 Chicagoland Golden Gloves 175 pound title holder, will earn a match with Lem Franklin, also a Golden Gloves graduate, in the Coliseum Jan. 24.

Altho Greene scored a surprise victory over Billy Gillespie on Dec. 2, Carl is expected to win. Vinciquerra is undefeated in nine starts during 1940 and he is not likely to do any coasting in his last battle of the year. At the same time, he has not suffered a defeat in 13 appearances in the Marigold arena, his record there being 10 victories, eight by knockouts, and three draw decisions.

Sammy Secreet, Pittsburgh 155 pound boxer, is paired with Tony Reno in a six round semi-final. Billy Pierce, Milwaukee fighter, who recently won over Reno, will appear in a four round preliminary event against Bobby Berger. Additional matches of four rounds will bring together Tony Vino, Davenport, Ia., middleweight, and Milt Kell, and Frank McBride, south side 160 pounder, and Mike Edwards, who formerly fought as Sherman Edwards.

Oki Shikina, Japanese heavyweight, and one of the cleverest wrestlers in the business, will oppose Pete Schu of Argo, Ill., in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. . . . Ted Toneman, who refereed the heavyweight mat encounter between Jim Londos and Ed [Strangler] Lewis several years ago, will return to officiate at the engagement involving Maurice Tillet, the French Angel, and Frank Sexton, the old Ohio State football player, in Ashland auditorium Friday. . . . Tony Zale, middleweight champion, will receive 35 per cent of the receipts for a 10 round nontitle fight with Tony [Cianciola] Martin in Milwaukee auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Martin will collect 20 per cent.

Marshall Five Team to Beat in Prep Meet

Tourney Facts

GAMES TODAY.
Quarter-Finals.
Austin vs. Manley—3 p. m.
Calumet vs. Du Sable—4 p. m.
Marshall vs. Tilden—7 p. m.
Kelvyn Park vs. Tuley—8 p. m.

Marshall appears to be the team to beat in the University of Chicago's annual holiday high school basketball tournament, which will swing into the quarter-final round today in the Midway fieldhouse.

The west siders have raced thru their first two games in impressive fashion, running up the highest score of the tourney to date when they eliminated Harrison, 56 to 38, in a second round game Saturday, and coming up with the tourney's high individual scorer in Herbert Siegel, who got 23 points against Harrison.

Marshall encounters Tilden in a quarter-final game tonight at 7 o'clock, following games at 3 and 4 o'clock between Austin and Manley in the first encounter and Calumet and Du Sable in the second. Kelvyn Park and Tuley wind up the day's program at 8 o'clock.

The Austin and Marshall fives are in separate brackets and may meet in the deciding game.

LOYOLA DEFEATS UNIVERSITY HIGH IN 2 OVERTIMES

The visitors rallied in the final quarter to tie the count at 34-all. Each team scored 5 points in the first three minute overtime period. In the second extra session Jim Doyle and Jack Dee connected for baskets to give the home club its victory.

Loyola will act as host to a team from Father Flanagan's Boys Town, Neb., at 8 o'clock tonight.

SEA GULLS WIN, 6-1.

Wildcat, Irish Five Will Clash Tomorrow Night

Northwestern and Notre Dame will resume their basketball rivalry when they meet in the annual New Year's eve game in the Evanston high school gymnasium tomorrow night. The game will be the 27th in a series which finds the Irish holding an edge of 14 victories to 11 for the Wildcats, and one tie.

Few athletic rivalries have produced as many thrilling encounters. Sixteen of the 26 games played during the last 13 years have been decided by margins of four points or less. Three games were decided by one point, three by two points and five by three points. The tie game resulted when the official scrorer's error was not discovered until too late to resume play.

Northwestern has won two out of three games this season while Notre Dame has won three out of five. The Wildcats won from Wabash and Pitt while dropping a one-point decision to Butler. Notre Dame's victories were rung up against Kalamazoo, Illinois Wesleyan and Michigan. The Irish lost to Wisconsin and Illinois.

70 YARD SHOTGUN MAKES PATTERN WITHOUT HOLES

Throws 46 to 76 Pellets Into 30 Inch Circle.

BY BOB BECKER.

If a crow hunter wants to be certain of bagging the wary birds at 70 yards, a long distance for shotgun shooting, he doesn't have to stretch his gun and miss providing he uses the comparatively new combination for long range shooting—the Winchester Magnum 12 gauge shotgun and shell loaded with 1⅝ ounces of shot.

Altho we were inclined to be a little skeptical about the Magnum making good patterns at 70 or more yards, tests have convinced us it's the answer to the hunter's wish for a shotgun that really can make clean kills well beyond the range of ordinary shotguns firing shells with average or standard loads.

Hold Above Target.

The tests prove conclusively that if a shooter knows how to lead his birds at long range and remembers to hold a few inches above his target, the Magnum can take care of those sly crows that swing wide of the hunter or fly arrogantly above him and out of average range.

When we targeted the Winchester Magnum pump gun at 70 and 75 yards, the targets we used were 30 inch circles around the outline of a crow.

An average 12 gauge shell, loaded with 3¼ grams of powder and 1⅛ ounces of No. 4 shot placed 16 pellets in the target at 70 yards. A crow could easily slip thru this pattern.

But the Magnum shell registered 46 to 76 No. 4 pellets in the 30 inch circle and produced an amazingly heavy pattern.

Snow was falling and visibility was poor on the day we did our targeting. At 75 yards it was not easy to see the crow outline on the white cardboard. The 12 gauge shotgun didn't find this silhouette with its medium load, only 12 scattered pellets reaching the 30 inch circle.

Four Kills at 75 Yards.

Despite a strong, gusty wind that seriously interfered with shooting, affecting every shot charge and keeping all patterns below average, the fewest numbers of shot pellets the Magnum threw into the 30 inch circle at 75 yards was 43, including four that pierced the crow silhouette.

Exhaustive factory tests of the Magnum, involving the firing of hundreds of rounds of ammunition for patterns, show it is capable of putting 66 No. 4 shot pellets into a 30 inch circle even at 80 yards, and between 66 and 76 at 75 yards. The dense pattern gives the hunter plenty of coverage.

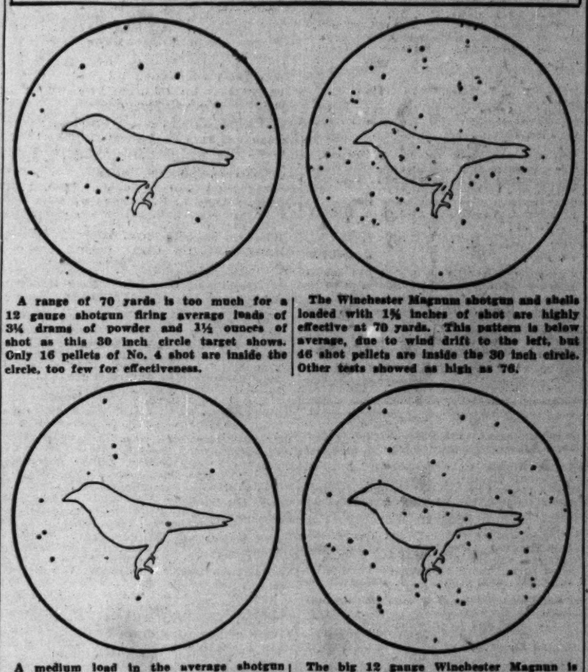
The Answer to Hunters' Prayers



A range of 70 yards is too much for a 12 gauge shotgun firing average loads of 3¼ drams of powder and 1⅛ ounces of shot as this 30 inch circle target shows. Only 16 pellets of No. 4 shot are inside the circle, too few for effectiveness.

The Winchester Magnum shotgun and shells loaded with 1⅝ inches of shot are highly effective at 70 yards. This pattern is below average, due to wind drift to the left, but 46 shot pellets are inside the 30 inch circle. Other tests showed as high as 76.

A medium load in the average shotgun with the target 75 yards distant makes a thin and uneven pattern. Only 12 pellets were placed inside the 30 inch circle. The wide spacing of the pellets gives all the advantage to the arrogant crow.

The big 12 gauge Winchester Magnum is still going strong at 75 yards. Loaded with 1⅝ ounces of shot, the weapon delivers some 60 pellets inside the 30 inch circle. Even on a windy day, 43 pellets were inside the circle, four inside the crow outline.

RANGERS WIN FROM MAPLE LEAFS, 3 TO 2

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—The Colvilles and the Patricks tonight led the New York Rangers to a 3 to 2 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a fast National Hockey league game before 15,562, Madison Square Garden's best crowd of the season.

Conny Smythe, Leafs' manager, made himself automatically liable to a fine of $100 for walking out on the ice in the first period to argue over penalties after a fist fight broke out.

In the fight, Phil Watson, knocked down by Lex Chisholm, came up with fists flying and got in a couple of quick punches before Wally Stanowski jumped at the Ranger center.

WESTERN SWIM STARS WIN FROM EASTERN TEAM

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP).—Led by several stars from Michigan's intercollegiate champions, a picked team of western swimmers swamped an eastern squad, 130 to 54, in the annual east-west relays here today.

The westerners got away to an early lead when D. Burton and Fred Herr, both of Michigan, finished one-two in the 50 yard free style and after that first event they never were headed.

The west team now has three victories in the relays, the featured competitive event of the annual international aquatic forum. The east has won twice, and once the squads tied.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 29 (AP).—John Munski, a young miler just out of the University of Missouri, got away to a good start in the scramble for Glenn Cunningham's vacated throne today by winning the mile run in the seventh annual Sugar bowl meet in Municipal stadium. He shook off the fast finishing Walter Mehl of Madison, Wis., to win by a couple of yards in 4 minutes 15.2 seconds.

Chuck Fenske, former Wisconsin runner who dominated the mile during most of last season, was several yards in back of Mehl, third in the five man field.

Gregory Rice, Notre Dame graduate, ran away from the field to win the 3 mile in 14:16.4. Fred Wolcott of Rice institute took the 120 yard high hurdles in 14.4, Eugene Littler of the University of Nebraska the 440 yard run in 48.2, and Campbell Kane of Indiana university the ½ mile in 1:53.5.

REVEAL STAFF SHORTAGES IN STATE ASYLUMS

Doctors and Nurses Both Are Lacking.

'Springfield, Ill., Dec. 29 [Special].—A medical staff deficiency of 35 per cent and a nursing staff shortage of 26 per cent is revealed by a recently completed survey of Illinois' nine hospitals for the treatment of mental cases. The deficiency varies from 9 per cent at the Elgin hospital to 64 per cent at Alton.

The American Psychiatric association recommends one physician for every 150 patients and one nurse for every eight patients. The Illinois personnel deficiencies are based on these recommendations, figured against 30,000 patients.

Two Reasons Given.

Two reasons are given by the state department of welfare for the existing situation. The first is lack of funds and the second is lack of men having the specialized training required for certain positions on the various staffs. The department now is looking for clinical directors and pathologists for all state hospitals.

The nine hospitals have a total of 134 officers and employés and 2,839 nurses. This is an average of 230 patients for each officer and employé and 10.8 patients for each nurse.

The Alton hospital, with 421 patients for each officer and employé, has the heaviest load. Peoria with 287 is next and then come Kankakee with 281; East Moline, 276; Jacksonville, 269; Anna, 246; Manteno, 230; Chicago, 182, and Elgin 167.

The Nursing Load.

Alton also has the heaviest nursing load with 13.6 patients for each nurse. Elgin, with the lightest staff load, has the second heaviest nursing load with 12.2 patients for each nurse. Peoria has 11.6 patients; Chicago, 11.5; Jacksonville, 10.9; East Moline, 10.4; Kankakee and Anna, 10.2, and Manteno, 9.4.

The legislature appropriated $15,868,848 for the operation and maintenance of the nine hospitals for the 1939-41 biennium. Of this sum, $7,944,136 was for salaries and wages. Welfare department officials had asked for an additional million dollars in salary appropriations in the hope of being able to employ needed physicians and nurses.

The million dollar additional salary request was refused by S. L. Nudelman, the late Gov. Henry Horner's finance director, on the plea that the grant could not be made and still keep the entire state budget in balance. The total state budget appropriation for the biennium was $490,278,253.

Six Insurance Firms Get Top AAA Benefits

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The agriculture department reported to congress today that a half dozen insurance companies received $1,602,188 in government farm benefit payments during 1938.

These large land-holding concerns were among more than 16,000 firms and individuals who collected a total of $38,422,685 in agricultural adjustment payments of $1,000 or more. A payment of $69,210 was made to the Mississippi state penitentiary at Parchman.

5,248,796 Payments in All.

Secretary Claude Wickard said 5,248,796 companies and individuals received payments. Altho the statute since has been amended, the Agricultural Adjustment act once required the department to transmit to congress the names of all persons who received $1,000 for agricultural, range, and naval stores conservation programs. It did not cover payments from a $212,000,000 parity appropriation and a $45,000,000 sugar benefit fund.

The report showed that 113 payments in excess of $10,000 were made in 1938, but that about 23 per cent of all payments were less than $20. Another 23 per cent were from $20 to $40.

PREDICTS WAR WILL CUT FARM EXPORTS MORE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The director of foreign agricultural relations, L. A. Wheeler, predicted today that United States farm exports would shrink further if war continued. He said agricultural exports faced a long time "problem of adjusting themselves to the limitations of what appears likely to be a profoundly changed world environment."

"One of the most portentous aspects of the war situation," he said, "is the position in which American agriculture may be left in the years after the war has ended. In greater or less degree, accumulated wealth in the European importing countries is being dissipated in the war. The recovery of purchasing power may therefore be a long and laborious process."

POSTAL AGREES TO END CERTAIN WIRE CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The justice department announced tonight that Postal Telegraph, Inc., had agreed to void existing contracts for exclusive business privileges and to refrain from making such contracts in the future.

A civil decree will be filed in federal District court in New York tomorrow, the department said, ending a suit brought against the company under the Sherman antitrust law in 1937.

OLDS DECLARES STEEL SUPPLIES ARE ADEQUATE

Irving S. Olds.

Irving S. Olds, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, yesterday said that the nation's defense effort had not been delayed by any shortage of steel and no such delays from that cause were expected by the industry.

Present ingot capacity of the industry is about 60 per cent larger than the peak production in 1917—during the world war—and approximately 30 per cent larger than the ingot production of 1929, he said in a year end statement.

Open hearth ingot production dropped 15 points to 80 per cent of capacity last week, compared with 75½ per cent for last year's Christmas week, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. An upturn is scheduled this week.

LOANS ON WHEAT IN WAREHOUSES GET NO RENEWAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today it would not extend grower loans on unredeemed 1940 wheat and barley stored in commercial warehouses when government loans on those commodities expire.

The corporation will take delivery of such grain as full payment of the grower-borrower's obligation. Latest reports show that about 221,000,000 bushels of 1940 loan wheat were stored in warehouses on Dec. 17.

Grower loans on grain stored on the farm will be extended, the corporation said, in areas where it is known the grain will not deteriorate.

DESTROYERS.

I have been thinking about buying some stock in the Bath Iron Works. I would like to know what kind of ships this company constructs and whether it has made a profit in recent years.—O. F.

Answer: Bath Iron Works corporation is concentrating its facilities on the production of destroyers and other combat ships for the United States navy. It has received approximately 180 million dollars' worth of national defense contracts.

It also builds patrol boats, quarantine tugs, lighthouse tenders, and other vessels for the coast guard; tugs and fishing trawlers for commercial use, and yachts for private use.

Net income of the company in the first six months this year increased to $783,419, equal to $1.87 a share, against $206,146, or 49 cents a share, in the first half of 1939. The earnings record in recent years follows:

	Net income	Earned per share.
1935	$301,185	$0.76
1936	228,831	0.58
1937	20,419	0.05
1938	139,745	0.31
1939	660,703	1.58

No cash dividend was paid by the company until 1940. Payments this year totaled 75 cents a share on the 418,974 shares of $1 par common stock outstanding.

The company's shipyard is situated in Bath, Me., on the Kennebec river.

SAVINGS BONDS.

What law authorized the federal treasury to issue savings bonds? When were they first sold? What is the significance of the different series in which the bonds were sold? What is the maximum amount that any one person can own?—F. L.

Answer: United States savings bonds are issued by the treasury under the authority of an amendment to the second Liberty bond act of 1917 adopted by congress in 1935. The bonds were first offered in March, 1935.

The bonds are designated in series according to the calendar year in which they were issued, as follows: 1935, series A; 1936, series B; 1937 and 1938, series C; 1939 and 1940, series D.

The law makes it unlawful for any one person to own more than $10,000 maturity value of savings bonds issued during any one calendar year. Thus, a maximum of $60,000 of the bonds may be held by an individual—$10,000 issued in each of the six years the bonds have been sold.

NET OPERATING INCOME OF RAILS BEST SINCE 1936

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP)—J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, estimated today that 1940 net railway operating income of class one roads would be $650,000,000, the largest since 1936.

Such a total would be a return of 2.49 per cent of the roads' property investment and would exceed last year's income by $61,000,000.

ARMOUR PROFIT AND SALES RISE IN FISCAL YEAR

Net Income Placed at $8,307,429.

Armour & Co., meat packer, yesterday issued its annual report showing increases in both profits and sales for the fiscal year ended Nov. 2.

George A. Eastwood issues report.

Consolidated net income of the company and its subsidiaries, including Armour & Co. of Delaware, was $8,307,429, before deductions for guaranteed dividends on the preferred stock of the Delaware corporation, about in line with recent estimates. On the same basis profit in the preceding year was $7,012,057. Armour & Co. of Illinois is the parent company.

Illinois Unit Has Profit.

"Of the net profit, $358,012 was earned by the Illinois company and its subsidiaries, excluding the Delaware company, this being the first year since 1936 that the Illinois company had shown any earnings," George A. Eastwood, president, said in his letter to stockholders.

Dividends on the Delaware company's preferred stock have been paid regularly, the 1940 year payment totaling $3,746,890. No payments have been made on the Illinois company's preferred since Jan. 2, 1938, and the last payment on the Illinois company's common stock was on Dec. 15, 1937.

Eastwood said that the company's aim in following its present dividend policy is to maintain and improve the working capital "to the end that eventually the Delaware preferred stock can be retired."

Sales Up 2.6 Per Cent.

"Our volume of business, both in tonnage and in dollar value, showed gains, reflecting an increase in hog receipts which was of benefit in reducing unit costs in our plants and in our sales division," Eastwood said.

Sales totaled $733,949,084, an increase of 2.6 per cent over volume of the preceding year, Eastwood said. He reported that the operating profit was equal to one-ninth of a cent per pound of product, which he termed "less than reasonable."

Eastwood reported that the federal income tax liability of Armour & Co., and subsidiaries for the fiscal years 1935 and 1936 have been determined and settled "on what we consider a very satisfactory basis."

11 MONTH STORE SALES RUN 7.1 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store trade in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district during the first 11 months of 1940 was 7.1 per cent ahead of 1939 and the Christmas trade the best since 1929, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Chicago stores sold 5.9 per cent more during the 11 months than in the corresponding period last year.

Preliminary figures indicate that Detroit stores had the largest sales gain of any city in the seventh district this year.

Store stocks at the end of November were 2 per cent less than a year earlier. Chicago stores, however, had expanded their stocks on Nov. 30 to 8.6 per cent above a year ago.

70 BILLIONS TAX FREE SECURITIES REPORTED OUTSTANDING JUNE 30

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—Studying the possibility of removing tax exemptions from future issues of governmental securities, the treasury reported today that $70,200,000,000 of tax exempt securities were outstanding on June 30. The administration has favored removal of the present exemptions on federal issues, with the expectation that state and local units would take similar steps.

Of the total outstanding, the treasury found that $54,800,000,000 were held by the public. The remainder is held by governmental units, reserve banks, governmental trust funds, sinking funds, and investment funds.

It was estimated that $23,600,000,000 of the amount held privately was wholly tax exempt.

Italy Buys Twenty Millions of U. S. Securities in Month

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The treasury reported today that Italy bought $20,260,000 of American securities during the four weeks ended Oct. 2, accounting for nearly one-half of the total of such purchases by foreigners.

The net inflow of capital into the United States was $53,542,000 during the four week period and sent the total of short term foreign funds here to an all time high of $3,719,000,000. The actual increase in short term funds was $52,076,000.

The major increases reported were: Canada, $14,853,000; Japan, $9,399,000; China, $8,015,000; Sweden, $7,295,000; Philippines, $6,514,000; Argentina, $6,182,000; Mexico, $4,680,000; Finland, $2,788,000; Germany, $2,619,000.

LACK OF SKILLED LABOR GROWING, M'NUTT REPORTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28 (AP).—Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, said today that increased activity in private industry had almost exhausted local resources of skilled labor.

"There is a general tightening of the labor market with the supply of available workers in a number of skilled defense occupations almost exhausted in some localities," he said in a statement.

"With more and more defense contracts reaching the construction stage, manufacturing centers are busier than they have been since 1929. Nonindustrial areas also report unusual activity as the result of government construction of military camps and airports."

McNutt said that machinists, tool and die makers, skilled metal workers, and aircraft and shipbuilding craftsmen were particularly scarce. The supply of semi-skilled and unskilled labor, however, is adequate in most localities, he said.

Nazi Army Masses on Bulgarian and Jugo-Slavian Borders—Greeks Strike Nearer Valona

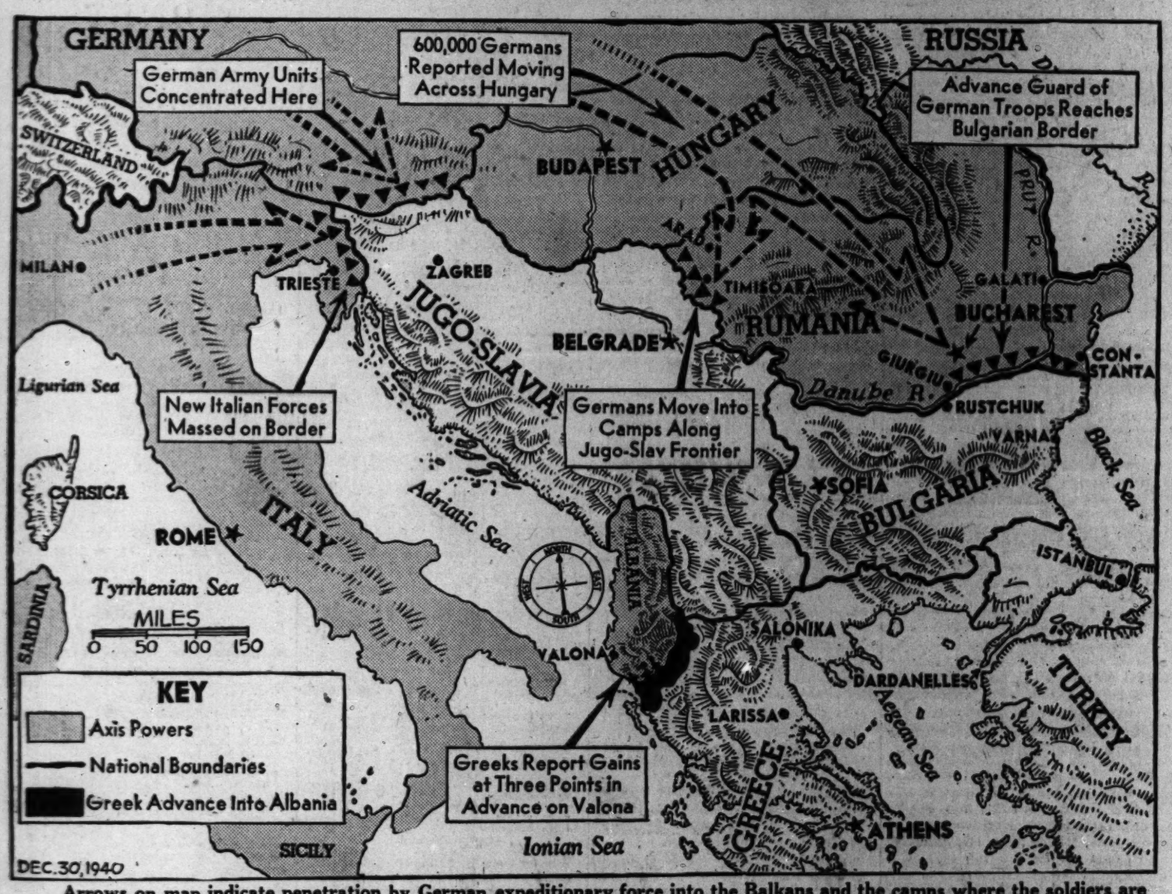
Italian prisoners, many with their heads shaved, line up for food at a Greek internment camp. This, according to the censor who passed the picture, is the life led by thousands of Mussolini's soldiers captured in Albania.



Arrows on map indicate penetration by German expeditionary force into the Balkans and the camps where the soldiers are being stationed, and also the Italian movements of troops toward Jugo-Slavia, as reported in dispatches Saturday. In Albania, the Greeks were reported threatening the approaches to Valona. (Stories on pages 1 and 2.)

[Acme Cablephoto.]

A column of Italian prisoners being led away from the ruins of Sidi Barrani, Egypt, shown in background. These are a few of the thousands the British claim to have captured in driving Italians out of western Egypt.

Children born in China bring quaint dolls on visit to Chicago. Seated are Mrs. James M. Avent and her daughter, Jacqueline, 10. Standing are Mayna, 8 (left), and James Jr., 7.
